THEY WERE WEALTHY, BRIEFLY

Youngsters Find Treasure In Attic Of New Residence

Two 11-year-olds found a treasure in the attic of their new Marinwood home yesterday.

But their mother insisted on turning it over to the sheriff's department.

Mrs. Harriet Brindley told deputies her son, Michael King, and Rondalyn Brindley, her husband's daughter by a previous marriage, had found the money in a home they have rented three weeks.

Mrs. Brindley said the youngsters found the paper sack just inside a small entry hole leading from a bedroom to the attic. It was the only object in the attic, she said.

The previous occupant of the home, R. G. Sowell, M.D., moved to Southern California the day before she and her family moved into the home, Mrs. Brindley said.

Accompanied by Michael, Mrs. Brindley took the paper sack to the sheriff's department yesterday afternoon.

Inside the sack, deputies said, were 100 five dollar bills, 150 one dollar bills, and 40 silver half dollars.

Mrs. Brindley was told that if the owner does not appear in six months, she can claim the money.

Nuclear Fresh Water Plant For East Bay?

A nuclear desalinization plant may be built on the east side of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge if a change in the San Francisco Bay master plan, tentatively approved by the Bay Area Conservation and Development Commission Thursday, is adopted.

A commission spokesman said yesterday the proposed zoning of the Point Molate Navy fuel depot north of the bridge has been left open as a possible site for the nuclear-fueled plant.

The idea has been under study for more than a year, John Harnett, chief engineer of the East Bay Municipal Utility District, told commissioners Thursday. But he added there are no specific plans to build the plant.

Harnett said the utility district, which supplies only water, favors the zoning change so the district will not be frozen out of a bay location if and when it decides to go ahead with construction.

A public hearing on the plan will be held Friday at 10 a.m. in the Richmond City Council chambers.

Paycheck Bite Bigger Monday

Collections of the 10 per cent income tax surcharge which President Johnson signed into law on June 28 will begin Monday through increased withholding of taxes from wages and salaries.

The additional tax must be deducted from paychecks received after July 13 even though the money was earned before that date.

Compromise Reached On Bagley Span Bill

Marin would get one new member instead of two on the board of directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District under a compromise agreed upon yesterday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael), sponsor of proposed legislation for the bridge.

The compromise would also cut additional members from San Francisco to one. Bagley had proposed two.

Sonoma County would receive an extra representative under the compromise by Bagley and Sen. Randolph Collier (D-Yreka).

Collier, influential chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, called Bagley's first proposal "unfair" because it would discriminate against the northern counties in the six-county Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Bagley's bill started out in the local government committee because of fears that Collier's friendship with northern counties bridge directors would mean death to the bill. Collier had the bill transferred to his committee.

If the compromise bill passed, the board would include nine members from San Francisco; three each from Marin and Sonoma; and one each from Del Norte, Mendocino and Napa counties.

The bill also provides that contracts for work in excess of $5,000 must be open to bidding and that there be an independent audit of the district's operations.

Spokesmen for the district are expected to appear Monday to oppose the bill.

No New Leads Found In Kidnap Search

Borst is charged with kidnapping a 28-year-old Novato woman with intent to commit robbery Tuesday, with kidnapping her two sons, 1 and 5, and with raping her by threat of force.

Crying Hijacker Surrenders Jetliner With 47 On Board

Senator Tells Of Menace

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Delta Airlines jet with 47 persons aboard made it safely to Houston today after the flight engineer talked a pistol-wielding former mental patient out of hijacking the flight to Cuba.

The Convair 880 four-engine jet made an emergency landing last night in Miami after the gunman put down his chrome-plated .45 caliber automatic and broke into sobs in the cockpit.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., was among the passengers. No one was hurt.

CAPITAL OFFENSE

U.S. Commissioner Edward Swan set bond for Richards at $250,000 and scheduled a preliminary hearing for Wednesday.

Officials at the Ohio State Hospital in Columbus said Richards had been "in and out" of the institution between July 14, 1958, and Aug. 31, 1959.

The attempted hijacking began in the skies over Nashville, Tenn., last evening, as Flight 977 was en route non-stop from Baltimore to Houston.

Witnesses said a man left his seat to go to the restroom. Returning, he brandished the pistol and grabbed stewardess Elaine Haws around the neck, they added.

EASTLAND TELLS

Eastland said he got up to go the restroom and encountered the armed man.

"I heard a man say, 'I'll kill you. Get back. I'm a dying man.' So I sat down," the senator said.

Eastland said the man forced the stewardess to accompany him to the cockpit door and knock. Then they entered.

"That gun looked big enough to crawl into," said Capt. Forest Dines of Chicago, the pilot. The gunman ordered the flight diverted to Cuba, Dines added.

"My engineer started talking to him and established a rapport with him," Dines said.

COLORFUL BANDIT MAKES GETAWAY

Youngster Almost Interrupts Holdup Of Larkspur Safeway's Woman Cashier

A colorfully clad, unshaven armed robber held up a cashier at the Safeway Store on Bon Air Road in Larkspur yesterday afternoon, escaping with more than $1,000.

The cashier, Phyllis Ann Newman of 25 Corrillo Drive, San Rafael, told police that the man, who "seemed nervous," laid a pistol down on the counter of the cashier's booth but kept his hand on the butt of the gun.

The bandit kept repeating, "I don't want to hurt you. I don't want to shoot you. Just give me the money," Mrs. Newman told police.

Mrs. Newman gave him money from the safe in the booth, and the robber told her also to hand over the money in a cash drawer, which she did. She said he put the money in a paper bag. He took both the currency and coins but no checks, she said.

Sally Jensen, 12-year-old daughter of Safeway manager, Virgil Jensen, walked up to the booth during the robbery, which occurred about 1:20 p.m., but did not realize what was happening. The girl was told by the robber, "Get away, kid."

The child watched the man run out of the store with the paper bag and said she saw him get into a white car and later drive east on Bon Air Road.

She and Mrs. Newman described the robber as about five feet six or eight inches tall, between 35 and 40 years old, with dark brown or black hair. They said he was wearing a bright orange sweater and a black baseball cap with orange letters on it. He had a day or two's growth of beard.

Larkspur Patrolman George Newman said that the store manager told him that more than $1,000 was taken but did not disclose the exact amount.

A man in a white car picked up in San Rafael soon after the robbery was definitely not the robber, the witnesses said.

Larkspur police said this was the first armed robbery in Larkspur in six or seven years.

Clifford Pours Cold Water On Cease-Fire Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford rejected today the idea of any immediate cease-fire in Vietnam.

Clifford said North Vietnam is redoubling its war effort rather than showing any reciprocal restraint in response to geographical restrictions on U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

The defense chief spoke with newsmen at planeside before leaving for his first close-up look at the war since assuming command at the Pentagon March 1. He will report his findings to President Johnson at a Honolulu conference late next week.

PERCY PLAN

Asked about a suggestion by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., for an immediate cease-fire during the Paris peace talks, Clifford said "there are a number of actions that are necessary before we reach that stage."

Obviously, he meant actions by the North Vietnamese, indicating a willingness to de-escalate their side of the war.

Clifford recalled that Johnson on March 31 restricted U.S. bombing to the southern part of North Vietnam to unfreeze a diplomatic stalemate and get preliminary peace talks started.

"He has indicated that he would be willing to cut back all the bombing in North Vietnam if we had some show of reciprocal restraint on the part of the North Vietnamese," Clifford said.

"They have to date refused to indicate any restraint on their part.

'OTHER EXTREME'

"In fact, they've gone to the other extreme, and instead of showing any restraint they have continued this very substantial buildup of additional men and material in South Vietnam."

However, he said "if North Vietnam should at some stage choose to engage in some act of restraint, then I'm sure the conferences could get down to

Fairfax Marathon Resolves Budget

Fairfax City Council battled its proposed 1968-69 budget for five-and-a-half hours last night and won.

After all pencils were worn to the nubs, the council expected no change in the current tax rate of $1.74 per $100 assessed valuation.

At the final unofficial tally, there was a proposed budget of $460,867, down $6,005 from the preliminary budget, and down $16,064 from the 1976-68 budget.

The session was spiced with the continuing debate over the merits of the city administrator system.

At the outset, Councilman Francis J. O'Connell made an abortive attempt to eliminate the job. "I see no need for a city administrator, the way the city is operating," he said.

City Clerk Frances Lestanguet was named interim administrator last month for a 90-day period, and O'Connell felt this arrangement was satisfactory.

He was quickly challenged on the grounds that the council had agreed when appointing Mrs. Lestanguet that it would have a public hearing within the 90 days on whether the job of city administrator should be eliminated.

At the end of the session, the council set a public hearing on the question at 8 p.m. Aug. 5 at the women's club.

Funds for the city administrator operation were left in the budget, but were cut $5,475 on the theory that if a new administrator were hired, there would be only about eight months left in the fiscal year, and a full year's funding wouldn't be needed.

Concilman Frank J. Egger, who has advocated combining the positions of city administrator and city planner, noted that the council had managed to "balance the budget" with the city administrator account included.

The city administrator job has been vacant since David J. Sumbardo resigned June 26.

At one point, Mayor Robert R. Souza suggested putting the issue on the ballot in November, and Councilman Adelaide P. Wilson said that would be "chickening out of making a decision."

Making the decision is the council's responsibility, she said. "You don't put it on the ballot when you hire a policeman or a fireman."

The council boosted the capital outlay budget $3,500 to $32,155 by adding $1,000 for undergrounding for street lighting along Bolinas Road from Broadway to Sherman Avenue, and $2,500 for lighting of the city tennis courts.

Among the major cuts from the budget were $4,000 from the contingency reserve, $1,000 from police overtime fund, with the understanding that feasibility of hiring an additional officer would be studied, $1,000 from the police vehicle account, $600, eliminating the city newsletter; $400 from the council convention fund and $2,900 from the street improvement budget.

Bronx Murders Suspect Turns Self In To Dixie Deputy Sheriff

GRAHAM, N.C. (UPI)—Deputy Sheriff Cliff Wilkinson, his ruddy face shaded by his straw hat, was ambling over to the Graham soda shop for a cup of coffee when the two Negroes stopped him.

"Do you know my brother?" said one of them, whom he recognized as Henry Rogers.

Wilkinson looked at the other man, who was wearing a strange orange derby hat and carrying a windbreak jacket. He looked frightened. "No," he said.

'HE'S THE ONE'

"Well, he's the one who shot those three Puerto Ricans in New York," said Henry.

"No," interrupted the slender Negro in the orange hat. "It was the Bronx."

"He wants to surrender to you," said the other.

Deputy Wilkinson looked at the man in the orange hat again, turned on his heel, said "come on," and all three headed back to the courthouse.

Thus did Deputy Wilkinson arrest Bobby Rogers, the Bronx building superintendent who is accused of shooting three Puerto Ricans in front of the apartment building where he lived and worked as its superintendent.

Rogers walked away before 200 policemen converged on the scene Thursday night, casually threw a .30 caliber rifle into a trash can, fixed his little orange hat firmly on his head and boarded a bus for home.

The 31-year-old Rogers arrived in Graham early yesterday and went to the home of Henry Rogers, one of his six brothers. He told Henry he killed the three Puerto Ricans —and accidentlly wounded a passerby —when they tried to invade his apartment, where three girls were staying. He killed them, Henry said, with their own gun. Henry said it took him all day to convince Bobby to surrender.

'DIDN'T THINK'

Deputy Wilkinson said that when Henry told him who Bobby was, "I didn't really think a whole heap about it. I didn't ask 'em anything or say anything. I just took 'em over to the courthouse and turned 'em over to the sheriff."

Late Friday night, Sheriff John Stockard took Rogers out of the Alamance County Jail to the courthouse, a block away, where he appeared before Superior Court Judge Leo Carr.

Carr warned Rogers of his rights, and then Rogers, obviously nervous, said "I'm willing to let them take me when they come down and take me back."

He signed a waiver of extradition. Two New York detectives were expected to leave tomorrow for Graham to pick him up. In the meantime, New York police were expected to rummage through the Pelham Bay Park dump for the rifle Rogers said he tossed away.

TROUBLE DESCRIBED

Henry said Bobby told him that when the trouble started Thursday, "our sister and his girlfriend and another girl was in the house. A couple of Puerto Ricans were trying to come through the window. His sister came and got him.

"He went back and another Puerto Rican blocked him off from the front stoop. He asked them to get off the stoop. The guy said he was going to kill him. The Puerto Rican stuck a gun in his stomach.

"He took it away from him and shot him. He shot all of them.

Abernathy Leaves Jail As 300 Chant Of 'Soul Power'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy walked out of the District of Columbia jail today, embraced his wife, and greeted 300 cheering supporters who had been waiting through the night with the cry "Soul Power."

Abernathy, leader of the Poor People's Campaign, was released at 6:28 a.m. PDT after serving a 20-day sentence for illegally demonstrating on Capitol Hill.

"My friends, we have just completed another chapter in the history of our struggle for justice and equality," Abernathy told his followers. "I know my having gone to ajil was not in vain. I know I was there for a noble cause."

Abernathy, carrying a sack, a box and a coat, had walked slowly from the red brick jail embracing a dozen male and female prison employees on his way out of the building.

He shook hands with two policemen at the jail door.

As the crowd surged forward, he gave his wife a big hug.

Abernathy then turned to the crowd, and pledged to use "all the energy in my body, and all the strength at my command" to make the dream of Martin Luther King a reality.

"There still is hunger in the land and we have made poverty visible," he said. "Never again will they be as invisible."

Campaign officials scheduled a mass rally tonight at a downtown Washington church to show support for Abernathy who was arrested on Capitol Hill the day Resurrection City was shut down by the government.

U.C. Regents Hit Budget Slashing

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California regents yesterday asked the state legislature to override cuts in the school's budget imposed by Gov. Ronald Reagan through his veto power.

There appeared virtually no chance the legislature would actually override the governor. Such a measure would require a two-thirds vote in both Assembly and Senate. The Senate, where the measure would have to originate, is split 20-20, on party lines, with Republican Lt. Gov. Robert Finch holding the deciding vote.

SPLIT VOTE

A resolution urging the legislature to act was passed 10-9 by the regents after university president Charles J. Hitch delivered a stark report on the budget. He said the quality of education has already suffered as a result of a money shortage.

"Budgetary stringency at the University of California over the last two years has caused an actual decline in the standards and quality of education," Hitch told the regents. He said the state had reduced its expenditure by 9 per cent per student.

Reagan, who attended part of the session but was not present for the vote, said he did not agree the quality of the university education was down because of budget trimming. "Instead of going down, the state expenditure per pupil this year goes up several times as much as in any year of the last decade," the governor said.

NOT HITCH IDEA

Hitch did not ask for the resolution seeking to override Reagan's budget veto. The idea was proposed by regent William K. Coblentz of San Francisco.

Another resolution, introduced by regent Edward Carter, of Los Angeles, endorsed Hitch's budget report and "expressed deep concern at the inadequate support for the university."

During the discussion, Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, a Democrat, said the legislature had, up to now, received no support from the regents for overriding Reagon's veto.

Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst, of Hillsborough, one of the regents against the resolutions, said the action by the regents was "an arrogant approach to the people."

Soviet Troops Begin Leaving Czech Soil

PRAGUE (UPI) — Soviet troops who took part in Warsaw Pact maneuvers which ended 13 days ago began withdrawing from Czechoslovakia today in keeping with a Kremlin promise, the Czech Defense Ministry said.

The continued presence of Red Army tanks and troops had caused considerable alarm among supporters of Czechoslovakia's new reform regime.

A defense ministry spokesman said the first of the Soviet truck convoys crossed the Czech border into East Germany at the Cinovec-Zinnwald crossing at about noon today.

A ministry statement said more were to cross into Poland later in the day and the withdrawal will continue until at least Tuesday, when Soviet troops are to enter their own territory at border crossings in far eastern Czechoslovakia.

The ministry statement said Polish troops, who also came for the exercises last month and stayed on after the war games ended on June 30, were the "first to leave" and had begun their pullout yesterday.

De Gaulle's New Cabinet Makes Debut

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle met with Premier Maurice Couve de Murville and his new cabinet for the first time today and outlined for them an "ambitious" program to recovery from this spring's domestic and financial crisis.

The new cabinet, with only five new faces, met De Gaulle for a 30-minute session at the presidential Elysee Palace, during which the president outlined his recovery program. Then they posed for a picture together and adjourned.

Joel le Theule, the newly appointed secretary of state for information, said later the 77-year-old president told the new government France had "demonstrated its political choice in a dazzling fashion" by returning him to power following the May upheaval.

He said the government would introduce new legislation dealing with the "general orientation" of national education when the Gaullist-oriented National Assembly reconvenes next autumn. There were no further details, but presumably it would be aimed at the restive student population that triggered demonstrations in May.

Also to be dealt with, De Gaulle reportedly told the new cabinet, were the maintainence of public order, "establishment of new social relationships among those who work in the universities" and amelioration of economic woes triggered by chaos this spring.

The new cabinet, named by Couve de Murville yesterday and approved by de Gaulle, pledged itself to setting a course toward solving the financial doldrums.

Redwoods Park Bill Draws Fire

GROVER CITY (AP) — The State Park and Recreation says it is "firmly opposed" to the latest congressional plan for a redwood national park in Northern California.

Meeting in this coastal San Luis Obispo County community yesterday, the nine-member commission expressed its disapproval particularly with a provision that the state would have to surrender parts of its two largest Northern California redwood parks before the federal government starts acquiring private lands.

The 28,000-acre park plan has cleared the Senate and is awaiting a House vote, expected as early as next week.

The Senate version of the bill provided for a 65,000-acre park, but the House Interior Committee trimmed the acreage. In the present plan, 19,000 acres are within the boundaries of Prairie Creek and Del Norte Coast state redwood parks.

The commission adopted a resolution saying it "will stand firmly opposed to relinquishing these parks for incorporation into an inadequate national redwoods park which deludes the public into an understanding that further significant redwoods will be preserved by the application of a redwood park label."

Ex-Athlete Named Head For UCLA

Dr. Charles E. Young was named yesterday to head the Los Angeles campus by University of California President Charles J. Hitch. The appointment was approved by the U.C. Board of Regents.

Young succeeds Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, who has resigned to become chairman of the board of the Times-Mirror Company in Los Angeles. The appointment is effective Sept. 1.

The new chancellor, youngest to head any of the nine campuses of the university, has been Murphy's right hand man as administrative vice chancellor. His new job pays $38,000 a year.

Young, 6 foot 2 inches and 205 pounds, played football in high school in San Bernardino and in his first year of college.

He got his M.A. at UCLA in 1957 and his Ph.D. there three years later. He has been active on a number of national and Los Angeles area civic bodies, including the Advisory Committee on Peace Corps Operations and the Performing Arts Council of the Los Angeles Music Center.

Unions Press Grape Boycott

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Labor union leaders from five Bay Area counties have begun a campaign to spread a farm workers union boycott of California table grapes which is already successful in New York.

Declaring that "all table grapes are hot grapes," the AFL-CIO and Teamsters leaders said yesterday they would seek participation in the boycott by commission markets, warehouses, retail stores, butcher shops, restaurants, hospitals, hotels and federal and local governments.

The boycott was started by Cesar Chavez' AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, which has been on strike at California vineyards seeking growers' recognition and bargaining rights.

A group of 100 California growers responded by filing a $25 million damage suit Wednesday in U.S. District Court in New unions with conducting an illegal secondary boycott. The growers said 10-15 per cent of their grape market had been lost.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Seaway Truce Talks

OTTAWA (AP) — Negotiations have resumed in the three-week-old St. Lawrence Seaway strike, and industries on both sides of the border are expressing fear of serious economic setbacks unless the walkout ends soon.

Representatives of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and the striking Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers Union met yesterday for the first time since June 30 and agreed to return to the bargaining table today.

Fire Emergency

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of emergency yesterday in California's annual battle with summer brush and timber fires.

Reagan issued a proclamation authorizing the hiring of 500 underprivileged teen-agers to bolster the ranks of state firefighters. He said fires were breaking out at a rate double the annual average.

More than 1,000 men were battling a half dozen fires today after they blackened more than 8,500 acres.

Warrens On Yacht

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Chief Justice of the United States Earl Warren has begun a three-week cruise off the New England states.

Warren, his wife and a party of four arrived yesterday aboard the chartered yacht, Intent, and docked at nearby Falmouth foreside. He said they plan to cruise south after about three weeks off New England.

"I'll talk to you all day about the beauties of Maine, but no national questions, please," Warren told newsmen.

Post Offices Axed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Due to a national cutback because of manpower limitations imposed by federal finances, the Post Office Department says the following California fourth class post offices will be closed.

As of Aug. 2 — Nelson, Butte County; Paynes Creek, Tehama County; Woodleaf, Yuba County.

As of Aug. 30 — Big Bar, Trinity County.

Bohlen, now deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs, will be one of several official passengers aboard the inaugural Pan American Airways flight scheduled to leave John F. Kennedy airport in New York.

Sirhan Costs Soar

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The prosecution of Sirhan B. Sirhan for the fatal shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is threatening to become one of the most expensive legal proceedings ever carried out in the United States.

Los Angeles County officials claimed yesterday the case already has coast the county government $210,629, although Sirhan has made only two brief court appearances.

He has yet to enter a plea to the murder charge lodged against him in connection with the Kennedy assassination June 5 in the Ambassador Hotel. The trial itself is not expected to start for severl months.

Gun Rule Rapped

OAKLAND (UPI) —Mayor John Reading, saying he is "frankly upset" over new restrictions on use of guns by police officers, has indicated he may ask the City Council to reverse the new rules.

The July 9 order by Police Chief Charles R. Gain forbids use of gunfire to capture suspected burglars, car thieves or drivers guilty of felony violations of the vehicle code.

Mayor Reading said, "The public is wondering if we are getting soft on criminals and if this is capitulation to extremist groups." He added that "the criminal will see it as license to burglarize."

Reading said if public objections to the restrictions continue to increase, he would ask the City Council to vote on the matter.

U.S. Students Free

fornia students who were held at the Russian-Polish border for trying to smuggle Chinese propaganda and Russian icons out of Russia, arrived safely in Vienna today. James Kratzer of Davis, and Larry Watson of Northbridge, both 20-year-old students at Stanford, said they had been questioned five days by Russian officials.

Bribe Jury Still Out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court jury yesterday failed for a second day to reach a verdict in the trial of two former Los Angeles harbor commissioners accused of accepting bribes.

The jury of eight men and four women had deliberated 10½ hours through yesterday and planned to resume today.

Heart Transplant Surgeons Swap Notes In Cape Town Convention

CAPE TOWN (UPI)—Twelve heart transplant surgeons opened a four-day symposium today on how to improve their chances of success, unanimously determined their efforts are not hopeless.

The meeting of one of the world's most exclusive groups convened with six of the 26 heart transplant patients still alive, all of them in hospitals and some in serious condition.

"I think there has to be many more (transplants) before we can say one way or the other that this is going to pay dividends or not," Prof. P.K. Sen of India told a news conference. "At the moment, we just can't stop."

Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, who performed the first U.S. heart transplant in Brooklyn, said once the transplant technique was more understood, "possibly animal to human transplants . . . will become realistic." Mechanical hearts are a possibility, he said.

Dr. Christiaan Barnard, the pioneer in heart transplant surgery, organized the meeting with money from the South African government.

His most famous patient, Dr. Philip Blaiberg, showed continuing improvement from liver and lung complications which arose six months after receiving the heart of another man.

In their first closed meeting, the surgeons will discuss the selection of heart donors and the pre-operative preparation of heart recipients.

Dr. L.A.P.A. Munnik, director of Provincial Hospital services in Cape Town, said a computerized register of each heart transplant operation would be kept in Cape Town for reference by transplant surgeons.

In addition, information on drugs and therapy used on heart transplant recipients would be made available, he said.

One of the drugs was anti-lymphocyte globulin, an experimental serum that cleared up Blaiberg's complications when it appeared a second transplant was his only chance for survical.

Dr. James Mowbray, a British pathologist, said the drug needed "a lot more development work" before it is "universally satisfactory" in combating rejection by the body of a new heart.

Single Union Agreed To By Meat Cutters

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Two of the largest unions in the American food industry merged yesterday into a single giant union of 500,000 members.

The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Union and the United Packinghouse Workers Union became a single organization when 2,000 delegates of the two organizations approved the merger by unanimous voice vote.

The new union will retain the name of Meat Cutters and will have its headquarters in Chicago. Thomas J. Lloyd, former president of Amalgamated Meat Cutters, will have the same position in the new union.

Union representatives expressed hope the merger will be a step toward formation of a single union for the food industry.

THE GREEN GROWS FAST

Members of the San Marin Improvement Association and the newly formed Parent-Faculty Club of San Ramon Elementary School in Novato began laying 20,000 square feet of turf today on the baseball field at the school. The parent-faculty club is contributing $1,800 toward the cost of the turf, while the Novato Civic Foundation has pledged $500 more. The Indian Valley Nursery supplied the turf. HIJACK said, "Sometimes he was rational, and other times he became irrational and began babbling. We never once attempted to jump him, but assured him we'd comply with his request."

Dines said the flight had begun with only 40,000 pounds of fuel and a diversion to Havana would have been "risky, it would have been cutting it pretty fine."

Smith said the gunman "knew he was making a mistake and doing the wrong thing, and I just convinced him of that."

Ten minutes after having commandeered the plane, the hijacker put down his still-cocked gun on the cockpit floor and crouched over and cried.

"He more or less made the decision himself," Smith said of the man's release of the weapon.

"We let it lay for a little bit because we didn't want to make any rash movements," the captain said.

"Then he told us to land anywhere we thought we should," Dines said.

The flight arrived in Houston at 12:20 a.m. today, slightly more than four hours late.

Richards, six feet tall and wearing a blue suit, was pale as he was marched from the plane in Miami. His hair was cut short in military fashion. He is a native of Columbus, Ga.

A Delta spokesman quoted stewardess Haws as saying the gunman said, "I'm dying of cancer."

The episode was the eighth attempt so far this year to force a commercial airliner to fly to Cuba. Two others also failed.

Newsmen reached Richards' wife in the couple's Springfield apartment today but she was uncommunicative.

Toy Car Stolen

Saigon Calls Full Alert

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese paratroopers in full battle gear took up positions around the Presidential Palace in downtown Saigon tonight and National Police manned check points in a 100 per cent alert against a Communist attack.

Invasion jitters touched off several flurries of gunfire as American troops joined in an intensifying search for 1,000 Viet Cong known to have infiltrated the city for an assault some generals believe could come this weekend.

On the northern front, just below the Demilitarized Zone more than 400 miles from Saigon, U.S. Marines defending Hill 689 near abandoned Khe Sanh claimed victory and reported 140 North Vietnamese killed in a week of fighting. Marine losses were placed at 40 killed and 150 wounded.

Deep in the Mekong Delta, 140 miles southwest of Saigon, a force of more than 1,500 Americans and South Vietnamese pressed an offensive against a mountain nestled along the Cambodian border where Communist forces were protecting a big underground fortress.

Saturation raids by B52 jets, biggest juggernauts in the U.S. air arsenal, reflected fears that North Vietnamese and Viet Cong commanders were ordering a new offensive against South Vietnamese cities.

Novato Council Studies Budget

The Novato City Council will review the $351,690 police budget at 8 p.m. Monday in the Novato Community House as part of its continuing review of the proposed $1.2 million budget for fiscal 1969.

It will also review the $1,000 request for police reserves.

At 8 p.m. Friday, it will review the $373,495 public works department budget and $1,077,900 street construction budget.

Huge Ship Flies

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI) — Lockheed's Galaxy C5A, the world's largest airplane, lifted into the air on its second test flight today weighing 520,000 pounds, believed to be an all-time record for gross takeoff weight, on a two-hour flight.

French Envoy Displays Tact Over Finances

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forestalling further embarrassment to Mayor Sam Yorty, the French consul general in Los Angeles has canceled a traditional flag raising ceremony in Los Angeles marking Bastille Day.

Since the day falls on a Sunday, city employees who normally take part in the event would have to be paid overtime and this would cost $164 more than the usual $152, Yorty told the city council.

Consul General Peres canceled the ceremony yesterday, saying he didn't want to increase municipal expenses when the city already has financial troubles.

Clifford noted again a substantial North Vietnamese buildup in the northernmost provinces of South Vietnam and a parallel buildup around Saigon as among indications of an impending third-round enemy offensive.

He disclosed that at a White House meeting last night he received instructions from Johnson to get a reading from Gen. Creighton W. Abrams on the present military situation and the U.S. commander's expectations for the future.

To forestall a possible Viet Cong attempt on his life, Clifford's route to and arrival time at Saigon were not disclosed.

San Franciscan Talked Off Span

A 20-year-old San Francisco dishwasher was talked out of leaping from the Golden Gate Bridge last night, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Patrolmen said they spotted Hoifjeld R. Erling standing outside the railing at 11:15 p.m. and called for help.

Martin Seim, assistant maintenance superintendent on the bridge, talked Erling into climbing back over the railing, the highway patrol said. He was taken to San Francisco General Hospital.

Soviet Trawler In New Episode Off Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—An Australian bomber today buzzed a Soviet trawler competing with Australian fishermen for a valuable shrimp crop. The trawler then changed course and—in a switch in character—headed for an Australian cargo boat in distress.

The 60-foot-long cargo boat VCF2 had foundered in the Gulf of Carpentaria and police in the northern Queensland city of Townsville asked the Russian trawler Van Gogh to help. The cargo boat's six crewmen were reported safe on a raft.

The skipper of the trawler radioed the Cairns police that he had picked up the crewmen "safe and well" and would head for Cairns to put them ashore.

Earlier, a Royal Australian Air Force Neptune bomber buzzed the Van Gogh as fishing officials said she was on a collision course with Australia's shrimp fleet once again.

"She (the trawler) veered off and, for the first time in a fortnight, our boats were able to maintain their position and complete their trawls," said Ron Taylor, a spotter pilot for the fishermen.

Fishing company officials had been charging all week the trawler was harassing their boats.

Merchant's Safe Looted Of $999

Cash and checks totaling $999 were stolen from the safe at Creative Merchandising, 285 Jacoby Street, San Rafael, sometime during store hours Thursday afternoon, police said today.

Store owner Jean Henderson of Novato told police the safe is usually closed but unlocked in case clerks need to make change from the cash bag.

Officers reported that the safe, located adjacent to the counter at the front entrance, is easily accessible to persons entering the store. Police are questioning store employees.

School Cross Tunnel Closed

The pedestrian tunnel under South San Pedro Road at San Pedro School has been closed until September, the Marin County Public Works Department reported yesterday.

The tunnel, closed in conjunction with the $658,119 widening of the road between Marin Boulevard and Bayview Drive, will reopen in time for school, the department said.

The new tunnel will cost $8,300.

$4.9 Million Left By Allen

Harry B. Allen, developer of Belvedere Lagoon in Marin County and the Sea Cliff area of San Francisco, left a $4,949,657 estate, an inheritance filing showed yesterday.

All except $116,000 earmarked for charity is in a trust fund for Allen's widow, Winifred; a daughter, Elizabeth A. Straus; sons David W. Allen and Howard B. Allen of Belvedere; and 12 grandchildren.

Stolen Goods Charge Dropped

Charges against David A. Fried, 18, of 225 Tiburon Street, San Rafael, for possesion of stolen goods have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court for lack of evidence.

Fried, who also allegedly violated probation terms set down by Marin Juvenile Court, is on his way now to join his father in Hawaii. Probation officer C. James Edmonson released him on his promise to pay off victims of a burglary he commited last year with money he will earn in Hawaii.

Juvenile authorities reported that Fried's father has assured them he has a job lined up for his son, who still owes about $140 of $300 he had to pay according to terms of his probation.

San Rafael Crash Injures Three

A San Rafael mother and child and a companion from San Francisco suffered minor injuries at 10 a.m. yesterday in a two-car collision at the intersection of Third and D streets in San Rafael.

Anita Bell, 21, of 19 Bayo Vista Way, the driver of one car, was treated for bruises at Marin General Hospital. Her daughter Teri Ann, 2, was treated for a bruised forehead. The other passenger, Ann King, 20, suffered a cut right knee.

The driver of the other car, Sandra Hanson, 19, of 537 Idylberry Road, San Rafael, was not injured.

Novato Trustees To Adopt Budget

Novato Unified School District trustees will review and adopt a publication budget for fiscal 1969 at 8 p.m. Monday in the administration building.

On June 17 it adopted a $8,450,927 preliminary budget and the publication budget is expected to be about the same.

The board will hear a report on the construction progress on the San Marin High School and the Sinaloa Junior High School.

Other items on a short agenda include bids for laundry service, the purchase of a school bus and student insurance.

Summer Home Is Ransacked

Two burglaries were reported yesterday by sheriff's officers.

Chesley Bush of Livermore reported his summer residence on Edgemont Way, Inverness, was entered during the past several days. The house was ransacked but nothing was believed stolen.

Sarah S. Holter, Poplar Drive, Ross, told deputies her car parked in a Manzanita School lot was entered Wednesday by prying a window. Taken were a tape recorder and five tapes.

Landscaping Plans On Novato Agenda

Landscaping plans for the Diablo-DeLong avenues intersection will be reviewed by the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in the community house.

The commission will also discuss the summer playground program and the final budget as approved by the city council.

OBITUARIES

Robert G. Dennis Dies In Larkspur

Robert G. Dennis, 60, longtime Albany educator and a brother of Marin County Grand Jury member Mrs. Dorothy Snyker of Ross, died unexpectedly yesterday in Larkspur.

Dennis, who retired two months ago as superintendent of adult education for the Albany schools, was visiting an old friend, Joseph Mills, at 10 Heather Way, in Larkspur when he collapsed.

He was taken to Marin General Hospital, but was pronounced dead on arrival. Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, coroner, said death was apparently due to natural causes.

Dennis had been superintendent of schools in his native Siskiyou County from 1935 to 1939, before moving to Albany. Mills had been a teacher under him in Siskiyou.

CHARLES HARDEN

Funeral for Charles G. Harden, 38, a contractor who formerly lived in San Rafael and Novato, will be held Monday at La Mesa, San Diego County.

He died July 10 in a San Diego hospital after a long illness.

A native of Denver, Colo., he had been in the contracting business in Marin County from 1962 until 1965, according to his associate Jack M. Willis of Novato.

He is survived by his wife, Annabelle Harden of San Diego.

Burial will be in La Mesa, with arrangements by Erickson and Anderson mortuary there.

MRS. MARGUERITE LAHMANN

Marguerite Lahmann, 51, a native of Canada who came to San Rafael as a child, died today at Marin General Hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Lahmann had worked as a sales clerk at Macy's Department Store in San Rafael until she became ill a year ago.

Her husband, Lester Lahmann, is manager of the Greenbrae Standard service station. The family home is at 170 Mission Avenue, San Rafael.

Other survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Linda Bertauche of Petaluma and Diana Lahmann of San Rafael; two brothers, Louis and Charles Ponti, both of San Rafael, and a grandson.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Private family mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Raphael's Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

LUMAN H. ROSE

Requiem Mass for Luman Hiram Rose, 84, father of Tiburon City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose, was today at Mission Mortuary in Monterey. Burial was at Monterey city cemetery.

Rose died Thursday at a Monterey convalescent hospital after a long illness.

He had been a Beverly Hills realtor for 29 years until 1952, when he retired and moved to Carmel. He lived there for the past 16 years.

He was the origianl subdivider in 1938-39 of Kent Woodlands, which was later developed by the Kent family.

From 1914 to 1923 he was the Studebaker and Chrysler distributor on the West Coast, operating from offices in San Francisco.

Born in Angola, Ind., and reared in Indiana and Nebraska, as a young man he was an employee of Flanders Motor Co. of Detroit, manufacturer of the Lozier, an early luxury auto, and established an auto agency in Portland, Ore.

He is survived by another son, Lou M. Rose, Jr., of Alamo, Contra Costa County, and a sister, Mrs. Pearl Carock of Oklahoma City, Okla.

AUDRE WOLKOFF

Audre C. Wolkoff, 48, a Marin resident for seven years, died yesterday at Marin General Hospital, where she had been a patient for about a month.

Mrs. Wolkoff of 602 Humboldt Street, Sausalito, had been a comptometer operator for 20 years and had last worked for Arrow-Lifschultz Freight Forwarders in San Francisco. She was a native of San Francisco, and the widow of Milton Wolkoff.

Survivors are a daughter, Michele Steed of Chicago, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marc Rogaway of San Rafael.

Nevada Casino Profits Rising

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—The odds favor the house—by $387 million a year in Nevada's legal gambling casinos.

The state Gaming Control Board yesterday reported winnings totaled a record $387 million during the past fiscal year, up 8 per cent from the previous year.

Among the winners was billionaire Howard Hughes, whose five Las Vegas casinos showed revenue increases similar to other clubs in the Southern Nevada gambling center.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Wishful Thinking Seems To Be Pastime Of Girl Letter Writer

DEAR HELEN:

I am a girl in the 10th grade. I've had this science teacher ever since eighth grade.

On the last day of school he asked to see me after class. We were the only ones in the room. He stared at me with big, soulful eyes, then put his hands on my shoulders and gave me a long kiss. I didn't know what to do so I just stood there.

He is very attractive, but married.

—SURPRISED

DEAR HELEN:

My I.G.A.P. (I'm Guessing Again Perception) tells me you should stop wishful thinking and confine your daydreams to more available guys.

Why don't I believe you? A girl doesn't keep the same science teacher through junior high and high school. And while a teacher might be tempted he'd scarcely risk his job and reputation for a kiss.

In case I guessed wrong, my advice is: Avoid the man next school year and if you hear any more rumors about him, report to the principal. After-hours biology will get this science teacher fired in a hurry. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

You were very rude to the girl who said her identical twin's boy friend made advances to her, after the twins had changed places on a date. You practically told her you thought she had made it all up. You are supposed to give teens advice, not a hard time, and please cut the sarcasm, or I'll have to call you a cranky old witch. —PHYLLIS

DEAR PHYLLIS:

Call away. I've had fancier names than this thrown at me.

But keep in mind I don't hit the hoax button without good reason. In one week, five sexy "identical twins," all from the same city, made me pretty sure you kids were playing Fool The Columnist again.—H.

P.S. Here's another example of a hoaxer who did his darndest: In four far-out letters, he was everything from a stowaway in Vietnam to the Don Juan of the junior hi set. Then came a fifth note, "Dear Helen: Please print some of your wildest stories. They're groovy.

—INTERESTED"

Even though people disguise their handwriting and make up crazy names, they give themselves away with misspellings, capital letter formations, stationery, postmarks. I've become a first class sleuth since I started HHU. Really, it's kinda fun. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

Here's a solution to the "sending coins by mail" bit. Cut a small rectangle of paper, fold two corners to make a point, then fold up the point — with the coin inside — tuck it into a slit you've made in the top part of the rectangle. You don't need stickum tape. —MIKE

DEAR MIKE:

Thanks, chum. May everyone who sends coins by mail read your letter: It will save many broken fingernails on the receiving end. —H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Bottles-Christy Wed At Home Of Bride

Susan Ellen Christy became the bride of Michael Kim Bottles in a July 6 wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Myron M. Christy in Greenbrae.

Aimee A. Christy of Oakland was maid of honor for Susan and Wilfred Davidor of Del Mar was best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Bottles of Altadena.

Afterward a wedding breakfast and reception was given at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

Susan is a graduate of Redwood High School and attended Occidental College. She is employed with the Altadena Public Library. John H. Christy, who attends Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Ore., is her brother.

The bridegroom was graduated from John Muir High School and attended the California Maritime Academy and has been a student at Pasadena City College. He is the brother of Mrs. Wilfred Davidor of Del Mar and Kent, Scott and Kirk Bottles of Altadena.

The couple will live in San Diego.

Butter Balls

Some good cooks who use wooden paddles for making butter balls find the paddles work well when they are soaked in ice water long enough to chill them thoroughly before they are used.

SEW SIMPLE

Fabric Nap Brings Response

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE:

I am very curious about a previous article you wrote when you stated corduroy should be made with the nap running up. I have always done it the oposite way and thought it should be smooth when you ran your hand down. Is there really any difference?—Mrs. H.T.

DEAR MRS. H. T.:

The most important rule of all to remember when working with pile fabrics such as velvet and corduroy is to cut all the pieces of the pattern in the SAME direction. If you don't, it will look as different as night and day, and nothing can be done about it.

Most professionals agree there are benefits in cutting these pile fabrics against the grain. This means that as you smooth your hand from the top of your garment to the bottom, it will feel slightly rough and leave a mark as you stroke it. You will achieve a much deeper, richer color to the fabric, and the pile won't flatten out nearly as fast. These two are very important advantages when using this kind of fabric.

MRS. MARGARET Lemieux, St. Regis Falls, N.Y., is this week's tailor trix pressing board winner for her following sewing tip:

"The problem of the woman with the oversized waistline or the one who changes from day to day, has been solved by me in the following manner. In a two-piece dress or a separate skirt, I find that if I sew the button on the waistband with elastic thread, the skirt will have a comfortable 'give' to the waistline."

DEAR EUNICE:

Please give me some hints on the proper fitting of a striped bias cut dress. —MRS. F. K.

DEAR MRS. F. K.:

A bias cut dress is very difficult to wear unless you have the right kind of figure for it. If you are large in the bust, the dress will have a tendency to pull too tightly across your bust. If you have a rounded figure, the bias dress will exaggerate your curves and make you actually look larger than you are.

If you examine your pattern carefully, you will find that one cut on the bias seldom has fitting darts, the bias alone will cling to the figure for a molded effect. In most instances, unless you are very thin and have perfect proportions, you will be rather unhappy with this kind of dress. (Unfortunately, they keep stretching and getting longer and more narrow, so the problems keep growing). If you insist upon this style, I would certainly recommend you make your dress from a rather inexpensive fabric for a trial run.

Joanne Donovan Weds In Sweden Ceremony

Joanne Ruth Donovan of San Rafael, became the bride of Erling Gunnar Ribbing of Stockholm, Sweden, in a Saturday ceremony at St. Isabella's Church in San Rafael. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Donovan of San Rafael.

Mrs. Kathleen Sherdan of San Francisco was her only sister's matron of honor.

Peter Sheridan of San Francisco was best man assisted by ushers John Donovan, brother of the bride, stationed with the U.S. Army in Ft. Lewis, Wash., and Donal Geramoni of San Anselmo.

Lake Tahoe was the destination of the wedding trip following a reception at the Elk's Club in San Rafael. The couple will live in Stockholm.

Joanne attended Macomb High School in Macomb, Ill. and was graduated from Dominican College of San Rafael. She has been employed the past three years by the Dixie School District in San Rafael.

Erling is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Ribbing of Stockholm and is a graduate of Stockholm University. He is now employed by the university in the Department of Sociology.

Friends Honor Mrs. Barber With Belvedere Luncheon

Honoring Mrs. Stephen Barber, a luncheon will be given by Mrs. Edward H. Solinsky at her home on the Belvedere lagoon Monday. Steve Barber and the former Claire Morris Barrows of New York City were married at the bridegroom's home in Belvedere June 7. The 12 guests are friends of the bride and the hostess from their undergraduate days at the University of California, many of whom now live in Marin. The Solinskys have just returned from vacationing at Cascade Lake in the Tahoe country.

ATTRACTING MUCH attention at the guest float of San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere, is the 68 foot power yacht, Lady, which skipper Kent Colt brought up from Newport Beach Tuesday.

A group of friends from Southern California are flying to San Francisco next week to cruise aboard the Lady in the Delta Country. The boat will return to Belvedere and is expected to remain in northern waters for one month. The passage from the south was a rough one, according to Colt, who presented the SFYC with the Lady's Balboa Yacht Club burgee, which had been blown to tatters on the voyage north.

YOUNG TENNIS players from the Tiburon Peninsula who are in Sun Valley, Ida., at the new tennis ranch directed by Belvedere Tennis Club professional, J. Paul Wilkins are Sharon Walsh, Ted and Craig Isaaks and Melissa Manheim.

BRIG. GEN. ROLLIN B. Moore Jr. has invited a number of military and civic dignitaries and their wives to a reception at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club at 5 p.m. Monday for the 349th Military Airlift Wing change of command reception at Hamilton.

Guests will be saying goodbye to General and Mrs. Moore, as General Moore is being transferred to Robins Air Force Base, Georgia, where he will head the Air Force reserve command following nine years of service at Hamilton.

In the receiving line with General and Mrs. Moore will be Col. Jesse A. Irwin, who will be replacing General Moore, and Mrs. Irwin, and Maj. Gen. J. C. Sherrill of Travis Air Force Base.

On Tuesday evening, General and Mrs. Moore and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Carroll McColpin will be honored at a dinner at the Meadow Club in Fairfax. Invitations have been issued by Messrs. and Mesdames Fred Enemark, Alfred Quilici and Irving Chap-

General McColpin, commander of the Fourth Air Force, will retire from the service on Aug. 30.

THE REV. and Mrs. Philip Schiller and their family have just returned home to Tacoma, Wash. after a visit in Marin with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Schiller of San Rafael. Philip is a graduate of San Rafael schools, Whitworth College in Spokane and of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. He is the organizing pastor of a new Presbyterian Church in the Fircrest area of Tacoma. The Schillers are parents of four children, Stephen, 15; Sandra, 13; Thomas, 10 and Susan, 8.

The Carl Schillers' daughter, Mrs. Gary Simpson, and her family have returned to live in San Rafael following her husband's retirement from Air Force duty. The family gathered for a reunion for a day on Angel Island. In the group were the Simpsons' three children, Bob, a high school student, and twins Becky and Barry, who will enter San Rafael High School in the fall; and the senior Schillers' other daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Stannard of Tiburon with their baby, Susan. The Simpsons' eldest son, Bill is in college in Southern California, and their elder daughter, Barbara, is married and lives with her husband and family in Omaha.

A SURPRISE party Sunday was given for Mr. and Mrs. Jerry C. Moon of San Rafael on their 40th wedding anniversary by their son, Jack Moon and his wife from Sacramento. Some 70 friends and the five Moon grandchildren were on hand at Odd Fellows Temple, San Rafael, for the party. The Moons have been San Rafael residents since 1930.

ABOARD THE S.S. President Van Buren when the cargo liner made the fastest crossing on record to Yokohama were Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Rhodes of Mill Valley. The vessel beat the old mark by four hours, crossing in seven days, 10 hours and 54 minutes. The ship broke the Japanese mark last year, and this time managed to average more than 25.6 knots to break her own record.

ENTERTAINING AT their home in Novato tomorrow evening are Police Chief and Mrs. Robert di Grazia. They have invited 40 friends to join them for cocktails and a midnight buffet.

ON THE AGENDA

Volunteers Solicited To Help With Program For Teen-Agers

The Volunteer Bureau needs a recorder on Thursday afternoons or Friday mornings to work with staff members of organizations that serve troubled teen-agers. Typing is essential for this job but shorthand is not.

Other adult volunteers with office skills are needed from now until school starts. A medical background is desirable but not essential, and the office aide can plan on working a half-day weekly.

Teen-agers, or adults who enjoy helping in recreation for elderly people, will be welcome additions to hospitals in central Marin. Simple crafts, bingo games and visiting are part of the programs where volunteers assist. Students are also needed in a San Rafael agency office.

Persons, who can give time to help, are urged to call the Volunteer Bureau for an interview appointment.

INDIAN SUMMER will be the theme of the first Invitational Golf Tournament of the San Geronimo National Women's Golf Club. The event, to be held Oct. 28 and 29 will be the first important tournament for the new club since it was organized little more than a year ago.

Chairmen, Mrs. Henry Cornelius and Mrs. B. L. Marsh, have appointed committee chairmen. These are the Mesdames R. F. Honey, tournament; William Irish, treasurer; Earl Berg, decorations; W. R. Hudson, hospitality; Charles Vincent, invitations; and Donald Marshall, publicity.

MRS. ELEANOR NEWTON of San Anselmo will be installed as president of Marinita Parlor No. 198, Native Daughters of the Golden West on Monday evening at 8:30 p.m. at the Portuguese-American Hall, 822 B St., San Rafael. Joint ceremonies will be held with Mount Tamalpais Parlor 64.

Mrs. Newton will have as her officers for the coming year Mesdames Vernon Thomas, first vice president; Angelina Griffiths, second vice president; Alfred Santinello, third vice president; Nancy Wilkins, Marshal; Linda Leber, inside sentinel; Henry Beneken, outside sentinel; Geno Soldavini, past president; Max Brice, recording secretary, Robert Vedder, financial secretary; William Wider, treasurer; Louis Milani, Charles May and Leon Millsap, trustees; and Raymond Shone, organist.

Mrs. Geno Soldavini and Robert Vedder are chairmen of the evening. Mrs. Arlene Knudsen, deputy grand president from Seapoint Parlor, Sausalito, will be the installing officer for the Native Daughters.

OFFICERS WHO will assist Mrs. Robert Lynn Abbott, president, with the Delta Gamma Alumnae activities this year are Mesdames Herbert Heberling of Corte Madera, vice president; J. B. MacLean of Larkspur, secretary; Bruce Robinson of Ignacio, treasurer; George Spragins of Ross, recommendations; William Benz of Sausalito, Panhellenic representative; Harry T. Magill of Novato, publicity; Mrs. Otto Kloppenburg of San Rafael, Northern California coordinating committee; and Russell Baker of Tiburon, hospitality.

CHILLER AT TAMALPAIS

MUZZLING DENIED

Cleaver Sends Wife To Talk At College

Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver was to address the Marin Peace and Freedom Party last night at College of Marin, but his wife, Kathleen, appeared instead.

A crowd of about 200 in Olney Hall was informed at 8:40 p.m. that the California Adult Authority had denied Cleaver permission to address crowds of people.

This was denied, however, by Cleaver's parole agent, Stan Carter of Oakland, and by the District Administrator of Parole for the North Coast region, Jim D. Fruchey of Lucas Valley.

"I gave him permission to speak at Marin College last night," he said. On the possibility of a countermanding order from his superiors, Carter said, "I can't imagine it without my knowledge — I'm sure I would have been notified."

Cleaver was unavailable today for comment. His wife said she had thought the alleged order came from Carter. Cleaver's attorney, Charles Garry of San Francisco, also knew nothing of the order.

Fruchey said the reported muzzling was "just another of his stories. We have issued no such blanket denial of his activities at all. In fact, in this case we gave him permission to do so.

"No one could have given such an order because it would have had to come through me."

Carter and Fruchey are in the Parole and Community Services Division of the California Department of Corrections. They have restricted Cleaver to the Bay Area, they said, while the California Adult Authority tries to hold a hearing on whether to revoke his parole because of an April gun battle with Oakland police.

The authority has been ordered to show cause before Solano County Superior Court Judge Raymond Sherwin Monday why it should not be held in contempt for trying to hold the hearing while the state's appeal against Cleaver's release from prison on bail was pending in appelate court.

Alioto Blasts Reagan Stand On Gun Control

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto has severely criticized Gov. Ronald Reagan's "dangerous philosophy" that Americans are buying guns because they no longer trust law enforcement agencies to protect them.

"The idea that law-abiding citizens need guns is wrong," the mayor said Friday. "We have to get away from the notion that the gun is some kind of sacred instrument."

"Arming begets arming. Statistics show that those who try to protect themselves from criminals with guns are more likely to get hurt."

Reagan made his remarks in a Fourth of July speech in the Gold Rush town of Columbia, asking: "Isn't it time to point out that legitimate, God-fearing, law-abiding citizens are buying those guns because they have lost faith in the government's ability to protect them in their person and in their property?"

But Alioto praised the San Francisco Police Department and said it does a "much more efficient job than any citizen or group of vigilantes could do."

Alioto said America is a great humanitarian nation and added San Francisco should be proud of what he said is probably "the biggest voluntary gun turn-in in history."

Some 1,397 firearms have been turned into San Francisco Police since the mayor announced the program following the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Alioto said he expects more than 1,500 weapons will have been turned in by midnight Sunday, when his "no questions asked" amnesty expires.

The arms will be melted down and used by famed sculptor Beniamino Bufano to create a memorial statue of St. Francis to four slain American leaders Abraham Lincoln, John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King Jr., and Robert F. Kennedy.

"We want something of lasting value, something that will symbolize the ultimate intolerance which is assassination," Alioto said.

Stanford Audience Sees Spare, Somber Humor

By DEL MILLER

STANFORD (AP)—Ellis Rabb and his APA repertory company brought their excursion into somber humor a little nearer perfection last night.

Rabb stood on a wooden fence with his white umbrella and was executed for thinking it a lovely day as the curtain went down on Michel de Ghelderode's "Pantagleize." The Stanford Summer Festival audience applauded through seven curtain calls.

OFTEN REVISED

Rabb and his New York company have been working with "Pantagleize" for two years revising it after every performance.

One half of the verbiage has been cut away. Setting after setting has been discarded so the play has little staging left except for black curtains and lights.

As Jack O'Brien, assistant director, explained it to an interested briefing audience of several hundred a few hours before the production:

"We found we had to play this like it was made up of a series of vaudeville blackouts—a succession of caricatures — with humor and horror played back to back."

BAWDY SONG

For example, just before Pantagleize — Rabb — is executed, the firing squad and court-martial judges sing a bawdy song never written by the Belgian playwright. Pantagleize thinks he is going free but he's shot anyway.

It seems that when he said it was a "lovely day" he involuntarily gave the signal for the revolution that takes up all the action in the play.

Youngsters' Carnival Aids Poor Children

The poor children of America are a little bit richer today because of the Independence Day venture of two young San Rafael entrepeneurs.

With summer boredom already setting in, Frans J. Roosen Jr., 9, and his friend, Debbie Farini, 13, neighbors on Mission Avenue, began planning last month for a July 4 carnival to raise themselves a little ready cash.

In the midst of one of their planning conferences, the children overheard a television commercial asking funds for the Save the Children Foundation in New York.

The plea asked money to help the poor children of the United States. Debbie and Frans decided then that these children could better use the carnival profits, Fran's mother said yesterday.

For three solid days before the show, they worked on setting up pitch games, baking cookies and stirring lemonade for the 40 guests they invited.

While they were collecting cardboard boxes in the Montecito Shopping Center one day, a merchant overheard their plans and offered to donate a gift.

Inspired, they went to every shop in the center and managed to secure four donations — a breakfast at the Red Kettle, a dozen carnations from the Thoughtful Shop, a Mexican candle holder from the Gift Horse and an early American vinegar bottle from Designer's Gallery. The gifts were raffled off at the carnival.

On the day of the carnival, only 12 of the 40 invited persons attended, but the children earned $12 before closing the show after an hour and a half, said Mrs. Roosen.

Mrs. Roosen said she mailed their $12 check to the Save the Children foundation yesterday.

Folk Dancers Festival On For Weekend

The two-day 24th annual Folk Dance Festival, drawing hundreds of dancers from Northern California, opened today with a workshop at Park School in Mill Valley. (See story in Marin Magazine.)

The folk dancers will perform at 7:30 p.m. today at the school, offering a one-hour Balkan dance, followed by performance of request numbers.

Tomorrow, colorfully costumed dancers will offer exhibitions of ethnic dances on the lawn of the quad in the center of College of Marin's Kentfield campus beginning at 1:30 p.m. A second performance is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the college gymnasium.

"Memories of Marin" has been chosen as the festival theme and masters of ceremonies will be persons long active in folk dancing in the county.

All performances are open to the public without charge.

Teen-Agers Held After Pursuit In Stolen Car

A 16-year-old San Francisco boy and his girl friend were taken to Juvenile Hall yesterday after California Highway Patrol officers said they stopped them while racing in a stolen car on Highway 101 near Novato.

Patrolmen said they stopped the car occupied by the pair on Highway 101 just south of the Sonoma County line for racing with another vehicle at 4:40 p.m.

A check showed that the car had been stolen from in front of the home of John B. McLaughlin of San Francisco Thursday night.

The boy was cited for engaging in a speed contest, not having a driver's license in his possession and auto theft.

Planners Due Hearing On Restaurant

The design of a Howard Johnson restaurant and motel on Richardson Bay, with the chain's customary bright orange tile roof, will be reviewed by the Marin County Planning Commission Monday in the Civic Center.

The commission meets all day, beginning at 9 a.m., and the restaurant and motel are on the agenda at 2:30 p.m.

The restaurant and motel are part of a complex that also includes a six-court, indoor, private tennis club, stretching 320 feet along the shore of the bay. The complex is proposed on a 5.25-acre parcel directly west of Richardson Bay Bridge between Shoreline Highway and the railroad tracks.

Marin County Planning director Paul C. Zucker has recommended that the commission consider a field trip to inspect the site at noon during lunch.

Also on the agenda are proposed increases in fees to process applications to the planning department, a discussion of the limit on population density in West Marin, review of the proposed master plan for the bay by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, and review of an excavation permit to remove some 40,000 cubic yards of earth to level the Paul Sade site near the Smith Ranch for apartments.

Peninsula Due Own First Aid Station Soon

The Belvedere-Tiburon Peninsula's first aid station, capable of handling as many as 600 casualties, will begin to take form in about two weeks with the arrival of $5,000 worth of emergency supplies, Tiburon's police chief said yesterday.

Capt. William Johansen of the Tiburon sheriff's office said the state this week approved use of a room in the Belvedere firehouse as a storage depot for the 5,000 pounds of equipment.

The equipment will provide for first aid treatment and minor surgery, he said.

Of the county's 11 first aid stations, the one closest to the Belvedere-Tiburon area is in Mill Valley, Captain Johansen said. Under emergency conditions, peninsula residents could be cut off from that station, he said.

When the equipment is available, organization of a complete emergency system will begin, he said. This will include enlistment of medical volunteers and trained first aid personnel, arrangements for water and land transportation, emergency communication systems and creation of emergency centers in schools, churches and other buildings.

Utah Officials Test Death Car

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah authorities today conducted tests on a car in which a California couple and a young niece died of carbon monoxide poisoning while parked near Heber City.

The tests were ordered because the ignition switch was in the off position when the bodies were found Thursday by a truck driver.

Autopsies completed yesterday showed carbon monoxide caused the deaths of of Charles L. Hunt, 39, his wife, Della, 42, of San Leandro and their neice, Susan Koahler, 12, Lathrop, Mo.

The bodies of two dogs were also found in the car. Sheriff Floyd L. Witt said the bodies indicated death had come quickly and without warning to all the auto's occupants.

Chagall Works Used Again For Revival Of 'Aleko'

NEW YORK (AP) — When American Ballet Theater revived "Aleko" yesterday, after 13 years out of its repertoire, it used the original backdrops and costumes painted by Marc Chagall and had choreographer Leonide Massine, 72, present to take bows.

"Aleko" combines ballet, a story and painting — in accord with Massine's philosophy that dance should be an alliance of the arts.

JOINS GYPSIES

The story is of a young city man named Aleko who joins a gypsy band and falls in love with a gypsy. Later, she is wooed away from him by another gypsy. Then Aleko has a nightmare and kills them.

Lupe Serrano was sultry and fiery as the girl and Royes Fernandez as Aleko and Bruce Marks as the young gypsy were effective. There was plenty of dance of both the hot gypsy and lyrically romantic kinds.

BUSY NIGHTMARE

The nightmare was full of creatures — society types, gypsies, a bat, a cow and some unexplainable animals.

The costumes were originals, with designs handpainted by Chagall when the ballet was created for ballet theater in 1942.

The four backdrops added to the aura, and were not so brightly colored as to take away from the action, as has been criticized of Chagall's more recent theater backdrops. The music is by Tchaikovsky.

Collision Hurts Fairfax Woman

A 26-year-old Fairfax woman was injured Thursday in a two-car collision at Broadway and Azalea Avenue in Fairfax.

Stephanie Draper, 335 Cascade Drive, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bruised chest.

Police said she was the driver of a car which collided at 9:25 a.m. with an auto driven by Barbara Wadlewski, 20, of 33 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael.

Berkeley Mayor Recall Is Sought

BERKELEY (UPI) — The "Berkeley Recall Committee" took the first step yesterday toward recalling Mayor Wallace Johnson and City Councilman John DeBonis.

The committee filed a notice of recall with city officials. It now has 75 days to collect 8,500 signatures in order to get the recall on the November general election ballot.

The group accused the two city officials of "negligence" in connection with recent disturbances in the city, and "of applying undue police pressure upon Berkeley and instigating a week of bloodshed leading up to the Fourth of July."

Square-Rigger Will Visit Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Nippon Maru, one of the world's few sail training ships, is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco Monday.

The four-master is on a good-will trip and will be in port for a week. The 98 cadets, 20 officers and crew of 47 will be entertained by the city's big Japanese community.

The 328-foot barque left Tokyo May 10, and spent two weeks in Hawaii before sailing on to the Pacific Coast. She makes five knots under sail and eight knots under power.

The Nippon Maru will leave on its 36-day voyage back to Tokyo on July 22.

New Kennel Club Elects Officers

Joseph Greise has been elected president of the new Pacheco Kennel Club of Novato.

Mrs. Melton Ridgeway was elected vice president Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Porter were named treasurers. Jackie Miller was elected secretary and Judy Hutton, corresponding secretary.

The club will hold a public meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Teamster's hall in the Patio Building at 864 Grant Avenue, Novato, according to Mrs. Ridgeway. Further information about the club may be obtained from Mrs. Ridgeway or the House of Shakespeare pet shop in the Patio Building.

Utah Listeners Roar For Reagan

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The United States should "do what needs to be done" to win the Vietnam war and "do it now," according to California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan, who earlier reiterated that he is not actively seeking the Republican presidential nomination, delivered a hard-hitting attack against both the domestic and foreign policies of President Johnson's administration in a keynote address last night at the Utah State Republican Convention.

An enthusiastic audience of nearly 3,000 interrupted his 45-minute speech 20 times and nearly brought down the house once when he said:

"We are in Vietnam because it is in our national interest to be there. And whether it offends friend or foe, we should say we are going to begin doing what needs to be done and we are going to begin doing it now."

PUEBLO CITED

They roared their approval again when he said "stealing the Pueblo and kidnapping our young men is a humiliation that this nation is not going to endure."

The California chief executive never mentioned his own possible presidential candidacy during his speech but he was obviously popular to many of the delegates who were scheduled today to elect Utah's eight delegates to the National Republican Convention.

Posters supporting his candidacy were in prominent display throughout the convention site and an organization called Utah Citizens for Reagan circulated fliers urging the delegates to support five national delegate candidates who were listed as "leaning toward the candidacy" of Reagan.

At a news confrtence shortly after his arrival here, Reagan said he is not actively seeking the presidential nomination and considered himself nothing more than a favorite son candidate.

RECALL TALK

As for the recall movement against him in California, Reagan told the news conference it was "an annoyance but not a serious threat" and was sponsored by "sore losers."

"I don't think these people are really serious about this," he said. "I think they are more concerned about embarrassing me prior to the convention."

Florida Governor Switches His Support To Gov. Rockefeller

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has picked up a strong new endorsement for the Republican presidential nomination from a Southern governor but there is some question just how much the endorsement will mean in terms of real delegate votes at next month's convention.

The endorsement came yesterday from Florida Gov. Claude Kirk, who would like to be the GOP's vice presidential candidate. Rockefeller emphasized, however, "No deal has been made."

In endorsing Rockefeller, Kirk dropped his own favorite son candidacy. The immediate question raised by his withdrawal was how many of Florida's 35 convention votes Kirk could carry with him to Rockefeller.

Before the move, the delegation appeared split with 26 votes going to Richard M. Nixon, seven to Gov. Ronald Reagan and only one—Kirk's—to Rockefeller.

Kirk said yesterday he thought there was a lot of Reagan sentiment in the Florida delegation and he was uncertain how many delegates he might be able to swing to Rockefeller. He added he expects Reagan to become an active candidate for the nomination.

Rockefeller earlier wooed Maryland Republicans. He met with Gov. Spiro T. Agnew and other Republicans but said, "I did not ask for any support. All I did was talk about the realities of the political situation as I see it and answered questions. When the time comes, I hope they will look my way."

Agnew originally was a strong backer of Rockefeller but switched to Nixon when the New York governor was slow to formally enter the race.

In other political developments:

Eugene J. McCarthy — The Minnesota senator said in Seattle he was against any secret maneuvering and deals at the Chicago Democratic convention, adding that his backers were prepared to lose if they get a fair and open hearing there. McCarthy was asked if he would free his delegates to vote the way they wanted if a secret convention ballot was held. He said he would if Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey also released his delegates but added that he is against such a secret ballot.

Rockefeller — The New York governor yesterday called for establishment of a National Housing Research Foundation which would have as one of its main purposes the improvement on construction methods to reduce housing costs.

Nixon—Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., endorsed Nixon for the GOP nomination after Colorado delegates named him to head the state's delegation to the Miami convention.

George A. Wallace—The third-party candidate was booed and heckled while he was giving a speech in Plymouth, Mass. Secret Service agents closed the windows of an auditorium to muffle the booing so the audience inside could hear Wallace speak. Earlier in the day, an Army bomb disposal unit checked out a bomb rumor in Whitman but turned up nothing.

Poll — The latest Gallup poll showed McCarthy holding slim leads over both Nixon and Rockefeller. Earlier, the poll reported that Humphrey led Nixon but was tied with Rockefeller.

Harold Stassen — The former Minnesota governor said neither Nixon or Rockefeller could win the presidency but four other Republicans — including himself—could. The other three were Reagan, Michigan Gov. George Romney and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Policy Not Safe?

Bulldozer Raid On Power Lines Is Admitted

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — A construction worker from Rifle, Colo., who had pleaded innocent admitted on a witness stand yesterday that he used a bulldozer to topple a 90-foot power line tower west of here.

Dale Morrow, 27, said it was his way of protesting "corruption in the U.S. government."

Morrow said under cross-examination: "I consider what I did a revolutionary act. The United States is an industrialized society and to protest you don't have to kill people; just disrupt industry."

Morrow testified he found the bulldozer at a highway grading project and jumped off after heading it toward the tower.

Bad Check Probation Granted Teen-Ager

Linda Margaret Mayer, 18, was placed on three years probation and given 15 days in county jail yesterday in Marin Superior Court for passing and possessing fraudulent cheks.

Miss Mayer, of San Rafael, had pleaded guilty to having the checks in San Rafael last November and December.

TEXAS STYLE WANTED

Senator Blasts LBJ Orders For History

WASHINGTON (UPI) --The White House has asked each federal agency to assign two men on a full time basis to help write a "Texas version" history of President Johnson's Administration, the Senate was told yesterday.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., charged that the project was an "unnecessary and irresponsible waste of the taxpayers' money." He contended the project is aimed at emphasizing Johnson's achievements and "forget his mistakes.

Williams said that White House special assistant Joseph Califano sent a memorandum to all federal agencies May 31 advising them they would be expected to provide "a full written history" of their activities during Johnson's term.

According to Williams, Califano's letter said: "This effort should be given close supervision by a high official of your department. At least two highly qualified individuals with knowledge of the department's major activities should be assigned to this task on a full-time basis."

Williams said Undersecretary of Transportation John Robsin was put in charge of the project.

The senator said he could understand why the Johnson Administration wanted to write its own "Texas version of American history."

"When we realize the low level of esteem which the American people hold out for the policies of the Johnson Administration, perhaps we can better understand why the President thought this pretentious project necessary," he told the Senate.

Electronic Toll Takers On Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Golden Gate Bridge officials are testing a gadget which would replace some toll collectors.

The gadget, attached to a vehicle, broadcasts an electronic signal to a recording device as it passes through the bridge plaza. The information is used to bill the owner at the end of the month.

Officials said yesterday tests are being conducted with a group of bridge cars. If successful, they said the device might be used on Greyhound buses.

Officer's Pot Trial Ordered

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Superior Court trial has been ordered for a suspended police sergeant who was stripped of his uniform after lightning a marijuana cigarette on the steps of the Hall of Justice last April 14.

Richard Bergess, 36, was described by his attorney, Melvin Belli, at a hearing Friday as "the Dr. Spock of grass".

Belli interrupted as Assistant Dist. Atty. John Dwyer was attempting to establish that the cigarette Bergess lit contained marijuana.

It was indeed marijuana, Belli declared. "In fact, it was high quality grass."

The lawyer said his client regards the laws against smoking marijuana as outmoded. Bergess is known to hippies on his former beat as "Sgt. Sunshine."

Judge Elton Lawless ruled at the conclusion of the 45-minute hearing that there was reasonable cause for a Superior Court trial. The date will be set later.

Carnival Profits

Stinson Beach Community Center, Inc., netted $1,200 from its annual three-day carnival during the Fourth of July weekend, Mrs. Harriet M. Greene, secretary, has reported. Proceeds will be used for maintenance of the community center building, she said.

Kentfield Youth Sent To Prison

Robert Dale Litteral, 20, was given a 2-to-20-years sentence in prison yesterday in Marin Superior Court for marijuana possession and for furnishing methedrine to a 17-year-old girl.

Judge Thomas F. Keating ordered the terms to run concurrently. Litteral and his brother, Harry Alexander Litteral, 18, both of Kentfield, were convicted of marijuana possession and Robert Litteral was convicted of the furnishing charge by a Marin Superior Court jury on June 21.

Sentencing of Harry Litteral is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. July 22. The offenses occurred March 25.

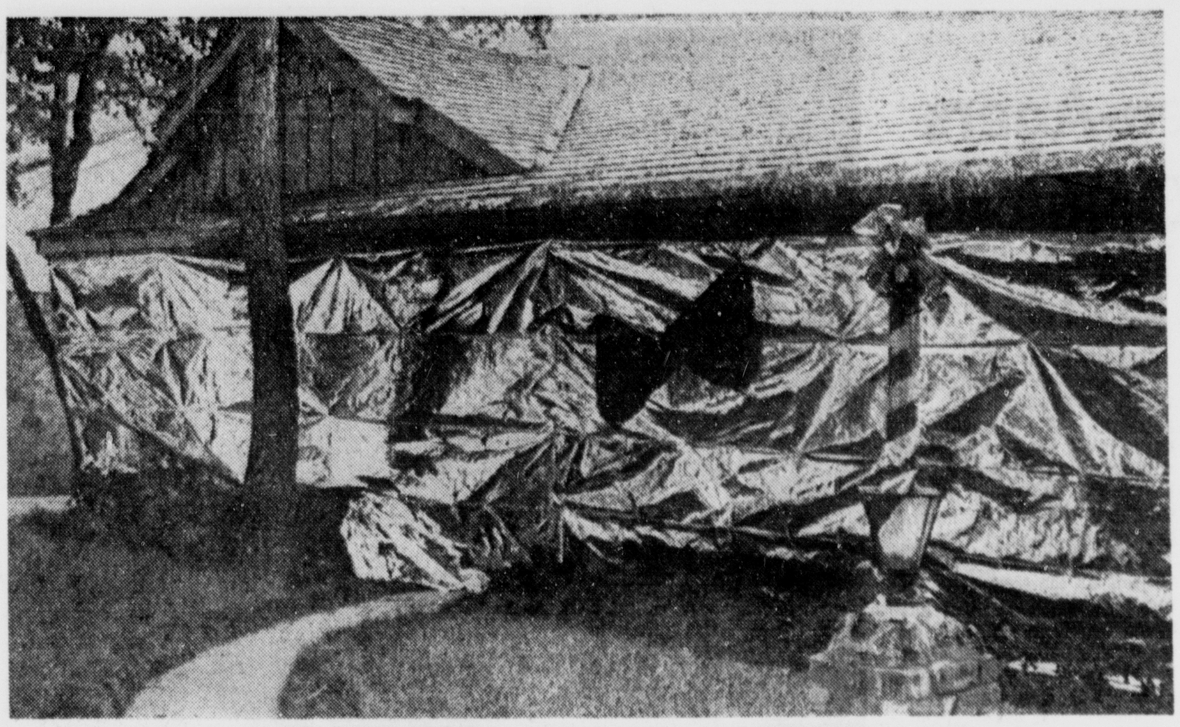
Garbage Rate Hike On Council Agenda

A request from the Mill Valley Refuse Co. to increase garbage rates from $2 to $2.75 per can per month will be discussed by the Mill Valley City Council at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The council will also hear planning commission recommendations for street light criteria and it will again discuss the regulations for use of city parks.

Coin Club Officers

New officers will be installed a the regular meeting of the Marin Coin Club at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Mill Valley Methodist Church, Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue.



MUST OPEN BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Curry, who live in this Houston, Tex., home, undoubtedly will open this gift-wrapped package before Christmas. They're on a vacation trip; on their return they face the task of tearing through the four-layer wrapping to get into their home. It's a prank in retaliation to one they pulled last summer on next door neighbors, the John Irwins, who came home to find a "for sale" sign posted on their lawn by the Currys. (UPI Telephoto)

San Francisco Eyes Slashing ABAG Dues

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Several local officials have launched a move to reduce San Francisco's membership in the Association of Bay Area Governments, which has had several dropouts since a $500,000 embezzlement hit the organization's financial operations last year.

Also mentioned by supervisors Leo T. McCarthy and Robert Mendelsohn as a sore spot was ABAG's overriding of San Francisco policies.

The supervisors' State and National Affairs Committee will recommend that San Francisco simply pay for a county seat this year instead of remaining as a city. This is expected to save $23,000 in dues.

Supervisor Dorothy von Beroldingen, once a delegate to to ABAG, called for a complete withdrawal.

"It has been demonstrated that the voice of San Francisco in ABAG is very small and cannot be effective," she said. "It's evolving in a manner that points in a direction contrary to the best interests of the city."

Former ABAG executive Thomas Truax is now serving a prison term for embezzlement.

INTERFAITH PROJECT

'Help' Serving Teen-Agers As Place To Air Opinions

By JIM BREWER

A group of Marin teen-agers, professionals and clergymen are directing and starring in a weekly television series seen as a public service on KGO-TV, San Francisco, Sunday at 8 a.m.

Going into its tenth week the Interfaith Council series, "Help," is produced by Rev. Charles B. Gompertz of the Church in Ignacio and directed by Paul S. Vieregge of Sausalito.

Considered by Gompertz an informal exchange program where "kids can say where they are now and where they are trying to go," the show utilizes a free-form set and a variety of special color effects.

At a taping session last week, seven Novato High School students joined with six other Bay Area students to discuss the question, "Who Am I?"

Taking their places on the set with moderator Dr. Robert Hall, a psychiatrist from Mill Valley, the youngsters quietly discussed the topic while the cameramen and technicians readied themselves for the afternoon's work.

Once under way, the cameras quickly moved in to pick up the center three students strumming and playing a quiet folk ballad while their companions stared into the vastness created by the free-form set.

On the studio monitor, the trio was seen superimposed behind a kaleidoscope of rich colors that slid across the screen creating a gentle, flowing effect.

As the music began to fade, the camera switched to a closeup of Hall. And as though he were in the middle of an involved discussion already, the moderator said, "I guess the obvious question now is, 'Who are you?' "

From his position atop one of the white cubicles, an unidentified youth hesitated momentarily and replied, "I don't know — I guess none of us do." He hesitated again and then added, "Not yet, anyway."

The discussion continued as the young panelists, faces somber and for the most part expressionless, tried to explain how they perceive themselves.

"I know that I'm a girl that is sitting here, wearing a pink dress," another continued. "I know that I think and feel. But I just don't know who I really am."

And so it went. Some sat as if completely bored by the subject while others tried in vain to answer the question.

"Each show is a unique experiment," Gompertz said later. The 32-year-old minister explained that some programs become intense and dynamic while others "just don't make it at all." He said, "We really don't know where each show will lead. Religion is a search for meaning and I think this program is the same thing."

Gompertz said that the show has religious overtones in that it "involves openness, wholeness and the reality behind social and religious facades. We're trying to put together a show that's not phony," he declared.

Christine Proett, 15, a panelist on the program for nine straight weeks, discussed her impressions. "The kids stimulate me to think. I'm somebody kind of different on the show because I don't talk about deep subjects usually. It gives me a chance to be serious," she said.

"I can talk on many different subjects off the show now," she said. "People should get teen-agers' views on subjects like this. Parents only hear about the bad things kids do. This program opens parents' minds."

Gompertz said the program is strictly unstructured and the participants have no idea what questions will be explored from show to show. He said subject matter varies from philosophical discussions to social comment.

"We have to keep changing panelists," he said. "We wouldn't want any of them to get big heads. We want to present the world as it is to them."

The program has become a favorite of the station's cameramen and technicians who find in it an opportunity to offer creative suggestions and to explore new camera techniques. Gompertz explained that sponsored programs are tightly structured and planned in advance, leaving no ideas up to these technicians.

WAITING FOR THE CAMERA

Moderator Dr. Robert Hall of Mill Valley, and student panelists Gale Williams and Mary Wood, both of Novato, watch impatiently while cameramen and technicians make ready for the taping of the ninth Interfaith Council series production, "Help."

TUNING UP — "Help" panelists Jim Warych and Judy Bersh, both of Novato, make ready for a musical opening to the day's program. The two are part of a trio that performs often on the weekly Interfaith Council series. (Photos by Rev. Charles Gompertz)

Catholic Church Leads Latin Social Reforms

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The Catholic Church is rapidly emerging as the leading spokesman for social reform in Latin America. In some areas it is breaking up alliances with the military and the rich, while building bridges to the masses.

Major church-state clashes have taken place in one country, and priests have joined guerrilla movements in at least two others. One priest who died fighting beside guerrillas has left behind a mystique of action that has made him a martyr in the eyes of some young clergymen.

Underlying the changed attitudes of the church as an institution are the decisions of the Second Vatican Council and the reformist encyclicals of Popes John XXIII and Paul VI.

"Vatican II gave positive credentials to those who had been striving for progress on their own," says Bishop Vladir Calheiros of Volta Redonda, one of the leading young reformists in the Brazilian church.

The council strengthened the hand of those who had long argued for a more active social role for the church, and silenced at least some conservative voices in the establishment.

Many clergymen, especially among the older bishops, are still leary of treading on sensitive toes in striving for reform. Others question the feasibility of the reformists' goals.

In Argentina, one of the countries where change has been slowest, a spokesman for the firmly entrenched traditionalist wing of the church has tried to mark the reformists with a Communist label.

"The progressivism that today runs through Catholic circles," wrote the Rev. Julio Meinvielle in a recent article, "reflects the impact that communism has made on these circles."

The reformists reject the label but agree with the generalization. They feel communism has stolen the initiative in promising social reform, and the church can no longer be content with offering only happiness in the beyond.

"Seeking to confine the church to the sacristy and to dealing exclusively with eternal life," says a Brazilian archibishop, Dom Helder Camara, "is to play the game of Karl Marx, for whom religion was both alienated and alienating. It is to accept it as the opiate of the people."

To many observers, Camara is the leader of the Latin American reformists, and their outstanding spokesman. A thin and frail man who rejects the pomp of his office, he travels through Brazil and elsewhere speaking for change.

He says the poor of the world cannot accept the explanation that some were born poor and others rich because it was God's will.

"Instead," he says, "we shall say openly that the social and economic structures of Latin America are unjust."

These ideas have been church policy in Chile since 1962 when the bishops issued a sweeping pastoral letter advocating a broad range of social reforms. The bishops gave away 50,000 acres of church-owned lands.

The church has also worked out a social philosophy for Chile and according to Jesuit sociologist Renato Poblete has seen it "usurped in a good way" by the Christian Democratic party now in power under President Eduardo Frei.

The church has by no means converted all communicants to its viewpoint. A wealthy member of the conservative Nationalist party recently complained to a newsman: "I go to Mass and I don't understand what's going on. I listen to the sermon and I think he's reading from El Siglo." That is the local Communist party newspaper.

Accusations are frequently hurled at the reformists, especially in Brazil where the church has become the only organized force standing up to the military-dominated government of President Arthur da Costa e Silva.

PRIESTHOOD FOR WOMEN DRAWS A 'NO'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A prominent Catholic theologian has turned thumbs down on the idea of women becoming priests.

Writing in the Vatican magazine l'Osservatore della Domenica, Msgr. Ferdinando Lambruschini said he flelt such proposals were "pure fantasy and extremely hazardous." He said they could only add to "the confusion in many fields of theology."

Father Lambruschini said the fact women hold high lay positions does not "automatically mean they must or can be called to take part in the priesthood."

He said it was ultimately up to higher church authority to decide the atter but its position "could not help but confirm" his.

Drug Abuse Film, Talk Scheduled

Marin County Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos will present a film on drug addiction and will discuss the subject at tomorrow's 9:45 a.m. Bible class at Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael.

Mountanos will also speak at Tuesday's 8 p.m. session of the church's women's league on "The Christian's Role in Peace and Order."

At the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow, Rev. Gerhardt Nitz, a relative of the present pastor, Rev. Arthur C. Nitz, will deliver the sermons.

He will also preach at the 9:45 a.m. service at the Resurrection Lutheran Church, 1100 Las Gallinas Avenue, Terra Linda.

FAITH TALK

Vincent Pleasant, member of the Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of San Francisco, will discuss the 20th Century religious history of Abdul-Baha, son of the founder of the Baha'i Faith at a meeting to be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at 30 Grande Paseo in Marinwood.

PULPIT GUEST

"Whose love, yours or God's?" is the theme of the sermon at the 9 and 10:30 a.m. services tomorrow by Rev. John Freeman at the Novato United Methodist Church, 1473 South Novato Boulevard.

Reverend Freeman has just received his master's degree in Bibical studies from San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. He will fill the pulpit of the Unted Methodist Church while Rev. Leo W. Hamilton is on vacation.

HISTORIC ACTION

Catholics Named To Council Panel

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — With Vatican approval, the assembly of the World Council of Churches has apposed nine Roman Catholics to the Faith and Order Commission.

While the Roman Catholic Church does not belong to the WCC, membership on the commission is open to nonmember churches.

The commission is the most important WCC body for continuing study of theology with the aim of eliminating obstacles to closer church unity.

Officials said the Vatican gave permission for the Catholics to be nominated 10 days before the assembly opened here this week.

The action means that for the first time Roman Catholics will be full members of a WCC body.

WCC officials hailed the decision as a breakthrough in the expansion of collaboration with Roman Catholics.

The names were presented among 53 nominations by De Lukas Vischer, director of the Faith and Order secretariat. Evidently taking a favorable vote for granted, Vischer said it was a matter for rejoicing that for the first time in the council's history representatives of all the major church traditions would be on the commission.

WCC Secretary-General Eugene Carson Blake hailed the nominations as "concrete evidence" of the intention expressed by the second joint working group of the Roman Catholic Church and the World Council in 1967 to seek "constantly more dynamic relations." That vision was now more than mere words, he said.

Roman Catholic observer-delegates were present and allowed to speak at the historic Wednesday session but not to vote for the first time at this assembly.

The presence of Catholics on the Faith and Order Commission will give the Roman Catholic Church both a voice and a vote on some of the WCC's most important policy decisions.

The nominees, which were approved later, include two Americans, Rev. Raymond E. Brown and Prof. Walter Burghardt. Father Brown is professor of New Testament Scripture at St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore. Burghardt is a member of the faculty at Woodstock College, Woodstock, Md.

The other theologians were: Rev. Umberto Betti of Rome; Rev. J. Chibangu, rector of the Catholic University, Kinshasa, the Congo; Rev. Bernard Dupuy, director of Istina, Paris; Dom Emannuel Lanne, a French-born Benedictine who teaches in Rome; Prof. Jorge Medina of the Catholic University of Santiago, Chile; Prof. Joseph Ratzinger, of Tuebingen University, Germany, and Prof. Samel Rayan, of Lumen Institute, Ernakulam, Kerala, India.

Friends Programs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Churchman, independent journal of the Protestant Episcopal Church, reports that the American Friends Service Committee spent $6,886,609 in 1967 on programs in 18 countries and the United States. The programs ranged from self-help housing to conferences for diplomats, and marked the committee's 50th anniversary.

Pro Grid Talks Resume

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

The feuding players and owners of the National Football League today are preparing to meet again in an attempt to solve the pension problems that have plagued their practice camps and threatened their season.

"NFL owners have acknowledged the request of the Players Association for a meeting which has tentatively been set for Sunday afternoon in New York," NFL President Art Modell announced in Cleveland last night.

He added that the meeting would be held on the condition that all concerned parties could be notified in time.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for the players' group said John Gordy of Detroit, president of the NFL Players Association, had contacted all members of their negotiating committee and their attorney and all were ready to make the trip.

Asked why Gordy couldn't speak for himself, the spokesman replied:

"He's been talking all day and has a sore throat."

"It appears," Gordy said, "the owners are trying to break this association and we will not stand for it. The association is stronger than ever."

In Johnson City, Tenn., where the Atlanta Falcons opened their rookie camp today, player representative Sam Williams charged the owners "are trying to break up the players' association by threat.

"First, by making a statement cancelling all training camps and then reversing their decision and opening them to rookies only and running off all veterans who show up.

"And by threatening top lay

Giants On A Spree

CINCINNATI (AP) — The three-day All-Star break apparently has revived the San Francisco Giants' sagging bats.

The power hitters, Willie Mays, Jim Ray Hart and Willie McCovey, blasted home runs and the Giants collected 14 hits yesterday in beating Cincinnati, 11-4, for the Giants' second straight win.

Hart knocked in five runs with two homers—his 17th with two men on in the fifth and his 18th with a man on in the ninth.

Cincinnati took a 2-0 lead off Giants' starter Ray Sadecki in the third on Alex Johnson's double, a walk, Lee May's single and a force play.

McCovey got one back in the fourth with his 21st home run and the Giants tied it on doubles by Hart and Jesus Alou, knocking out the Reds' starter, Gary Nolan.

Hart's first homer broke the tie. Mays was responsible for two of the Giants' three runs in the sixth with his 13th homer.

Bob Bolin, relieving Sadecki in the third, picked up his third victory in five starts. Bolin hurled until the eighth, when Frank Linzy came in and was tagged for a homer by the Reds' John Bench.

Catcher Dick Dietz and second baseman Ron Hunt of the Giants left the game after suffering minor injuries — Dietz with a sprained ankle and Hunt with a twisted knee.

Both were expected to be in the lineup today when the Giants close out the Cincinnati series with a twilight game. Juan Marichal, 15-4, opposes the Reds' George Culver, 6-8.

The Giants' bullpen will have a new face Sunday when Bill Monbouquette, 31, joins the team in Atlanta.

Monbouquette, 5-7, was obtained from the New York Yankees for Lindy McDaniel, who was 0-0 in 19 innings for the Giants.

Player Rallies To Capture The British Open

JACK HANLEY

A Hero One Season
And A Flop The Next

A year ago at the All-Star break Mike McCormick had a sparkling 11-3 record which ultimately became 22-10 by season's end. McCormick was the top pitcher in the National League and overwhelmingly voted winner of the Cy Young Award.

Now, at the All-Star break this year McCormick's record was a mediocre and most disappointing 6-11. McCormick even discarded his windup in an effort to solve his pitching problems. A non-windup delivery did help him a couple of years ago at Washington when he was having problems.

This spring McCormick was quietly confident although, as always, he was ready with a quick quip that enlivened interviews. During one session in Phoenix, Mike said:

"I've got to prove I'm for real. I had quite a few wins last year before the batters discovered I was around. What can I do for an encore this season? Just my best. Breaks are the difference between a 15 and 20 game winner. After I throw the ball, it's up to eight other guys to cover any mistakes I've made."

No Breaks And Several Mistakes

During the first half of the 1968 season McCormick didn't get many breaks and he made a number of mistakes that his teammates could not cover up, such as a dozen gopher balls.

Mike made only one mistake in his first start of the season. He went 13 innings against the Pirates on April 11 but wound up with no decision for a fine six-hit, six-strikeout performance. He would have won 1-0 in nine except for a seventh inning homer by Donn Clendenon that tied it 1-1. The Pirates scored two off Frank Linzy in the 15th and won 3-1.

That no-decision 13-inning affair seemed to set an ironical pattern for McCormick this year. He pitched well enough to win his second game but Jerry Koosman pitched better. Mike allowed the Mets only five hits before bowing out in the seventh for a pinch hitter because he was down 2-0. Koosman shutout the Giants in that one.

'We'll Go As Our Hitters Go'

We'll go the way our hitting goes," McCormick had said in one of his spring interviews.

It wasn't a lack of hitting that sent McCormick to his second defeat in his third start. The Pirates clobbered him in Pittsburgh, kayoing him in 3⅓ innings on seven hits and six runs.

There was deepening concern for McCormick at this juncture but he quickly dispelled it in his fourth assignment. He shutout the Dodgers 3-0 on a five-hitter April 27 in Candlestick. And on May 5 he evened his record at 2-2 with a complete game victory over the Cardinals. Mike got big support from his teammates in that one—eight runs for an 8-4 win.

Many Problems Plague Giants

Since that time it has been a painful struggle for McCormick but his problems are only part of the multiple ones that have been plaguing the Giants.

Some of the team problems? Well, for one, an 0-4 record in extra inning games. For another, an inability to win one-run games. In June the Giants lost seven of nine one-run decisions and closed the month with a 14-15 record.

On June 1 the Giants were tied for first place with the Cardinals who ran away from the rest of the league during the month with a blistering 21-9 record.

Cerrudo Has Shot At Title

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Dave Stockton will take a chance when he sees an opening. The 26-year-old Californian saw one yesterday and vaulted into a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

"Sometimes I charge and sometimes I play safe," said Stockton after shooting a torrid 67 on the 7,155-yard par-72 North Shore Country Club course. "But I'm a better golfer charging."

Yesterday's round, combined with a first-round 68, gave the Cleveland Open champion a nine-under-par 135 after 36 holes. Two strokes back at 137 were Jim Wiechers, Mac McLendon and veteran Sam Snead, who shot a course record 65.

FOUR BACK

(And sitting there only four strokes off the pace at 139 is Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael seeking his first PGA victory. Cerrudo shot a 68 yesterday following a first round 71.)

"I feel just as confident now after two rounds as I did at Cleveland after three," said Stockton, whose wife, Cathy, is expecting the couple's first child July 21.

Stockton's hot putter turned in five birdies, including a pair of 20-footers as he shot by Dave Marad, who was nine under after 29 holes but collapsed in the stretch.

Marad fell apart on the 17th and 18th holes, taking a double bogey on the par 3, 170-yard 17th and a bogey on the 18th.

A DISASTER

"It was a disaster," said the second-year pro from Wollaston, Mass., who wound up in a four-way tie at 138 three strokes off the pace with Masters Champion Bob Goalby, Dick Lotz and Al Geiberger.

Snead's round was his best this year and broke the day-old mark of 66 jointly set by McLendon and Rocky Thompson in the first round.

Almost as hot was Weichers, a 23-year-old pro from Atherton, Calif. He made the turn five under par at 31, another course record, and came home in 35 for one of three 66s turned in yesterday. Weichers, who failed to qualify for the tournament, got in as an alternate when Lou Graham withdrew.

Thompson, who held the first-round lead with McLendon, slipped to a 73 yesterday. He took a double bogey 7 on the par 5, 545-yard fourth hole, and wound up grouped at 139 with veteran Tommy Bolt, Cerrudo and Jim Colbert of Kansas City.

Julius Boros, Tom Weiskopf and U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino all made the cut, set at 145.

Dramatic Eagle Does The Trick

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Little Gary Player of South Africa nailed a dramatic eagle on the 14th hole and went on to shoot a final round 73 for 289 today that won him his second British Open Golf Championship.

The meticulous pro from Johannesburg finished two strokes ahead of Jack Nicklaus and Bob Charles of New Zealand, tying for second place at 291.

Nicklaus, playing with Player over Carnoustie's chilly, wind-whipped 7,252 yards, made a strong charge but could not pick up ground. He had a last round 73.

Charles, the left-hander who won this title in 1963 and who started the day only one shot back of the front-running Bill Casper, faltered on the final round, shooting 76.

Casper, who led through the second and third rounds, skied to an outgoing 40 and never was able to move back into contention.

On the 490-yard 14th, where Player canned his decisive eagle from five feet, Casper drove out of bounds and took a double bogey 6. That was the telling blow.

GROWING FAMILY

It was the first major victory for Player since he won the U.S Open at St. Louis in 1965. Winner of his first British Open in 1959, the tiny South African who dresses in basic black has curtailed his big time golf activities to devote more time to his growing family in Johannesburg.

He owns a large cattle ranch on the outskirts of the South African metropolis.

Gay Brewer of Dallas, Tex., the 1967 Masters champion, made a strong charge midway of the final round but finished shakily. He finished with a 76 for 295.

No other American made a serious challenge in this 108-year-old event, the grandfather of golf championships.

The PGA, the only major title Palmer has never won, will be played next weekend in the Texas city.

Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., with a triple bogey at the 10th hole, shot a final 77 for 304. Hubby Habjab, the 36-year-old club pro from Chicago, shot a 79 for 306, and Bert Yancey, the former West Pointer from Tallahassee, Fla., had an 84 for 311.

FIVE-WAY SCRAMBLE

A three-way battle turned into a five-way scramble at one stage of the final round. At one joint, Casper, Player and Charles were in a three-way tie, with Nicklaus and Brewer one and two shots behind.

RECORD JUMP BY MARIN WATER SKIER

San Anselmo's Mike Suyderhund, who captured the world overall water ski championship last year, upped Jimmy Jackson's three year old jump record by two feet with a flight of 154 feet yesterday in the Masters tournament at Callaway Gardens, Ga.

The muscular, 18-year-old blond grabbed the overall lead in the first day of competition with his record jump and by placing second in the slalom and third in tricks. Chris LaPointe, 16, of Castro Valley won the first round slalom event.

Lions Sign Trojan Ace

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions of the National Football League last night signed Southern California hurdler Earl McCullouch to a contract.

McCullouch, 22, had been expected to help represent the U.S. track team in the Olympics Games at Mexico City this year. But he said the fact that he has a family to support and wants to be part of the Lions' organization made him decide to pass up the Olympics.

He was a first-round draft pick of the Lions this year. Last season with Southern Cal he was a receiver and caught 30 passes for 540 yards.

As a track star, McCullouch holds a world record in high hurdles and numerous NCAA records. McCullouch said one of his goals was to compete in the Olympics, but he said he would bypass them to play with Detroit.

McCullouch won't be available to the Lions until after the All-Star Game in Chicago Aug. 2. Terms of McCullouch's contract and its length were not disclosed.

Mrs. Ritter Wins Golfing Honors

Mrs. Robert Ritter shot 74-15—59 Thursday to win the 18-hole Captain's Trophy tournament played by the Las Gallinas Women's Golf Club.

Other leaders were Mesdames Ned DiGrazia, 71-11—60; Bo Johnson, 69-8—61; C. E. Christison, 77-15—62.

Mrs. Johnson had the best front nine, 35-4—31, while Mrs. DiGrazia had the best back nine with 34-6—28.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Cleveland Hurler Equals Record Against Athletics

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Records are made to be broken, but Sam McDowell had to settle for a tie and a raincheck last night.

The fast-balling left-hander equaled a modern major league mark by fanning the first five batters he faced in Cleveland's 6-3 victory over Oakland. But he was one short of the standard of 41 strikeouts in three consecutive games when he was relieved with two out in the ninth inning.

Elsewhere, American League-leading Detroit beat Minnesota 5-1, Baltimore made it 11 straight over Washington 3-2, Boston hung on to beat California 3-2 and the New York Yankees edged the Chicago White Sox and interim manager Les Moss 2-1.

In the first inning at Oakland, McDowell whiffed John Donaldson and Bert Campaneris en route to a 15-strikeout night. Danny Cater then fouled the first pitch off his foot and left the game. Ramon Webster completed the strikeout.

Sal Bando went down swinging to start the second and Reggie Jackson was caught looking before Joe Rudi bounced to short. It was the second time in his career McDowell had fanned the first five batters in a game and he is one of seven pitchers —four in the American League and three in the National—to perform the feat, but the only one to do it twice.

The all-time mark is nine game-opening strikeouts by Michael Welch of the New York National League club in 1884.

McDowell was relieved by Vicente Romo after he fanned Jackson to open the ninth, walked Rudi, got Rick Monday on a popup and went to a 2-0 count on Dave Duncan.

DIDN'T MIND

"I didn't mind being taken out," he said. "All I wanted to do was win. I don't try for strikeouts. I try to get two quick strikes and then throw a pitch the batters can't handle. I only reach back for something extra with runners in scoring position."

The record of 41 strikeouts in three games was set by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1959 and equaled only last week by McDowell's teammate, Luis Tiant. McDowell fanned 14 in his last outing for a two-game total of 29 and will have a shot at the mark his next time out.

The Indians sed twice off Jim "Catfish" Hunter in the second inning on singles by Duke Sims, Larry Brown, Vern Fuller and McDowell. Solo home runs in the seventh by Russ Snyder and Jimmie Hall insured the triumph.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

A Game Of Inches For Cards' Gibson

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

A few silly little inches are the only things standing in the way of the St. Louis Cardinals' blazing fastballer from being the greatest shutout artist in history.

Eleven days ago, one of Bob's hopping fastballs was a bit off target and Los Angeles scored on the wild pitch to halt a Gibson scoreless string at 47 innings.

Unperturbed, Bullet Bob started another streak and had built it to 23 innings last night when Houston's Denis Menke lined a run-scoring double in the seventh.

Menke's shot—scoring only the second run in 71 innings off Gibson—was fair by only a few inches.

Although he was unsuccessful in his bid for a seventh shutout this season, Gibson stopped the Astros on three hits and his mates backed him with a 15-hit attack in the 8-1 rout. Gibson, 12-5, didn't permit a baserunner until Bob Aspromonte's leadoff double in the sixth.

NINTH STRAIGHT

It was the ninth straight triumph for Gibson, who hasn't been beaten since May 28, and it was the ninth victory in 10 games for the rampaging Cardinals, who maintained their 9½ game lead.

In other National League activity, Atlanta ripped Los Angeles 7-0, San Francisco trounced Cincinnati 11-4, Philadelphia turned back Pittsburgh 3-2 and New York blanked Chicago 4-0.

The Cards spotted Gibson a 3-0 lead with single runs in the first, third and fifth, then put it out of doubt with a five-run uprising in the eighth when Bob Tolan smashed a two-run homer and Johnny Edwards, Julian Javier and Curt Flood each singled in runs.

The Dodgers' Don Drysdale, who holds the record of six straight shutouts and 57 scoreless innings that Gibson had been seeking, was battered by Atlanta for three runs in the sixth, then chased with four more in the next inning.

Rookie Jim Britton, 4-2, who got into the starting rotation when Milt Pappas came down with the flu, checked the Dodgers on five hits.

"I had good stuff tonight," said the 24-year-old right-hander, "I kept them guessing because I had good command of my fast ball, slider and curve."

Timmy Brown Quits Colts, Embarks On Acting Career

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

BALTIMORE — Timmy Brown, literally changing costumes and scenes, has quit the National Football League to begin a show business career in Los Angeles.

Borwn, 31, had been hampered by injuries the past two seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles. But Baltimore, gambling he was still an offensive threat, dealt safetyman Alvin Haymond to the Eagles for Brown after the 1967 season.

A healthy Brown was a potent weapon. He gained more than 12,000 yards in eight seasons, including 2,425 in 1963 on rushing, pass receptions and kick returns.

The Colts had intended to use Brown as a swing man to Tom Matte at running halfback.

Baltimore coach Don Shula said Haymond would remain with Philadelphia, but Brown's failure to report meant further discussions would be held with Joe Kuharich, coach and general manager of the Eagles, in an attempt "to resolve the trade."

WASHINGTON — The Redskins signed Jim Steffen, a veteran player they had traded to Dallas two years ago, as a free agent.

Slumping Oakland Clippers Drop Third Straight

TORONTO (AP) — The once mighty Oakland Clippers now find themselves only 10 points out of last place in the Pacific Division of the North American Soccer League.

The Clippers dropped the third straight game and their fourth in their last five last night to Toronto, 2-1, before 5,602 fans.

The Clippers remained second in the Pacific Division behind San Diego but with 99 points are only six ahead of third-place Los Angeles.

Allan Harvey's goal early in the second half was the difference in the Toronto game.

In the first half, Oscar Lopez had scored for Toronto and Ilija Mitic had countered for the Clippers, who play at Detroit Tuesday night.

Coloradans Turn Back San Rafael

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. — The Grand Junction Eagles rode the five-hit, nine-strikeout pitching of Mel Casey to a 5-0 victory over the San Rafael Braves in a Western Baseball Association game played here last night in 97 degree heat before 4,800 fans.

The loss was San Rafael's 6th against 13 victories and tightened up the league race with Bellingham, Wash. (16-8) and Eureka (13-8) in the thick of things.

San Rafael and Grand Junction meet again tonight in a double-header with Bill Clark and Ron Cole, both righthanders, scheduled to start on the mound for the Braves.

Last night San Rafael starting pitcher Ben Trujillo was victimized by the heat and had to be relieved in the first inning. He was charged with the loss.

49ers Rookies To Scrimmage Against Dallas

SANTA BARBARA (AP) —The San Francisco 49ers announced yesterday they would hold two controlled scrimmages next week between their rookies and those of the Dallas Cowboys.

The two National Football League teams will square off tomorrow at the 49ers camp at the University of California-Santa Barbara stadium and on Tuesday at the Cowboys' camp in Thousand Oaks.

Under the ground rules of the scrimmage, Dallas will take the ball at its own 30-yard line and try to score in tomorrow's scrum. On Tuesday, the 49ers will be on the offensive.

With the veterans still out of camp while the players association and club owners negotiate for a contract, only rookies and free agents are in the San Francisco camp.

In practice yesterday, the 49ers went through a 30-minute scrimmage with emphasis on blocking and tackling.

Ed Stanky Resigns; Lopez Takes Over

CHICAGO (AP) — Eddie Stanky resigned as manager of the Chicago White Sox yesterday and was replaced by Al Lopez, the man whom Stanky succeeded more than two years ago.

The White Sox did not hold a press conference. A club spokesman call various news media and announced that Stanky had resigned. Stanky went along with organizational lines and said he had resigned but was surprised by the announcement.

While Stanky might have been surprised by the announcement of his resignation, probating efforts revealed that the move to replace Stanky had been in the works for nearly a month and consummated by the Sox in All-Star break meetings held at Indianapolis.

"It was all so quick," said Stanky, "and I was surprised by the move. But I had to take into consideration my family, myself and the organization and it was the right move to make."

BATTLED SCRIBES

Stanky's more than two years as manager of the White Sox were marked by his various battles with sports writers.

Stanky, 50, has had problems getting his White Sox to hit. He guided them to fourth place in his first season in 1966 and last year the Sox were on top of the league most of the season until their last week collapse.

The hangover apparently plagued the Sox who opened the 1968 season by losing their first 10 games, a drop off from which they never recovered and were mired in ninth place, 18½ games behind the league leading Detroit Tigers.

So Stanky's

Today is Saturday, July 13, the 195th day of 1968 with 171 to follow.

The moon is between its full stage and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1863 opposition to the Federal Conscription Act led to an outburst of riots in New York City. More than 1,000 persons were killed, several Negroes lynched and property damage was almost 2 million dollars before the riots were put down three days later.

In 1865 Horace Greeley wrote an editorial in the New York Tribune that federal civil workers who didn't like Washington should "Go west, young man, go west and grow up with the country."

In 1878 the Russo-Turkish war ended.

In 1942 the underground Free French movement changed its name to "Fighting France."

A thought for the day: American statesman Daniel Webster said, "God grants liberty only to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Evil In Heart, Wood In Head, South Doesn't Make Contract

"Who knows what evil lies in the heart of man?" a famous radio program used to ask. There's an easy answer at the bridge table. Your partner knows, and he'll usually tell you all about it.

FINESSE TRY

When today's hand was played West opened the ten of spades. Declarer won in dummy with the queen of spades and led a diamond to try a finesse with the jack.

West won with the queen of diamonds and switched to the jack of hearts since it was clear that the spades were worthless. South won with the ace of hearts and returned the ten of diamonds, hoping to slip the trick by.

West took the ace of diamond diamonds and continued with the ten of hearts, and dummy's king of hearts was forced out before South could clear the king of diamonds out of his hand.

TRICK SHORT

As a reuslt, South could get only one diamond trick. This left him one trick short of his contract, and you may be sure that North had a few words to say about the evil in South's heart and the wood in his head.

South should make sure of two diamond tricks by refusing to try for a finesse. He should win the first trick in his own hand with the king of spades and should immediately return the king of diamonds.

West takes the ace of diamonds and may switch to hearts if he likes, but he cannot remove both entries from the dummy. If hearts are led, South wins with the ace and leads the jack of diamonds to force out the queen. The heart continuation goes to dummy's king, and South takes the ten of diamonds. Now, however, the queen of spades is still in the dummy. South leads the jack of spades to dummy's queen and cashes the nine of diamonds to assure the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ 10 9 8 7
♦ A Q
♣ J 9 6 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

You hand is not strong enough for a response of two clubs, and the spades are too shabby for a response of one spade. Your trump support is good enough for an immediate raise of partner's major suit.

Where Autos Fail

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—The American Petroleum Institute reports that faulty rear lights, headlights and stop lights ranked one-two-three as the leading causes for rejection of more than 350,000 cars and trucks failing the 20th annual national vehicle safety check. In the fourth, fifth and sixth positions were turn signals, brakes and tires.

To landlords, owners, apt. managers: why put up with rental headaches?

Turn your vacancies into dollars & rents — fast

Where are the best prospects for that home or apartment you have to rent? How can you find them–fast, at low cost? With a sign in the window? Hardly. Fastest, surest way is through the rental columns of I-J Classified. No question about it . . . this is where renters look first. This is where your message gets to 40,000 Marin families–biggest rental marketplace in the county. Instead of random "lookers" you get interested people who have read your ad, know the price. Saves you time, money and headaches. Gets your place rented and saves that "vacancy" in the pocketbook. Just phone any I-J office, below, and start the action. Ask for Classified.

A Complete 'Square' Served Country Well

IN THE EYES of the "now" generation, the late former Congressman Hubert Scudder must be a complete "square."

He was of, by, and for the "establishment."

He didn't throw rocks at firemen, or start destructive protest fires. He served as fire chief in Sebastopol, starting in 1912.

He neither led nor participated in any protest demonstrations or "sit-ins" at city hall. He merely ran for city council, was elected, and served as mayor of Sebastopol.

Neither did Hubert Scudder participate in any marches or demonstrations at the State Capitol in Sacramento. In the idiom of the "now" generation, "he didn't become involved." He simply ran for Assemblyman from Marin and Sonoma counties, was elected and served 15 years.

WHAT COULD BE SQUARER than a WASP insurance and real estate salesman? That's exactly what Hubert Scudder was; White, Anglo-Saxon, Protestant, and he engaged in both the insurance and real estate business.

He served the establishment again as State Real Estate Commissioner.

He never was involved in any marches or sit-ins in Washington. He merely ran for Congress from the First California District (which includes Marin), was elected, and served five terms.

He lived in a very comfortable upper middle class home atop a hill with a broad view of the beautiful Sebastopol orchard country. He belonged to a lodge, a businessmen's service club, a Protestant church, and the American Legion.

To repeat, in the eyes of the now generation, Hubert Scudder must be a middle class square of the squarest sort.

Trouble is, the now generation in making such judgments doesn't know what it's talking about.

Hubert Scudder was born poor. He had to drop out of school to go to work — and work he could find at any wage he could get. He wasn't able to enjoy the luxury of formal education beyond the sixth grade.

Ultimately, he became a member of the painter's union. To his dying day he was proud of his painter's union card. He was never ashamed of his strong, rough hands which testified to his long experience at manual labor.

He was a man of simple, uncomplicated, unsophisticated honesty and integrity. He said what he meant, he meant what he said.

He was a believer and practitioner in the American free enterprise system which makes it possible for a man of humble background to rise as high as his energy and native abilities will carry him.

To the now generation, in the habit of demanding that government authority give all and do all (for those who demand it), he certainly must seem square.

WHEN OLD AGE BEGAN to creep up on Hubert Scudder some years ago and disability followed disability, he was not forgotten and alone. Fellow members of his service club, his lodge and his church showed their concern. They remembered; they still came occasionally to visit him.

And on the day of his funeral earlier this week, they were there to pay their respects and comfort his family. There were even a few American Legion caps in evidence.

Those who knew Hubert Scudder and observed his half century of service "in the esttablishment" recognized qualities of greatness mostly obscured by the man's humility.

He served as fire chief, as mayor, as assemblyman, as real estate commissioner and as congressman NOT to exercise power nor bask in limelight, but simply to do a good job for his town, his state and his nation and for his fellow man.

If our nation is blessed with more squares like Hubert Scudder in coming generations, the future of our nation will be assured.

He WAS involved, in the highest and most constructive sense.

It is to be hoped that the kind of rugged individualism and individual initiative personified by Hubert Scudder will reappear again and again thus insuring the future welfare of our nation and our descendants.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to B. J. (Robert) Brusatori, who will retire this month after 48 years of service with Marin Municipal Water District, the last 30 years as secretary-treasurer.

BOUQUETS to Mr. and Mrs. Perry Townsley of Niles, Mich., who spotted and saved a 7-year-old Tiburon boy from a near drowning off Tiburon Peninsula.

BRICKBATS to property owners, particularly those who own empty lots, who do nothing about tall dry grass and rubbish. One spark, and the entire neighborhood can go up with a whoosh.

BRICKBATS to drivers who stop at a red light but pull their cars into the crosswalk and sit there smugly, while pedestrians are forced to walk around the car, either in front or back.

DRUG ADDICTION IS NO BED OF ROSES

In cooperation with the local crime commission, the 49-year-old woman tells youngsters of the horrors of 23 years with a $185-a-day heroin and cocaine habit. Forty-seven arrests, 17 years in jails, a wasted college degree and her parents' heartbreak are all a part of her story.

"I know a thousand junkies," she asserts, "and I tell you that they all started on marijuana. Here I am. I ruined a complete lifetime."

After one of her talks, a high schooler exclaimed: "She should talk everywhere, in every school." The momentary "kicks" that result from drug-taking are a pitiful return for the high risk of personal deterioration and crime that it entails.

God made us to accept the joys and rigors of a life that involves living up to responsibilities.

"Teach me what I do not see; if I have done iniquity, I will do it no more."

Guard Rail Needed On Drake Boulevard

No one seems to pay much attention when I and a few million other Americans protest the tortured death of children in Vietnam. The political and military brass, sounding annoyed, keep explaining that a certain number of kids have to be sacrificed to protect democracy.

But I can agitate strenuously against the death of children on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. I add these words to those of Warren Heiman in his July 6 letter to the I-J.

On most of that boulevard there is no shoulder, no gutter, no real sidewalk, but hundreds of children have to use it twice every school day. Sometimes even more frequently in summer months.

Twice I have arrived on the scene only minutes after unavoidable accidents in which a total of three children were killed.

After one of the accidents, a woman friend of mine got enough names on a petition to force the construction of a few yards of steel guard rail along one of the worst sections near the Wolfe Grade intersection. That inadequate fragment, I suspect, represented a token granted by county politicians to forestall a revolution by Greenbrae mothers.

A series of revolutions may be necessary to erect a guard rail from 101 to Wolfe Grade. So, ladies, let's get started.

We can't do a thing about those air strikes against undefended Asian villages. But maybe we have the right to insist Marin kids have a fighting chance to reach school alive.

Weapon Registration Called 'Tom-Foolery'

As a very conservative estimate, let's assume that there are some three million guns in this Bay Area which are subjected to the regulations of this recent hullabaloo over gun registration.

In order to read and record the serial number of each of these weapons you have an outlay of at least five minutes PER WEAPON.

This amounts to 1,250 eight-hour days of registering at the rate of one registration every five minutes. A total of some three and one-half years of registration time.

Who pays for this tom-foolery? Guess who.

GOLDEN GATE VIEW

Bridge 'Pot Of Gold' Could Easily Vanish

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The bulk of the money to help solve Marin's transportation crisis will have to come from the pot of gold now firmly in the hands of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Marin's resources simply are too skimpy to finance the kinds of transit systems the county will need.

But that pot of gold will melt away overnight if the bridge district directors continue on their collision course with the state legislature.

A majority of the directors hotly contest proposed legislation to alter the composition of their 24-member board, and advocates of the legislation just as hotly swear they will abolish the district next year if its directors succeed in defeating the proposed changes.

The legislation (AB 855), by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, would increase the number of directors from Marin and San Francisco, and require that half of the board be composed of county supervisors or city councilmen.

Bagley and other critics of the bridge board argue that the present appointive board is utterly isolated from the public will and interest.

IT WOULD be an unfortunate, but necessary, choice if Bagley elects to seek abolition of the district by the 1969 legislature.

Both Bagley and Assemblyman John F. Foran, R-San Francisco, say that a new district could be created to save the pot of gold for use in the "Golden Gate corridor."

Or, if the pot were given to some existing state agency, the pot could be marked for use only between San Francisco and the north bay counties, the assemblymen agree.

The bridge board simply is not used to not getting its own way, and is shocked and hurt to suddenly run into pressure that they share their pot — public pot, after all.

EVEN THE bridge district's traditional protector, Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, suggested Monday before the Senate Local Goevrnment Committee that he might introduce a bill to turn the district over to the State Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

His statement was seen by many only as a ploy in his fight against Bagley's bill, but in fact, he may be serious.

Collier, "the father of California freeways," is an enemy of mass transit.

Thus, he probably would oppose use of the bridge district funds to promote the mass transit — trains and ferries, particularly — envisioned someday between Marin and San Francisco.

COLLIER MAY prefer to turn the pot of gold over to the Division of Bay Toll Crossings — which is strictly in the business of vehicular bridges.

The toy trucks that adorn Collier's Sacramento office are evidence both of his conviction that highways come before mass transit, and of the influence on him from auto, oil and other highway interests.

He and these interests may be powerful enough to see that none of the bridge district's assets ever will be available for anything but more bridges and freeways.

Bagley's bill will be back before the committee Monday afternoon. Collier managed to have it held up one week, obviously hoping that by delaying it to what may be the last week of the legislative session, the bill may get lost in the log-jam.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

With Ike Openly Backing Him, Nixon Has Nomination Sewed Up

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon now has the clincher which nails down his Presidential nomination: General Dwight D. Eisenhower is giving Nixon his support and endorsement — visibly, openly, and unqualifiedly.

What some who have recently talked with Ike already know can now be reported without reservation: Ike is for Dick Nixon's nomination. He is saying so and intends to keep on saying so. He will be using his quiet but significant influence to help bring it about.

He may or may not issue a formal, preconvention endorsement, but even this is not to be ruled out. He simply is not going to remain neutral with respect to his party's Presidential nominee, as he did in 1964, and there will be no denial from his suite at Walter Reed that he is unequivocally and enthusiastically for a Nixon renomination.

Ike's decision to turn from neutrality — the position he took when I last talked to him — to active support can have only one consequence. It gives Nixon's nomination such a conclusive push that there is now nothing faintly visible to keep it from him.

IKE HAS NOT been hasty in coming to his decision. Some of the surrounding evidence is this:

Charles W. Wolf, an elected delegate to the Republican National Convention from Ike's home district in Gettysburg, resisted Gov. Raymond Shafer's pressure to put Pennsylvania wholly behind Nelson Rockefeller and announced that he was going to vote for Nixon. Wolf knew his action was not displeasing Eisenhower.

At the opening of Nixon campaign headquarters in Gettysburg, Wolf's statement supporting Nixon was read by David Eisenhower, chairman of the national Youth for Nixon Committee and fiance of Nixon's daughter Julie. David knew he was not displeasing his grandfather.

Lt. Col. John Eisenhower is a Nixon advocate. He is not trying to be invisible. He was present on the platform when Nixon addressed his supporters on the night of his primary victory in Oregon. He will be at the convention in Miami Beach working with Nixon and for Nixon's nomination. John knows he is not displeasing his father.

Mamie Eisenhower is radiantly and conspicuously wearing a brightly colored, four-inch Nixon button in public. She is not wearing it shyly. She is not being neutral. She knows she is not displeasing her husband.

WHEN I HAVE discussed Presidential politics with General Eisenhower in recent months, he has stressed three qualifications which he felt the GOP nominee should have: be fit for the office, be a unifying force within the party, and be electable.

Apparently Ike is now satisfied with Nixon on all three of these counts. He never had any doubt about his fitness and about his unifying role. He is also persuaded that Nixon is electable, particularly in view of his good showing in the primaries and his standing in the polls which, though they vary some, show a relatively narrow gap between Nixon and his possible Democratic opponents.

Ike has often remarked that one of the most painful mistakes he felt he made was failing — despite his illness — to campaign more strenuously for Nixon in 1960. He feels in retrospect that his efforts might have made the difference. He would like to repair that mistake — or help Nixon to do so.

This year Nixon didn't need Ike's help to run up a commanding lead. The momentum is still mounting. Oregon's popular Senator, Mark Hatfield, and Massachusetts's Governor, John Volpe, have just boarded the bandwagon. Nixon already has the delegates to win the nomination if he can hold them. Eisenhower's open support will make it easier for him to do so. The outcome is hardly in doubt.

A SENATOR'S NOTEBOOK

No Time For Delay In Reappointing Justices

By EVERETT McKINLEY DIRKSEN

In ordinary times it would be the wisest course to have a generous cooling-off period before appointment of a new chief justice and associate justice to the Supreme Court of the United States. Now, however, is not one of those times.

The announced resignation for retirement of Chief Justice Earl Warren stimulated immediate speculation on who would be chosen to succeed him and who would be named to any other vacancy on the court, should the nomination for chief justice go to a present member of the court.

The speculation came to an end with the appointment of Associate Justice Abe Fortas of Tennessee to the post of chief justice and Homer Thornberry of Texas to the post of associate justice.

The appointments disappointed many Republicans. As a voice to their objection to the nominations at this time of political strife, 19 Republican senators signed a round robin of protest. They want the nominations to be made by the next President, whoever he is.

WE CANNOT now view such action and opinion with the degree of equanimity that otherwise might prevail. These are extraordinary political times. If the political viewpoint had not entered into the matter, the cooling-off period would be desirable. But now we do have a political situation in relation to the appointments to the Supreme Court, and we cannot back off from it. We cannot wait. The burden created in the round robin of the 19 senators must be lifted.

Some of the 19 have already told me, in fact, that they are not now in favor of a delay and, when the time comes to consider the nominations, they will not oppose early approval during the administration of Mr. Johnson.

JUSTICE FORTAS is already a member of the court. He was approved as a judge in 1965, and he certainly is going to remain on the court whether or not his new nomination is approved. It is now a question of whether the judge will be approved as a chief judge. It is not a question of his ability. It is a question of politics.

However, it would be good for the country if more of the public could express themselves to the members of the Senate concerning Justice Fortas and Judge Thornberry. The reasons are sound.

On occasion the Supreme Court has been taken to task, even by its own members, for venturing into fields which had been regarded previously as within the purview of the Congress. At this very time, a Select Committee of the Senate is examining this field of separation of powers as between the legislative, executive and judicial branches of government.

WHEN A PRESIDENT nominates a person to the Supreme Court, the proceedings that follow — the hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee and then the open hearings where the nominee appears in person — are very short. Few people appear and testify for or against the nominee.

The reverberations from Supreme Court decisions have had an effect on the lives of almost every American. It is entirely appropriate now that the public should be completely informed so that it can give careful attention to the appointments of two men, for life, to the Supreme Court.

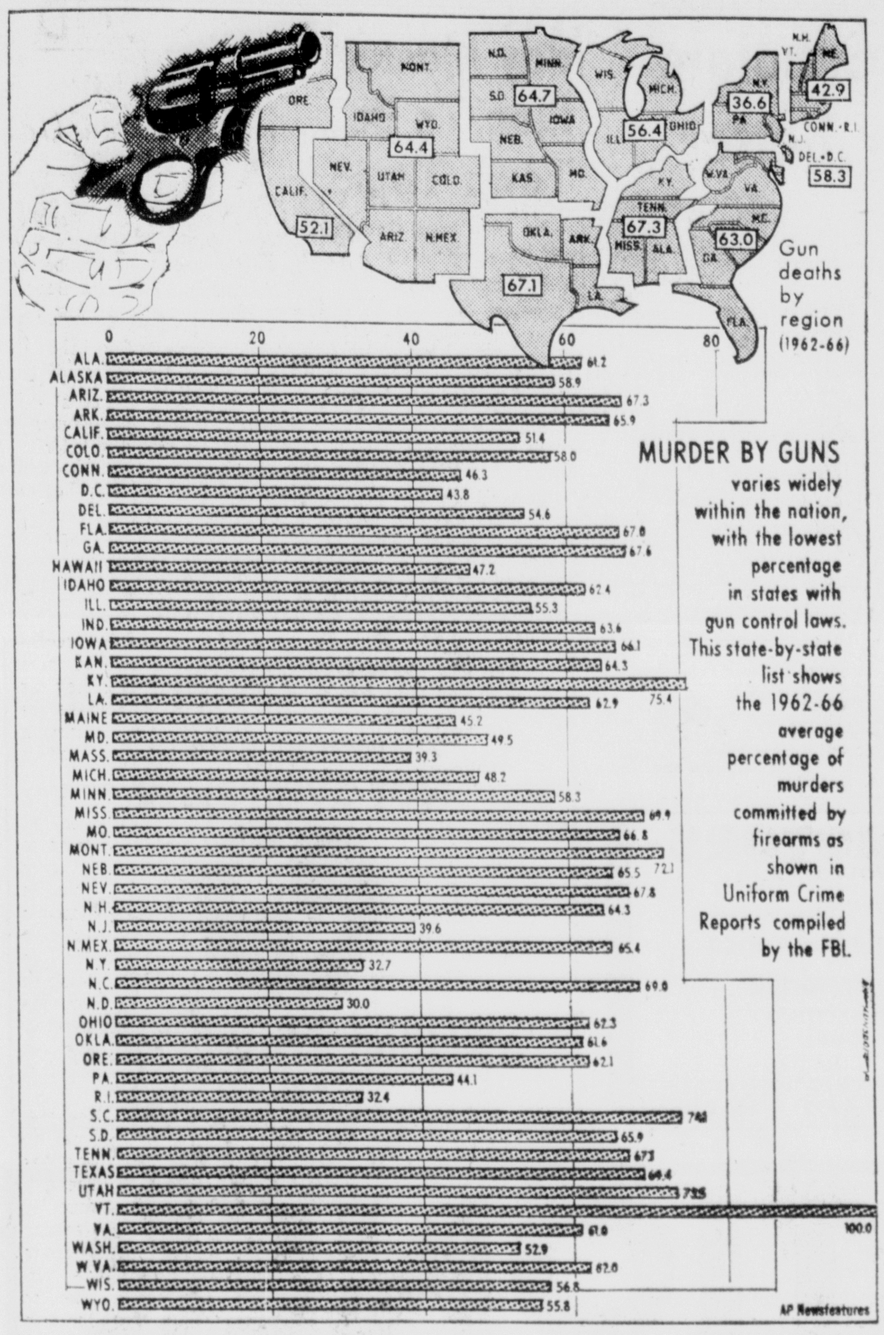
Figures Show Gun Control Helps



By STEPHEN M. AUG

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the United States leads at least 14 other nations in the rate of murders committed with firearms, federal figures show that the percentage of murders committed with guns varies widely within the nation — generally the lowest in states with some form of gun control laws.

President Johnson cited the comparisons with 14 other nations recently when he called for congressional approval — now being argued — of a national plan for gun registration. The proposal would require registration of all firearms to start six months after enactment.

Although primary responsibility for registration would rest with the states, the federal government would take over registration in any state whose standards do not neet those set up by Congress.

The President in his message to Congress, said the United States is "without the gun control laws that other nations accept as an elementary need and condition of life."

He noted that the United States ranked last among 15 nations with a rate of 2.7 gun murders per 100,000 population.

This compared with rates of .03 per hundred thousand population in The Netherlands; Japan .04; England .05; Wales .05; West Germany.02; Italy .70; Canada .52; Belgium .26; Australia 1.56; Denmark 1.3; France 1.3; New Zealand .17; Scotland .06 and Sweden .11.

Recent figures for individual states show that those with some form of gun control laws generally have lower percentages of murders by firearms than states that have no such laws.

According to figures from the Uniform Crime Reports compiled by the FBI, 56.9 per cent of all murders in this country during the 1962-66 period were committed with a firearm. Yet, the Northeastern states during this same period had an average of 37.3 per cent gun deaths.

This relatively low percentage is credited to the fact that Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Rhode Island all have gun control laws.

Strong support for registration of firearms came last year from the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice. In addition to registration of handguns, rifles and shotguns, the commission recommended laws to prohibit such persons as chronic drunks, mental defectives, convicted felons and others from buying firearms.

The commission quoted FBI statistics as showing "a higher proportion of homicides are committed with firearms in those areas where firearms regulations are lax, than in those areas where there are more stringent controls."

As examples it cited Dallas, Tex., and Phoenix, Ariz., where firearms controls are weak.

In 1963 in Dallas 72 per cent of homicides were committed with firearms; in Phoenix 65.9 per cent. In Chicago, where regulations are stricter, 46.4 per cent of homicides were committed with firearms, and in New York City—which has the most stringent controls of any major city in the United States — the figure was about 25 per cent.

As for the availability of guns, the commission pointed to the conclusion of a Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee which found that "criminals, for the most part, purchase their firearms through the mails or in retail stores, rather than stealing them."

The Uniform Crime Reports show that for the 1962-66 period the highest proportion of gun deaths in the nation was in the South, where 65.1 per cent of murders were committed with firearms. In the West the figure was 55.2 per cent, and in the North Central region 58.3. New England has 42.9 per cent, while the lowest grouping of states is 36.6 per cent in the Middle Atlantic region of New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

States with some form of registration or permit required to purchase a firearm show these percentages of deaths by guns: Hawaii 47.2; Massachusetts 39.3, Michigan 48.2, Missouri 66.8, New Jersery 39.6, New York 32.7, North Carolina 69, Rhode Island 32.3. Illinois has recently enacted a law and no figures were available.

South Carolina, which requires registration of handguns within the state, but in a law which apparently is not effective, reports firearms were used in 74.1 per cent of homicides there. Only two states had higher rates, Kentucky with 75.4 and Vermont with 100 per cent.

Among those who have consistently sought some form of firearms registration has been FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. As far back as Jan 17, 1946, Hoover told a House Appropriations Committee that "The federal firearms statute should be tightened up by including in it other types of firearms.

"Also, there has been strong lobbying against firearms legislation by organizations of citizens of good standing who do not want to interfere with people hunting. But you have to register an automobile, and it would be just as simple to register a pistol, revolver and so forth."

And again, just last year, Hoover said in the bureau's monthly law enforcement bulletin, "I think mail order firearms purchses should be banned, interstate transportation of firearms controlled and local registration of weapons required and enforced."

He said "The primary thrust against this serious problem must be from a local level, but federal assistance must strongly complement state gun legislation."

Behind The News

This Week In The World

By United Press International

Premier Georges Pompidou, as the French constitution requires, submitted his pro forma resignation to President Charles de Gaulle after leading the Gallist party to sweeping victory in the national election.

De Gaulle accepted it and appointed Maurice Couve de Murville, former foreign minister and the current finance minister, to replace Pompidou in the premiership.

Pompidou was known to have reservations about De Gaulle's concessions to students and workers demanding a voice in government policy. De Gaulle and Pompidou reportedly clashed over policy during the "May Revolution" of workers and students.

Around The World; Around The Clock:

Boston: Dr. Benjamin Spock and three co-defendants were sentenced to two-year prison terms on their convictions for conspiring to counsel draft evasion.

Tokyo: The Liberal-Democratic party of Premier Eisaku Sato won an election victory over its leftist, anti-American opponents.

Prague: The Soviet Union's army troops remained in Czechoslovakia 11 days after Warsaw Pact maneuvers ended, prompting denunciations from liberalizing elements within the country. The Russians agreed to start pulling the troops out Saturday.

Columbus, Ohio: Dissidents stalked out of the national convention of the Congress of Racial Equality and denounced CORE as having "negated" its responsibility to black people.

New York: Police investigated the latest in a series of night bombings of facilities of foreign countries. The Japanese National Tourist Organization and the Cuban and Yugoslav missions to the United Nations were hit during the week.

Saigon: U.S. intelligence sources reported Communist troop buildups around Saigon, leading them and South Vietnamese sources, including President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, to predict a third Communist assault on the capital this year. The major ground action continued to take place in South Vietnam's northern provinces around Saigon.

Saigon: Thieu announced he would meet with President Johnson around July 20 in the Pacific and U.S. Defense Secretary Clark Clifford at week's end was flying to Saigon to work out details for the summit.

JOHNSON'S PLEA HEEDED

Most Of Europe Keenly Feels Loss Of U.S. Tourist Dollar

LONDON (UPI) — European tourism is being hurt by President Lyndon B. Johnson's call to American travelers to stay in their own backyard this year.

Britain almost alone of the west European countries is still receiving U.S. tourists in record numbers. Spain and Portugal, significantly two of the first landing points in Europe, are getting a reasonable flow. But the rest aren't doing so well.

Switzerland s pessimistically preparing for a 40 per cent decline, West Germany expects a one-third fall from last year. Austria, Denmark, France, Greece, Italy, Norway and Sweden also report losses.

The dollars will be missed in Europe because Americans are renowned as the biggest spenders of all the nationalities. They have a reputation for staying at the most expensive hotels, seeing all the sights that busy tourists should see, buying loads of souvenirs and going out on the town at night.

Johnson asked Americans to help the balance of payments problem by keeping dollars in their own hemisphere instead of spending them on vacations abroad. His administration is attempting to make the curb statutory with proposed legislation limiting tourist spending to 15 dollars a day, with a 30 per cent tax on every dollar spent above that.

Despite the fact that Germans who get their livelihood from tourism will suffer, Helmet Schule, spokesman for the German Travel Association, said, "We sympathize with the plight of the American government. When the Vietnam War ends, we know the Americans now staying home for patriotic reasons will come to us again."

In the general picture of declining figures, France is a special case because, on top of a measurable American boycott of "De Gaulle's country," the French "May Revolution" sent tourists scuttling away in a mass exodus to escape the rioting and strikes. The government is attempting to prevent France's worst post-war tourist season by getting hotel owners to offer package deals and fringe benefits, American ideas which they hitherto shunned.

France's neighbors have benefited from the exodus and it in part has made up for cancellations by big American tourist parties, whose absence has been noticed in many capitals.

Here is a country-by-country rundown:

BRITAIN: London's hotels are more jam-packed than ever and American voices resound from the gates of Buckingham Palace to the Tower of London. American arrivals in Britain in April (latest figure available) number 58,000, up 8,000 from last year. Overall so far this year, U.S. arrivals are up 13 per cent.

AUSTRIA: The Trade Ministry, which compiles its statistics by counting nights spent by visitors in hotels, said these overnight stays were up 15.5 per cent in January and 20.7 per cent in February, then suddenly up only by 1.2 per cent in March and 0.9 per cent in April.

BELGIUM: Overnight stays by Americans have steadily gone up from 325,000 in 1963 to 468,561 in 1967, but nobody is ready to predict what would happen this year.

DENMARK: Hartvig Thomsen, director of the Danish Travel Bureau, said American arrivals may be 25 per cent down from last year's total of 250,000-plus. Travel men blame both President Johnson's advice and high Danish prices.

GERMANY: American visitors have gone up by 2 per cent each year since 1964 and last year reached 1.15 million travelers who left a whopping $268.5 million behind. But Karl Wittrock, state secretary in the Federal Transportation Ministry, said officials expect a drop of about one third this year.

GREECE: Tourism has declined generally since the present regime took power last year. Although no official figures are available, American visitors are estimated to have dropped last yar to 170,000 from 195,346 in 1966.

ITALY: Count Siegmund Fago Golfarelli, spokesman for the state tourist agency, said, "I would venture to say the influx of American tourists is unlikely to drop more than 5 or 8 per cent at most." But the manager of a leading hotel on Rome's Via Veneto said, "We are feeling the lack of tourist parties, especially from the United States."

THE NETHERLANDS: A spokesman for the Central Bureau of Statistics said they had counted 281,000 overnight stays by Americans in 1965, 305,800 in 1966, 326,481 in 1967 and expected about the same this year, but no rise.

NORWAY: With a normal inflow of 120,000 U.S. tourists a year who spend $21.4 million, Erling Storrusten, director of the Norwegian Tourism Association, said it was too early to tell yet how many visitors were being lost. The directors of Oslo's three main hotels said they had noted a decrease in traffic from the United States which was most apparent in the weeks after Johnson's speech.

PORTUGAL: A spokesman for the Tourism Secretariat said American tourists had increased so far this year at about 2 or 3 per cent over last year, when 234,211 Americans visited Portugal and on average spent $171 each.

SPAIN: In the first five months of year year, American visitors to Spain went up by 4.2 per cent to 250,000. The total for all of last year was 700,000.

SWEDEN: Erik Schultze, managing director of the Swedish Tourist Association, said Sweden had met a 10 per cent loss so far in American tourists, but it was too early in the season to know the full effect.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Constitution Changes Go On Ballot

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Californians will vote on the second phase of constitutional revision at the November general election as the result of the Assembly's acceptance of Senate amendments to ACA 30, Gonsalves, assuring a place on the ballot for proposed changes in education, public utilities and civil service provisions. Most of the changes are technical with one exception: A proposal to allow the Legislature by a two-thirds vote, to authorize the appointment, rather than election of the state superintendent of public instruction.

First phase of constitutional revision was voted by the people in 1966, when Proposition 1A was approved, to provide annual legislative sessions, and raise salaries of legislators.

Unemployment insurance for agricultural workers again has passed the Assembly, by a one-vote margin. It now goes to the Senate, which in past years has rejected similar measures. The bill, AB 182, by Assemblywoman Yvonne Brathwaite, D-Los Angeles, would add the agricultural workers who were excluded from first bill on unemployment back in 1935 on the grounds that farm labor was itinerant and the handling of claims would be virtually impossible.

Port of San Francisco has been a dismal future according to testimony before the Senate Governmental Efficiency and Economy Committee by Ralph K. Davies, San Francisco shipping magnate. He appeared to support AB 190, by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, which would transfer the port facilities from the state's control to the city.

Davies called the port facilities a disgrace and obsolete, and urged a $150 million modernization program, which, he said, could be financed by the city. He charged neglect is fast making the port a ghost area with some major steamship lines already moved to other California ports such as Oakland.

State ownership of the port facilities has been a bone of contention between the city and county of San Francisco and the state for more than half a century.

Scrutiny of recall procedures in California may be subject of future legislative action if Gov. Ronald Reagan continues present thinking. He said any action should wait until a final determination is made on the present drive to recall him. He said the recall procedures should be reviewed and tightened, much as is required in impeachment proceedings. He thinks the recall requirements should be more specific.

Landowners of proposed school sites will have the first chance to repurchase the property under a bill, AB 2087, by Assemblyman John Stull, R-San Diego. The last owner of the land would have the right to repurchase if a school district decided within five years that the property would not be needed. Affected would be land acquired through eminent domain action only.

SWITCH OFF VIOLENCE?

Scientists Study Brain Control To Curb Murderous Tendencies

By SCIENCE SERVICE

Beneath the thick, ballooning cortex of the human brain lie nerve structures collectively termed the emotional brain, also called the limbic lobe. Here arise the basic feelings of anger, fear, sadness, joy, sociability, sexuality: the feelings on which preservation and propagation of the species depends.

Without emotional input from the limbic lobe the cortex above would be little more than a sophisticated piece of computing machinery; on the other hand, the limbic lobe, lying in the shape of a ring deep under the cortex, thinks only on the most primitive level, if at all.

Man inherits the limbic brain from early mammals. According to Dr. Paul MacLean of the National Institutes of Health, this was nature's attempt to free higher animals from the repetitive, programmed behavior of reptiles. With subjective feelings, early mammals were given flexibility in a new world seen through the eye of emotion.

Then nature added the thinking cortex in successive layers until in man limbic emotions are mediated through a vast superstructure of memories, associations and, above all, language.

Nevertheless, evolution may have left open some primitive channels of emotional expression in man. There could for instance be a fairly simple funnel between seizures in limbic cells and murderous assaults.

It is known that some people suffer from impulsive, sporadic attacks of homicidal rage — episodes that are both distressing to the individual and uncontrollable. The chance these attacks might arise directly from limbic activity without the mediating influence of the cortex has led a group of neurosurgeons in Boston and elsewhere to exploration of a medical-ethical choice arising from prospects of helping such patients with limbic surgery.

The limbic brain has been extensively explored in animals, but very little in man. Electrical pulses from electrodes implanted in its various nerve cells will prompt monkeys to enraged attack or to docile grooming of each other. Limbic stimulation can stop a bull in mid-charge or cause a cat to park on a button delivering constant, gratifying shocks to limbic regions.

The neurosurgeons have the means to investigate the human emotional brain with electrical probes. Such probes are commonplace in the surgical treatment of epilepsy, cerebral palsy and parkinsonism. The electrodes locate troublesome neural tissue which is then carefully removed.

Some cases of homicidal rage may also represent localized brain damage, but without the electrode investigation there is no way of finding out. And electrode investigation has so far been limited to those patients with seizures or other symptoms requiring surgery.

Four cases of epilepsy have crystallized the dilemma for neurosurgeons at Massachusetts General Hospital, one of several centers accumulating relevant experience.

The four epileptic patients were given to episodic rages. All had histories of violent assaults on other people. A medical team at Massachusetts General, headed by neurosurgeon William H. Sweet and including psychiatrist Frank R. Ervin and neurosurgeon Vernon H. Mark, implanted electrodes in the seizure area — amygdala cells in the lower half of the limbic ring. The electrodes allowed the team to monitor cell discharges and also stimulate the area.

What they discovered confirmed their suspicions: there was in these patients a one-to-one correlation between seizures in the limbic lode and violent attack behavior. Episodic rage was, in fact, related to localized brain damage.

But what of patients given to periodic violence without signs of motor epilepsy? They could be victims of local brain seizures, but they might as easily be suffering from bruising years of emotional damage whose traces are not localized in any one spot of the brain or connected with what is thought of as brain damage.

Finding out would mean a forward step into new and dangerous territory. It raises the possibility of brain surgery as an approach to criminal behavior and physical exploration of emotional states.

The main question is whether assaultive behavior can be turned off with surgery; whether the machinery of attack is a simple enough funnel to get at, as Dr. Ervin puts it.

If it is, but the patient must make an emotional tradeoff, then the question becomes, what price is he willing to pay for release from homicidal impulses? One man who came to Boston asking for help had been driven to the brink of murder more than 30 times. He would not drive a car for fear that some small provocation would send him into a killing rage. In some cases, such as this one, drugs help. But in other cases, where they don't, the dilemma is fearful.

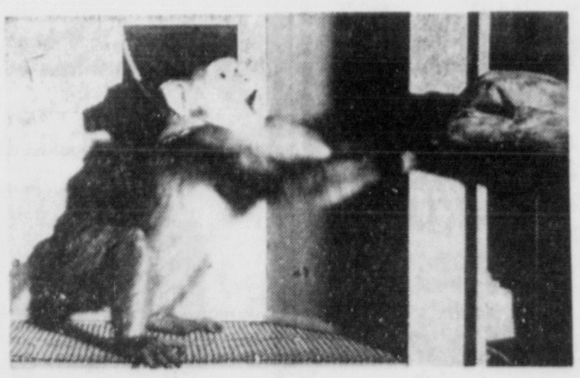
As an alternative to surgery, physicians could implant electrodes permanently in the limbic brain allowing patients to forestall their attacks with an electrical pulse.

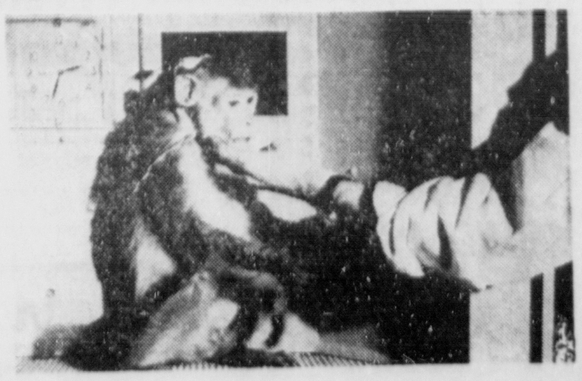
This is the course advocated by Dr. Jose Delgado, Yale physiologist who developed the remote-controlled electrode used at Massachusetts General. Because of the remote control, patients were able to move about freely, giving doctors far more information on their brain activity than if they had been hooked up to a machine.

Dr. Delgado cautions against extrapolating from successful surgery on epileptic patients. The mechanisms underlying poor impulse control are still a mystery. "You cannot generalize that because psychomotor epileptics are improved by surgery, others with aggression will also be helped," says Dr. Delgado, but he believes that electrode implantation can be used effectively in controlling some types of compulsive aggressive behavior, once the critical areas are found.

Now Dr. Delgado has completed tests on a new device, a kind of cerebral pacemaker, which he says is ready for human use. Implanted under the skin with wires leading into the brain, the new transdermal stimulator avoids possible infection from skin openings and so can be left permanently in the brain.

It opens the door to long-term control of emotional conditions, says Dr. Delgado. If necessary the device can be programmed to deliver electrical pulses every few seconds indefinitely.





AGGRESSION TAMED — Electrical stimulation of the brain first provokes a monkey (above) to attack, then tames him, (below) in experiements by Yale physiologist, Dr. Jose Delgado. Dr. Delgado's explorations of the emotional brain have laid the groundwork for understanding some types of human violence. (Science Service Photos)

Novato High Lists 129 Scholars With Grades Of 3.5 Or Better

In the spring semester, 129 students at Novato High School had a grade point average of 3.5 or better, according to Principal Stanley V. Onderdonk.

Those with a straight A or 4 point average were:

Juniors — Michael K. Magill, Stephen L. Sexton, Lucy Ann Steinkamp and Susan J. Swabacker.

Sophomores — Karen Ann Berger, Jan Moroski and Wayne T. Palmer.

Seniors — Steven C. Bowen, Larry G. Brown, Joyce L. Campbell, John Ellard, Linda L. Lupear, Kathleen Lyons, Christina L. Steussy and Lynn S. Welter.

Sophomores — Lisa M. Forema, Shirley C. Jordan, Michele Olivier, Marilyn L. Rehfeld, Keith S. Rolle, and Karen Beth Wright.

Those with 3.7 averages were:

Seniors — Carol L. De Baun, Connie L. Faulk, Debbie A. Irwin, Patrick M. Magill, Kim C. Rombach, Karla J. Shannon and Charles D. Walker.

Juniors — Russell K. Dillon, David K. King and Regina L. Lowe.

Those with a 3.6 average were:

Juniors — Karen L. Born, Joyce Ellard, Sharon L. Sanders, Randal Duane Smith, Nancy Ellen Sturken, Steven R. Ungemach and Mark K. Varney.

Sophomores — Michael Fred Allen, Christa F. Bretz, Mark R. Buetzow, Kathleen L. Coyle, Dawn Damas, Rodrick J. Eberhart, Susan J. Hall, Constance E. Kimball, Barbara R. Kurtz, James R. Luntzel, Teresa E. Marlow and Denise M. Silva.

Those with a 3.5 average were:

Juniors — Michael D. Ahern, Richard H. Albert, Pamela Alverson, Kathryn A. Archer, Gary P. Drobny, Judith E. Frost, Steve A. Gilliam, Dorrie M. Glover, Diana D. Halpenny, Judith I. Hoover, Claudia J. Lundquist, Arthur F. Marinaccio, Diane M. Moore, Linda M. Parker, Dale R. Pensotte, Laurie L. Peterson and Susan A. Sisemore.

Ross Youth Fined On Tunnel Episode

A 22-year-old Ross man, John Michael Brown, was fined $100 and placed on two years probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for joyriding.

Brown pleaded no-contest May 17 to taking a pickup truck in a May 13 attempt to pull his disabled car out of a railroad tunnel. The truck was owned by Construction Supply Co. of Greenbrae.

Bay Master Plan To Be Town Topic

The Bay Area Conservation and Development Commission's preliminary plan for the San Francisco Bay as it affects Corte Madera will be discussed by the Corte Madera Town Council at 7:30 p.m. Monday in town hall.

The council will review the report of the town's planning commission on the plan. The commission objected last week to the proposed extension of jurisdiction for a successor agency to the BCDC and also to the uses shown for the Corte Madera tidelands, calling the plans "premature."

The council plans to send representatives to the July 19 BCDC meeting to give Corte Madera's reaction to the plan.

Also on the agenda for the meeting is a public hearing at 8 p.m. on the request by Earle and Solvason to have a lot at 626 Tamalpais Drive rezoned from residential to professional and administrative use. The firm also wants the zoning ordinance changed so that professional and administrative category would include real estate offices.

Both requests have been turned down by the planning commission.

'Minipark' Job Wins Approval Of Span Board

The $24,000 project was proposed by Director John E. Dearman, first Negro appointed to the board, to provide susmmer work for six or eight black youths.

The bridge board voted unanimously to begin work immediately on the quarter-acre landscaped area. Approximately $4,000 of the total cost will go to design of the park, according to district engineer Robert E. Shields.

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors also:

BIDS — Learned that low bids for 5,000 gallons of paint total $16,530. Referred the bids to their attorney and engineer.

INVESTMENT — Referred to their finance committee the question of whether the district funds should be lodged in the banks paying highest interest rates or spread among banks in all of the district's six counties.

REVENUE — Heard from retiring manager James Adam that bridge tolls took in $6,409,465 in all quarters in the last fiscal year, a gain of 6.43 per cent over the previous year.

MEET — Adjourned to their next regular meeting July 26 in the chambers of the Santa Rosa Board of Supervisors.

The Folk-Dancing D'Alvys Of Mill Valley

It's More Than A Hobby With This Marin Couple

By DON KEOWN

It was folk dancing that first brought Bill and Ann D'Alvy together, 11 years ago.

And the Mill Valley couple has been folk dancing ever since.

The D'Alvys first met at a party held by the Mill Valley Folk Dancers in the spring of 1957. Both were already dedicated folk dancing enthusiasts.

ANN CHAPONOT had been a folk dancer since 1952. She had been serving as the first corresponding secretary of the Marin Dance Council Inc., from 1954. And she had been a member of the work party which, that same year, had demolished, then rebuilt, the wooden platform at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross that was to be the scene of much of the county's folk dancing activity.

Bill D'Alvy was a San Francisco resident and already a veteran folk dancer when he began coming to Marin County in 1954-55 to teach new dances to the Hardly Ables club.

An outgrowth of his work among Marinites was the suggestion that he start a workshop to teach Marinites the new state federation-approved dances. And when he began that workshop program at the Tamalpais Center at College of Marin, Kentfield, in the summer of 1957, it was with Ann Chaponot as his co-instructor.

IN THE SPRING of 1958 they moved their workshop programs to the library of Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley, under Marin Dance Council auspices. Still later the program was to be shifted to Redwood High School, and then to Bel Aire School.

The acquaintanceship and the working partnership blossomed into romance. Bill and Ann were married in September, 1958.

Since then, the D'Alvys have resided on Morningsun Avenue, Mill Valley.

THEY HAVE continued to be active leaders in Marin County folk dancing activities. Ann held the corresponding secretary post for the county council until 1960. In 1961, Bill was chosen as its president.

In 1963, the two were responsible for the idea of holding a President's Ball to help finance the council's folk dancing festival that has become an annual event at College of Marin in Kentfield.

One of the activities for which the D'Alvys are best-known is the all-request programs they conduct for the "fourth Saturday of the month" parties hosted by the Step Togethers at Almonte Hall in Mill Valley.

THEIR FOLK dancing activities have extended well beyond the boundaries of Marin County.

D'Alvy was treasurer of the Folk Dance Federation of California in 1963-64, and has just completed a one-year term as its president. Ann served as the state organization's recording secretary 1965 to 1967.

When they are not folk dancing, Bill D'Alvy is a San Francisco optometrist and Ann is a secretary for the Tamalpais Union High School District.

"But," admits Mrs. D'Alvy, "folk dancing has become a great deal more than just a hobby with us now. I guess you could just about say that it is our lives."

WHETHER IT BE at one of the workshop sessions they conduct, or the lighter-hearted occasion of some folk dancing social event, Bill and Ann D'Alvy, center, always enjoy themselves thoroughly when they are engaged in their favorite hobby. "Actually," they say, "it's more than a hobby with us now. It's our lives." They and other Marin Dance Council Inc. members are hosting their annual folk dance festival today and tomorrow.

SHE EXPLAINED that while they enjoy social activities other than folk dancing, such as camping, it is almost invariably in the company of people they have met through a shared interest in the ethnic dances.

Many of the dancers who first began the workshop program with them a decade ago are still attending regularly, the D'Alvys report.

Right now, the classes are recessed for the summer. When they resume in September it will be at a new location, not yet designated.

THE LULL IN their workshop schedule has permitted the D'Alvys to lend their full support to Marin Dance Council President Fred Sweger and his coworkers in preparation for the annual summer festival, hosted by the Marin affiliates of the state federation.

"Since it is our Marin event," says D'Alvy, "I'd have to say it is the high point of the year for us, even though we travel to other festivals all over the state throughout the year."

The 1968 Marin festival is being held today and tomorrow. It opened this afternoon with a workshop at the Park School auditorium in Mill Valley with D'Alvy and Dean Linscott teaching some of the old favorites.

Tonight, at 7:30 o'clock, at the same location, there will be a Balkan hour followed by an all-request program.

FESTIVAL FUN reaches its peak tomorrow with outdoor dancing at the College of Marin Quadrangle from 1 to 5 p.m., and indoor dancing at the gymnasium starting at 7:30 p.m.

NORTHWARD FROM MARIN

Cruising Highway 1 In A Motor Home

By STUART NIXON

There's no home like a motor home.

Especially when you're living and driving on California's Highway One, that unique strip of asphalt that snakes along the redwood coast.

Just to prove that a 22-foot land yacht can navigate "Wonderful One," our family made a three-day highway voyage from southern-most Marin to Fort Bragg. Though we'd tried trailers, tents and campers, this was our first test of that Aga Khan of rubber-tire luxury, the motor home.

WE LOVED its high-riding togetherness, unfolding vistas denied to mere motorists, half our height in low-slung autos. Piloting this power-assisted private bus is no rougher than driving a station wagon, even over these winding miles. For Walter Mittys, it's like conning the USS Enterprise.

Starting with a flourish across the Golden Gate Bridge on Highway 101 we took a starboard tack four miles north at the Mill Valley turnoff and began the twisting climb toward Muir Woods. Since the SS Winnebago (our brand of motor home) has two low ranges in automatic drive, we chose the lowest (D-1) and found it gave excellent control and more-than-ample power.

Instead of the Muir Woods road, we chose the more direct one to the coast at Muir Beach, downhill through Green Gulch.

OUR CRUISER passed its first test "4.0," and we remembered the basic manners of a recreation-vehicle pilot: He watches astern and pulls over frequently to let faster vessels pass.

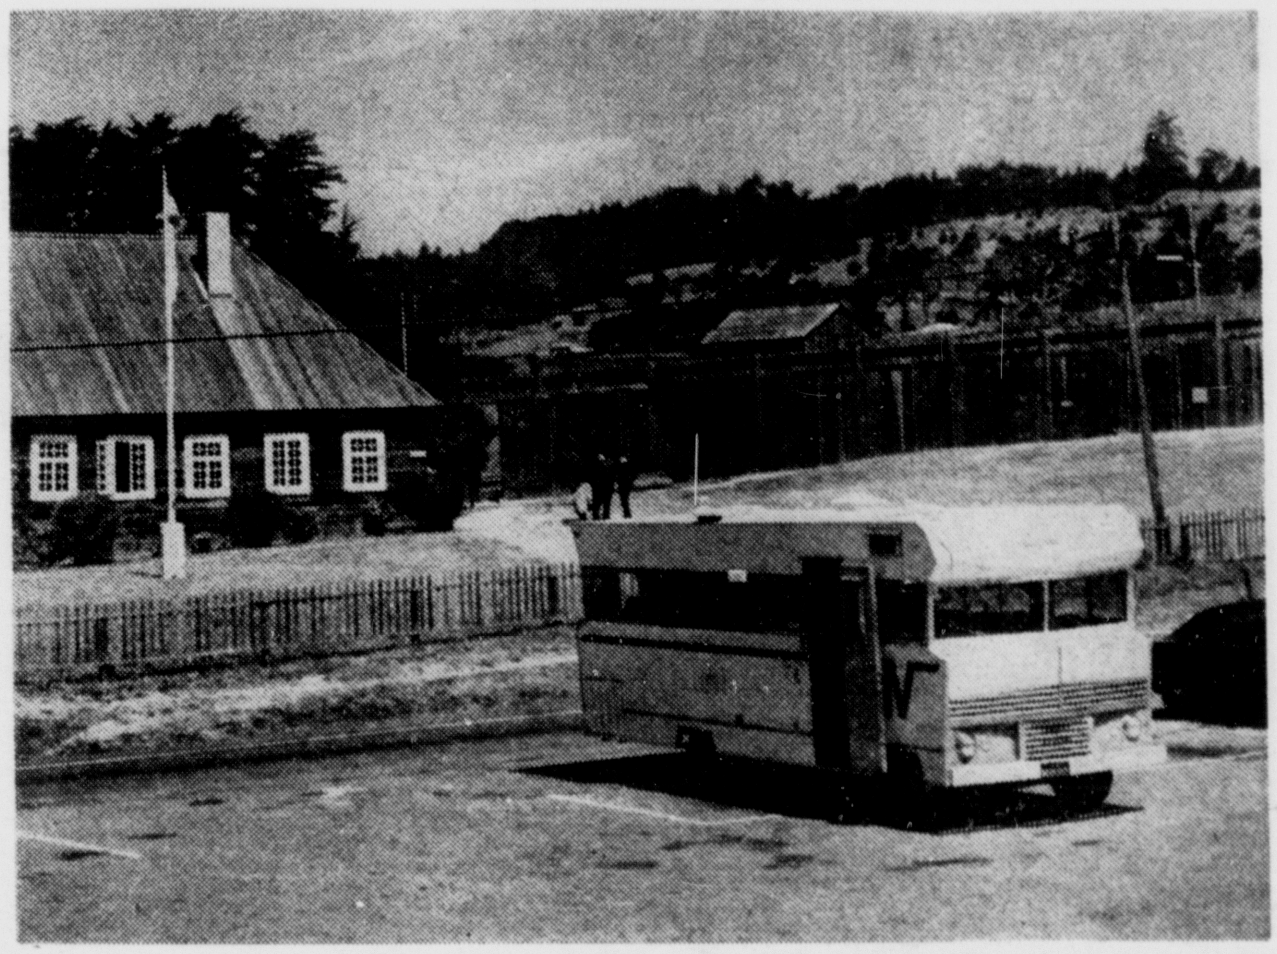
Our first stops were at Stinson Beach, the Audubon Canyon bird refuge and Point Reyes National Seashore, all in Marin.

Stinson, a sandy crescent, is a state park with concrete rings for bonfires, a vigilant lifeguard, and a 75-cent day-use fee. Audubon Canyon, north on Bolinas Lagoon, is a sanctuary for herons and egrets which nest and jabber in the verdant redwoods behind a picturesque farmhouse. Point Reyes is a hiker's paradise, all pines and dunes, where Sir Francis Drake supposedly stopped.

OUR DESTINATION for the night was Wright's Beach, north of Bodega Bay, so we didn't linger.

About this time I developed a technique which was to make driving the narrow roads much easier. Considering that this particular motor home is seven and a half feet wide, or about two feet more than a modern auto, and that some of these two-lane channels measured barely 20 feet, one's concern is for a safe share of the roadway without scraping port or starboard timbers (aluminum really).

My solution was to fix the highway center line just right of the V in the left windshield edge. Using this as a guide, and checking aft occasionally in the left rear mirror, we logged some 350 miles in three days without incident Just once, on a really narrow byroad, I knew I'd miscalculated when I heard ferns brush the opposite side.



A MOTOR HOME, traveling through California's colorful Redwood Empire, makes a stop at Fort Ross, the Russian outpost of the early 19th Century that is now a state historic monument. (Redwood Empire Association photos)

WRIGHT'S BEACH, part of 10-mile-long Sonoma Coast State Park, is a fun place to stop, and the price is right — $2 a night. The children were warned not to tempt the undertow. They romped at length down the sand, gathering shells, driftwood, jade and agate washed up by the powerful tides.

Next day we headed north on "One" for Fort Ross. Past Jenner, at the mouth of the Russian River, I shifted down to D-2 and finally to D-1, for this is steep country, populated mainly by surefooted sheep and rowdy ravens, skittering in ragged bands like black-pajamaed guerillas. Shadows of sea birds kept pace with us along the cliffs.

FORT ROSS, where Russian fur-hunters held sway from 1812 to 1841, is a startling historical experience, even today.A chapel and museum recall vividly the era when California's fate swung between Mexico and czardom.

North of this outpost the road is comparatively tame; still I kept my options in D-2. Despite this low-range travel, we found the big 212-horsepower Dodge power unit consumed about one gallon of regular fuel every eight miles.

It was then late spring, and the sea fields showed patches of yellow and blue lupine, daisies, paintbrush and an occasional azalea, clumped over a mossy wooden fence.

HABITATIONS ARE widely scattered, with exceptions like Sea Ranch. This is an ambitious second-home colony, rising in the pine woods, or under ancient cypress windbreaks.

The lonesome coast stretched on, broken here and there by old "dog hole" lumber ports, where schooners long gone to Davy Jones used to defy the rocks and load planks from rickety wire chutes. Tattletale grey fog rimmed the horizon.

We looked in on Mendocino, a quiet art colony that sprouted like a graceful redwood from the grave of an old "Down East" port. The sea wind, which once blew Manila galleons to Mexico down this coast, plucked at ancient water tanks, brushed windows with salt spray. Art galleries were shuttered, awaiting the weekend. Buoys offshore whistled obbligato.

OUR STOP that night was nearby in Russian Gulch State Park, a ferny hideaway up an inlet in the shadow of a great arching bridge. There was a tangy reminder of polecat abroad. Our young deckhands went down to pick winkles and crabs in the tidepools.

Since fatigue dictated early bedtime, we switched on our interior lights for awhile; we could have hooked the system into the campgrounds'. This time we folded down the bunk atop the driver's seat, opened the one which replaces the dining nook, and used the big bed in back. This motor home sleeps six in comfort, and it sits so solidly that night-time bumps and turns elsewhere don't disturb the lightest slumber.

The motor home also contains a four-burner butane stove, a gas-fed refrigerator and a compact but very complete bathroom, even to a shower. Thus we could use the state park washrooms or our own, eat out (this part of the coast has toothsome restaurants), or be our own short-order cooks.

WE SPENT the next morning exploring Mendocino, the fishing hamlet of Noyo, and the surprising Mendocino Coast Botanical Gardens, a rustic Golden Gate park by the sea at the south edge of Fort Bragg. Rhododendrons, both wild and cultivated, were nearing the end of their spring glory, dahlias were starting their reign under the Bishop pines, foxgloves and delphinium looked natural in this lovely setting.

With a "hello" to the jaunty Skunk Train at the Fort Bragg depot, we put up the helm for home, back down "Coast One," east on State 128 along the Navarro River and through the redwood tunnel at Dimmick State Park.

State Route 128 joins US 101 at Cloverdale after a brief twist through the coast ranges. From there, it's almost all freeway back to the Golden Gate. At flank speed (60 to 65 miles per hour) our highway turtle showed it's something of a greyhound, too.

BY COMPARISON with trailer travel, motor home maneuvering offers more convenience and speed, though less flexibility since there's no way to unhook and leave the bulky residential section. Camper trucks are not as spacious either, and driver and passengers again are separated. (This of course has points both ways.)

One solution would be to rent one for a few days until personal preferences are ironed-out. This particular rig goes for around $28 per day, plus 10 cents a mile, plus gas. Not cheap, but comparable to automobiling, considering fuel, motel accommodations and restaurants for a middle-sized family.

RUSSIAN GULCH State Park north of Mendocino is a popular stopover point for recreation vehicles and tenters. It is located at the head of a sheltered inlet beneath an arching highway bridge.

BLACK AND WHITE lava rock has been used in the exterior of this Calypso Shores home at Bel Marin Keys in northern Marin County. The one-story houses in the residential marina were landscaped by Floyd Godt with low maintenance in mind. This is one of two new model homes that have been decorated and furnished by designer Norman Black and are now open for public viewing.

Elegance And Informality On The Water

Calypso Shores Model Homes Achieve That Combination

Richness and informality, elegance and outdoor living — these are not the easiest elements to achieve in combination.

Designer Norman Black, however, has succeeded in doing just that in furnishing and decorating the two model homes now open for public viewing in the Calypso Shores residential marina of Bel Marin Keys in North Marin.

The three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes both open onto wide-water channels and a large, quiet lagoon ideal for boating, swimming, fishing and water skiing. With golf courses and hunting grounds nearby, the outdoor living aspect to the decor was virtually mandatory.

IT HAD BEEN reflected already in the floor plan of the Calypso Shores homes, where atrium entrances and large, spacious back decks, averaging 1,000 square feet, leading to private "back door" docks are perfect for relaxation or entertaining.

The one-story homes also feature carpeting, built-in kitchen appliances, underground utility lines and floor plans that afford easy access from one part of the house to another, yet separate the sleeping areas from the family-activity areas.

In his furnishings, Black allowed for an exchange and free flow between the outdoors and indoors by extending the richness of the interiors to the atrium and deck, and by bringing into the living room and bedrooms the warmth, spaciousness and informality of outdoor living.

IN ONE OF the two new model homes, Black created a Polynesian-Oriental motif, in the other a Continental-Contemporary theme.

ATRIUM ENTRANCES are among the delightful features of the Calypso Shores marina homes. The atriums, protected on all four sides, are perfect for outdoor relaxation and entertaining. A family room and one bedroom look onto the atrium from either side. Outdoor furniture maintains the Polynesian-Oriental theme.

Black, with offices in San Francisco and Sonoma, has won a number of awards and had his work featured in many magazines. He was associated with W. & J. Sloane for many years.

Black's previous assignments have included the Santa Barbara Biltmore, Samarkand and El Canto hotels, all in Santa Barbara, and homes in Hong Kong, Mexico and the West Indies as well as California.

CALYPSO SHORES is accessible by boat as well as car. It is near the Northgate Shopping Center, and to other shopping areas and to schools.

Prices for homes begin at $41,900.

THIS BEDROOM at Calypso Shores is furnished in the Polynesian-Oriental theme, but a simplicity is maintained that does not detract from the spectacular view out over the private dock to the water and beyond. As with the living room, th master bedroom theme is in a gold color with walls, carp and paisley bedspreads all in that hue. So is the stand for th glass table.

COVER PHOTO

TYPICAL of the diverse and fascinating forms that the sensitive camera and create eyes of Fran Scott turn up is this study of a native village of barnacles, left exposed by a low tide. The shoreline of her home county provides the Marinite with some of her most interesting black and white photography subjects. Although she has been engaged in the close-up, semi-abstract work only a comparatively short time, she has already attracted considerable attention with her distinctive pictures. Additional photos from the camera of the Mount Tamalpais photographer can be seen on Pages M10 and M11.

Form As Seen By The Sensitive Camera Of Marin Photographer

Fran Scott's Close-Up Work Produces Fascinating Abstract Studies

By GIL PEARSON

She is ,quite probably, more of a newcomer in the black and white field than any shutter-bug enthusiast who is reading these lines. After all, three months experience is an extraordinarily short period to grasp close-up technique to the point of holding a one-man show—and making expenses!

"I sold enough to pay for my paper," she admits.

WHEN ASKED how such rapid progress is possible, Fran says that after three years of taking color slides of nature subjects she felt she was not achieving the artistic expression she has long sought.

"I want to interpret the positives in an effort to counteract the ever-prevalent negatives of the times," she explains.

"Over the years it was so frustrating to hear viewers of my slides comment on the color and not on the tranquility of form which is so exquisitely lush in natural life. To me, black and white studies afford opportunity for more abundant appreciation of form, since color seems to distract by demanding more than its share of attention."

She credits Mill Valley photographer Bill Gilmore with first understanding her want and then with inspiring her to switch from color film to black and white. She followed his technical instructions to the letter. She read all the books she could find on how to take and how to make. Yes, she does her own darkroom work.

She found dewdrops on spider webs; focused in on weeds, hunks of rock, bugs, beach-life, dead things, and blossoms.

And when Mill Valley's Anima Mundi Gallery operator, Gloria Churchman, saw samples of her 90-day labors, she insisted that Fran Scott have her first one-man show there.

THIS NEOPHYTE camera lady has lived aloft in the foothills of Mount Tamalpais on the Panoramic Highway for 20 years in a house she designed and built herself. Born in Vicksburg, Mich., she took a Bachelor of Science degree at the New York State College of Ceramics.

Handy with tools and mechanically inclined, Fran Scott taught woodwork and ceramics in Buffalo before deciding to chuck institutional life and escaping to the flora and fauna delights of California. It is a move she has never regretted.

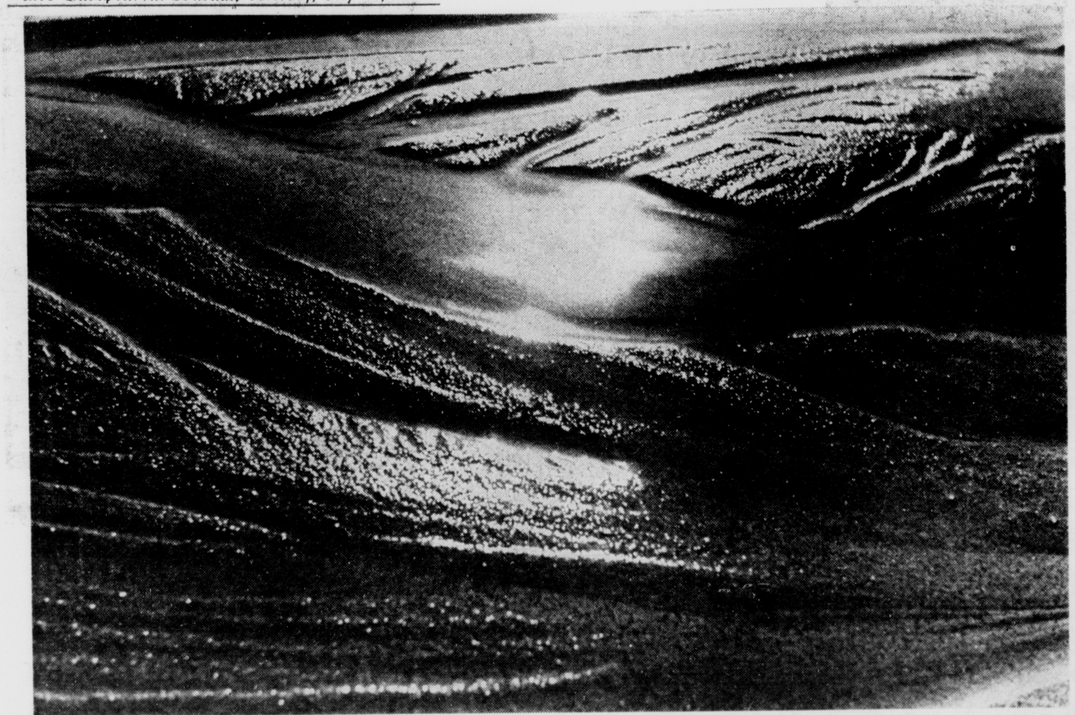
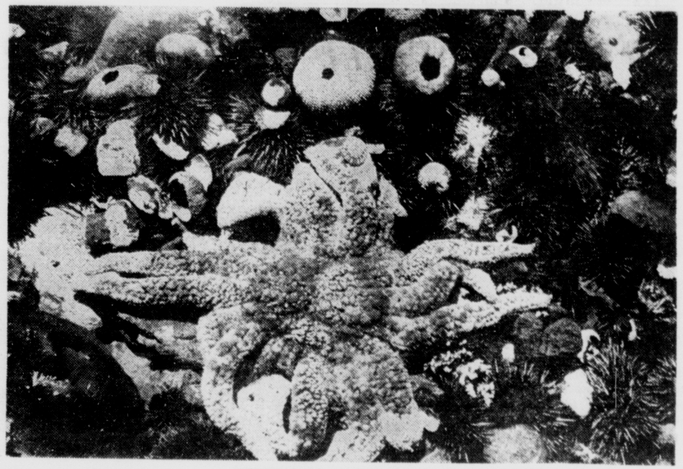
Marin Photographer Fascinated By Form

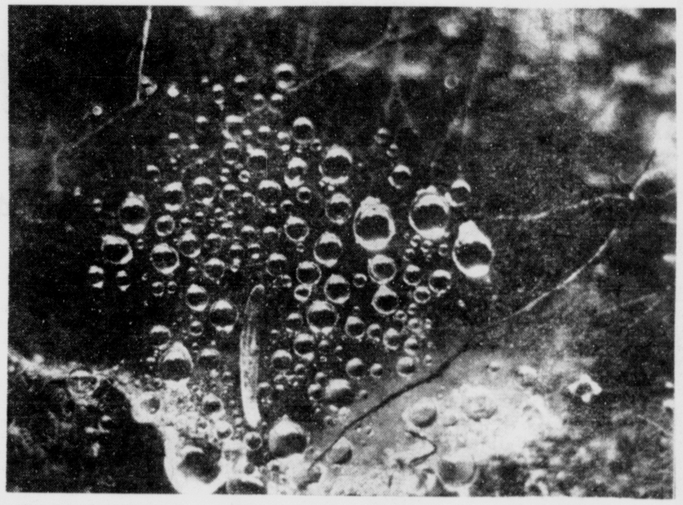
Fran Scott's Black And White Prints Reveal A Myriad Of Interesting Patterns



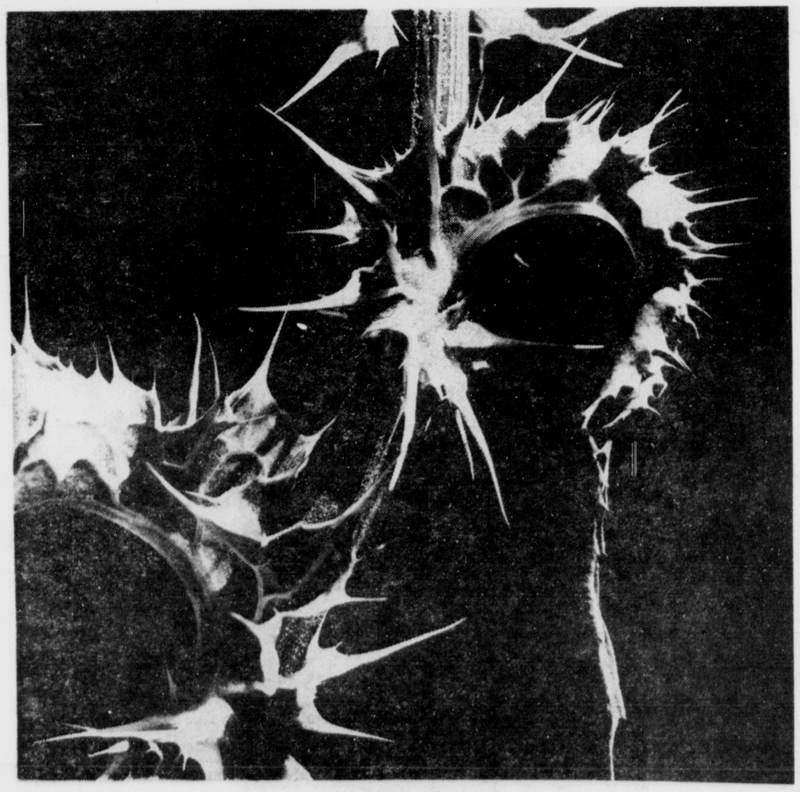
THERE IS AN ABSTRACT quality to the photographs taken by Marin photographer Fran Scott since she made the switch to close-up black and white camera work. An especially striking abstract pattern was presented by the wet sand at Drake's Bay Beach on a late afternoon. In color, the same photo would lose much of its dramatic impact. It was her interest in form that caused the photographer to abandon color for black and white prints.



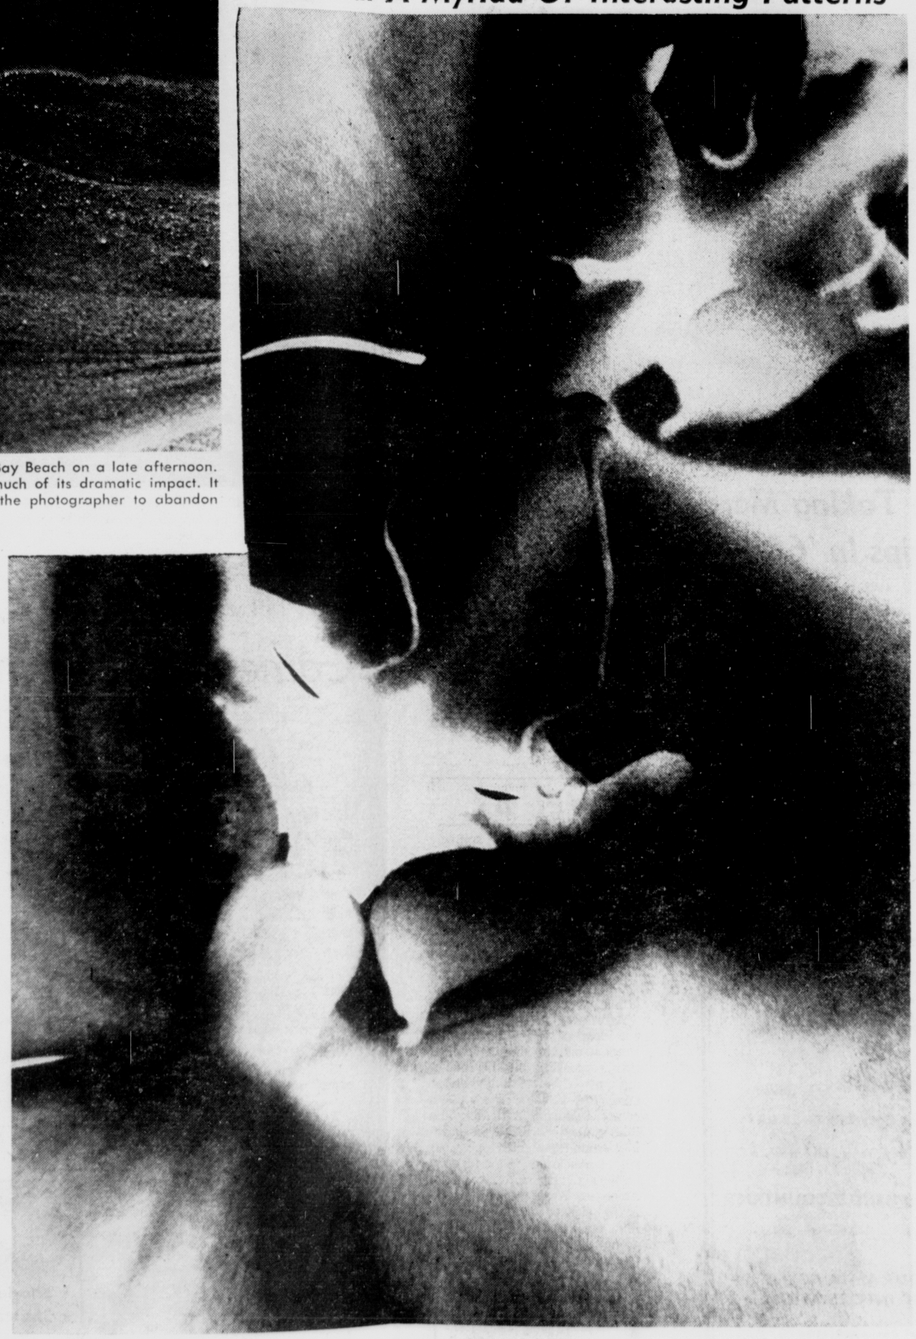
A LIVE SEA STAR, 14 inches in diameter, was photographed through water in a tidepool by Fran Scott, with this fascinating result. The scene was a beach at Mendocino. The rosy red to grayish pink star had clustered around its 21 arms an array of live purple and red sea urchins as well as shells of some dead ones.



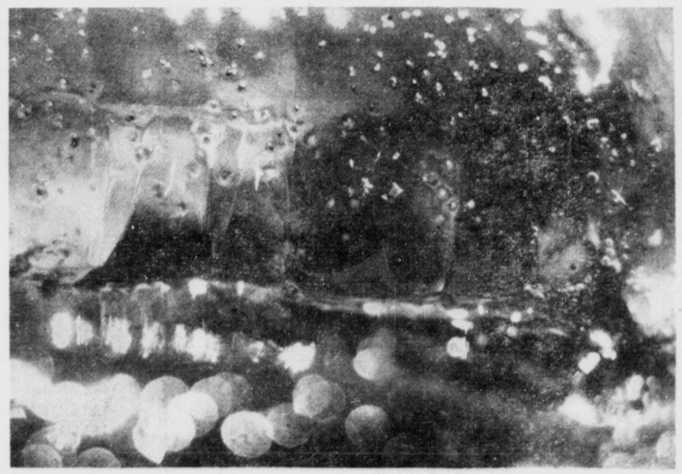
YOU DON'T HAVE to know what the subject was for this Fran Scott photograph to find it fascinating. But what she has photographed so sensitively are a fir needle and dewdrops entrapped in a cobweb. The camera lens was but six inches away when the picture was taken.



TO MOST MARINITES, the thistle is a hated pest. But to Fran Scott, it can provide the subject for a photograph that satisfies her search and desire for graceful designs. The secret is to work with the camera very close to the subject — sometimes only inches away.



NATURE'S CONTOURS provide a limitless challenge for the camera artist who refuses to be bound by the usual photographic limitations. This pattern effect resulted when Fran Scott fixed her camera at close range upon the core of a long spray orchid.



THIS TWO-INCH section of a glistening jellyfish was blown up by photographer Fran Scott to three feet. The result was a striking photograph that was one of the featured pieces in her one-man show at the Anima Mundi Gallery in Mill Valley.

Water Sport Where The Shannon Flows

The gentle, scenic Shannon, which flows with easy grace through the center of Ireland, is becoming increasingly popular for cruising, sailing, water skiing and fishing holidays.

Killaloe, Athlone and Carrick-on-Shannon are the three best bases for starting a cruise. Many other boat rental firms are fanned out along the river and on the Grand Canal, which links the Shannon to the heart of Dublin.

THE CRUISERS are available in a variety of sizes, from two-berth to eight or more. From now until the end of October is the ideal time for these sea adventures.

Fishing is fruitful on all of the waterways of Ireland; from the Shannon to the inward waters which flow throughout the country. They are full of trout, bream, rudd, eel and other species favored by veteran anglers.

Near Killaloe, a pleasant historic town which rises from the shore at the southern neck of Lake Derg, is a first-class hotel. On the lake, water skiers crisscross its mirrored surface where ski championships are held.

CARRICK AND Athlone have first-class hotels with excellent restaurants and bars.

Bars are the social centers of the Shannon way of life. Here you can chat with the vanishing breed of boatmen and farmers who still reminisce about the old days over a pint of stout.

Since conversation is the stuff of friendship, the lyrical quality of the Irish talk seems to touch visitors with hypnotic fascination. After telling tales about their gallant colleagues, the inspired Irishmen burst into spontaneous singing, which is a highlight of entertainment at all of these pubs.

For further information about cruising, fishing and water sports in Ireland, write to the Irish Tourist Board, 590 Fifth Avenue, New York City, 10036.

WATER SPORTS including water skiing, cruising, sailing and fishing are popular pastimes for vacationists along the fabled Shannon River in Ireland.

Americans Are Taking More And Longer Trips In '68

Better than nine out of ten American families are planning vacation trips this year, and they expect to travel farther than they did in 1967.

A survey conducted by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of representative families in the continental United States shows that most of these vacation trips will be made in July and August and will last two weeks.

Among those responding to the survey, 91 per cent said they planned to take vacation trips, compared with 76 per cent who said they actually made vacation trips last year.

More than 75 per cent of these 1968 trips will cover 1,000 miles or more, responses to this question in the survey indicated. Last year about 70 per cent of the trips topped 1,000 miles.

And this year, as last, the family automobile is being used by an overwhelming majority of vacationers—nearly 90 per cent in 1968, almost as many in 1967. Airlines will handle most of the rest.

Oregon's Coast Beckons

Marin vacationists without the time, money or inclination to undertake a long trip, yet desirous of a change of scenery, might do well to consider nearby Oregon.

Oregon's 400-mile coastline speaks for itself, being spectacularly dotted with bays, forested headlands, clean beaches and sand dunes. Many lighthouses along the way cast an added glow on this already lovely scenery.

Markers line Highway 101 to help you identify the historical landmarks, from Cape Sebastian, where Vizcaino sighted land, to the mouth of the Columbia River, where Lewis and Clark first viewed the Pacific Ocean.

JUST VIEWING superb scenery or spots of a historical nature, however, fails to satisfy some people. So, for the interests of everyone, action also abounds on the Oregon coast. You'll see it in the Pacific's angry pounding surf, which eases up in numerous spots to let you engage in good sport.

For swimming fun, you'll find safe surf at Beachside, Beverly Beach, Cape Lookout and Oswald West state parks. And that safe cove at Sunset Bay near Cape Arago is exquisite as well as inviting.

For that happy combination of boating and swimming, try the Oregon dunes country, that place of gleaming white and amber mounds, stretching from North Bend to Florence that has been proposed for a national seashore.

HUNDREDS OF coastal beaches attract beachcombers and those who simply enjoy playing in the surf. On the upper reaches of the Oregon Coves, often perching high on rocks, lie fascinating piles of driftwood just waiting for collectors.

Fishermen also discover lots of action when trying for fighting salmon on charter boats along the state's magnificent coastline. And if you're really smart, you'll let a skilled guide take you through the churning rapids of the Rogue River for a day of plentiful catches or just plain sightseeing.

You might not need a push to travel the Oregon Coast, but very likely you'll need a push to leave it.

MOUNT HOOD with its cap of snow is one of the prime scenic attractions of Oregon. Forested foothills and flowered meadows set it off to best advantage. The Oregon coastline is yet another prime visiting and photography point for travelers, with its contrasting quiet inlets and rugged surf. More and more Marinites are discovering close-to-home Oregon.

The Joss House At Weaverville

How does a visit to "The Temple [illegible] the Forest Beneath the Clouds" sound to you?

That's the English translation for the Chinese name of the Weaverville Joss House. Located about 50 miles west of Redding, the Joss House is a Taoist temple with symbolic meaning behind its every detail.

Entering the temple through two large doors, you'll immediately run across two false doors or "spirit screens," their placement derived from the Chinese belief that evil spirits can't travel around corners.

Inside stands a very popular exhibit, a push-button horoscope showing the year of your birth and the corresponding Chinese zodiacal sign. Outside the lovely Oriental landscaping intrigues the visitors to Weaverville Joss House.

Murder In The Midst Of A Racial Riot

The cry these days is for respect for law, order and the men who enforce these conditions.

Indeed, those foundation stones of our social structure do seem to be crumbling and tumbling.

But in this clamor for respect, a corollary requisite is too often overlooked. Law and order must be rooted in justice, and their enforcers must so conduct themselves as to be worthy of respect.

It's an axiom that won't be forgotten soon, if you read John Hersey's brilliant yet terrible "The Algiers Motel Incident."

In chilling and horrifying detail, Hersey reconstructs how three Negro youths, innocent of the violence occurring around them, were savagely maltreated and murdered at the height of Detroit's 1967 race riot. There can be little doubt that the sadistic slayers wore the badges of Detroit police officers.

With considerable fortitude, Hersey names names and does not shirk in fixing blame when the facts are clear. Reading his book is a shattering experience, that leaves Truman Capote's "In Cold Blood" comparatively shallow and meaningless.

There are, Hersey points out, four principal causes of racial violence — unequal justice, unequal employment opportunities, unequal housing and unequal education. Of these, the first is usually the fuse that touches off the urban explosions, for more than anything else, it frustrates and humiliates the young black male. It was, Hersey adds, at the very roots of the Detroit disorders.

But the three victims at the Algiers Motel were not snipers nor looters nor arsonists nor activists, nor did their killers suspect them of being such.

These were, says Hersey, "murders embellished by racist abuse, indiscriminate vengeance, sexual jealousy, voyeurism, wanton blood-letting, and sadistic physical and mental tortures characterized by the tormentors as 'a game.' "

Men who thought of themselves as decent and unprejudiced were driven to beastial conduct because they thought the black youths were making out with white girls, because they thought the victims might be pimps and most certainly were punks, because they were still enraged by the earlier death of a fellow police officer, and "for being, after all and all, black young men and part of the black rage of the time."

What took place at that Detroit motel, as pieced together painstakingly by Hersey, should leave every reader of any sensitivity and conscience nauseated and ashamed. His account of what followed in the investigative agencies and in the courts will do little to restore pride.

The timing of the book while judicial proceedings are still pending poses some serious questions. But such legalisms must seem bitter irony to those who have lost faith in the law and due process.

There is the stricken Negro mother of one of the young victims who both grieves and rages that two of her surviving sons are both behind bars, one for a $7 theft, the other for driving without an operator's license, that a third son, in uniform, has been driven to require psychiatric care and that her husband has become a broken man. All this, while the white police officer who had admitted shooting her boy walked the streets a free man. How does society answer her question: "What kind of people are these?"

One of Hersey's closing chapter heads seems ominously prophetic :"Fuel for the Fire Next Time." So does a Detroit Negro leader advising his black listeners: "We must not respect a law that does not respect us. . . ."

More constructive and hopeful is Hersey's summarization of the lesson to be gained from the Detroit tragedy.

"Do we not need," he asks, "an urgent and thoroughgoing overhaul of our national system of policing and judging and penalizing, to the end that every United States citizen would truly be able to perceive law and order as benefits to himself?"

Until that time, the screams of the tortured, maimed and dying boys in the Algiers Motel are going to drown out in the ghettos a lot of appeals, sanctimonious or sincere, for respect for law, order and the policeman.

Some Mysteries Still Unsolved

Nowadays, science is slaying mysteries at a furious rate. It's safe to say "they don't hardly make them no more like they used to."

But, there are still some durable puzzles around, fairly well documented as actually having happened, but for which no verifiable explanation has yet been provided.

Among them are the Man in the Iron Mask; the jinx ship Marie Celeste; the Loch Ness monster, of course; the ancient but still-alive art of firewalking, and dozens of others.

Veteran journalist Godwin's hefty volume reveals his skill in tracking through the pitfalls of the newspaper "morgue" and public and private libraries and files.

Each of the mysteries he discusses is well documented, he says, but he gives no specific sources beyond a general list of files from which he drew information.

Godwin's monsters and mysteries range far and wide, from the possibility that "flying saucers" are unidentified flying objects from outer space, through the ability of Kashmir native Kuda Box, who can pedal a bicycle blindfolded through New York's busy Times Square.

He carefully differentiates between legerdemain such as the famed Indian rope trick and Houdini's feats, and actual so-far-unexplained happenings such as firewalking and the restless coffins of a Barbados crypt.

Godwin's research reveals that the Soviet scientists also are working on the riddle of the Abominable Snowman (which he points out is a misnomer resulting from poor translation) and lifts the Dumas-penned misinformation from the "Man in the Iron Mask." His face actually was hidden by black velvet while he languished in the "Sun King's" French prisons, the book reports.

At first glance the reader may feel rather left hanging by the conclusion of each chapter. But, after all, if Godwin or anyone else had a verifiable answer to the mysteries recited, they'd no longer be mysteries.

Although writing in brisk-journalistic style, Godwin has resisted the impulse to hoke up his stories in Sunday supplement fashion. I wouldn't call the book any great reference work, but it certainly is enjoyable reading — which I think it's intended to be.

A Different Viewpoint Of The Life Insurance Field

Just about everything you are likely to have ever been told about life insurance is exploded as myth or misinformation in "The Mortality Merchants."

Author G. Scott Reynolds is an investment counselor who knows the life insurance field. He tells the inside of what he calls "the legalized racket of life insurance and what you can do about it."

He demonstrates that in most cases the only life insurance which represents a good buy is "decreasing term insurance"—a kind that no agent is likely to try very hard to sell you for the simple reason that he can't make much commission by selling it.

The book is complete with tables to show the cost and value of various life insurance plans.

Reynolds pounds his points home. He pounds them so hard the text sometimes becomes tiresome. But anyone thinking of buying another life insurance policy is likely to get a lot more protection for a lot less money if he reads "The Mortality Merchants" before signing on the dotted line.

Buchwald's Humor

HAVE I EVER LIED TO YOU? by Art Buchwald; Putnam's, 256 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

The credibility gap, draft laws, the Vietnam war, gun legislation, the Middle East crisis and the tight money market are among the subjects that Buchwald tackles with insight and wit. He also delves into the world of fashion, married life and grafiti with equal ease. Thus, there is a variety to the collection, but the quality is consistently good.

Even those who read Buchwald's column in the Independent-Journal may find a few they have missed. At least they will have the fun of rereading some of their old favorites.

A Novel About A Gift To Be Cherished — Late Love

A WARM FEELING by Merle Miller; Coward-McCann, 256 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Anne G. Stine.

Merle Miller has had seven novels published prior to "A Warm Feeling."

This book tells the story of Lydia Brady, a recently divorced mother of two grown children, who goes to Portugal for the wedding of her son. Because she has been stripped emotionally by her husband, she is, quite literally, afraid to feel, even though she knows that her husband was weak and had no peace within himself.

On the plane to Portugal she meets Paul Julian, an American businessman whose marriage also has failed. The two are drawn to each other instantly, and realize they have a chance for joy and happiness.

There are, of course, complications, such as children and a vindictive wife, but gradually the two main characters learn how to cope with these problems.

On the surface this novel might be considered pure froth, but it is not. There are good and accurate descriptions of Spain and Portugal. There is humor, and discussions of music, painting, philosophy and books—discussions that are not superficial. They show Miller's appreciation and knowledge of the arts.

In a sense this novel could be considered a housewife's answer to a rainy afternoon. There is more to it, however.

There is the message that late love is rare, and therefore to be cherished. Secondly, that one must work sincerely and hard for anything worthwhile—especially a marriage.

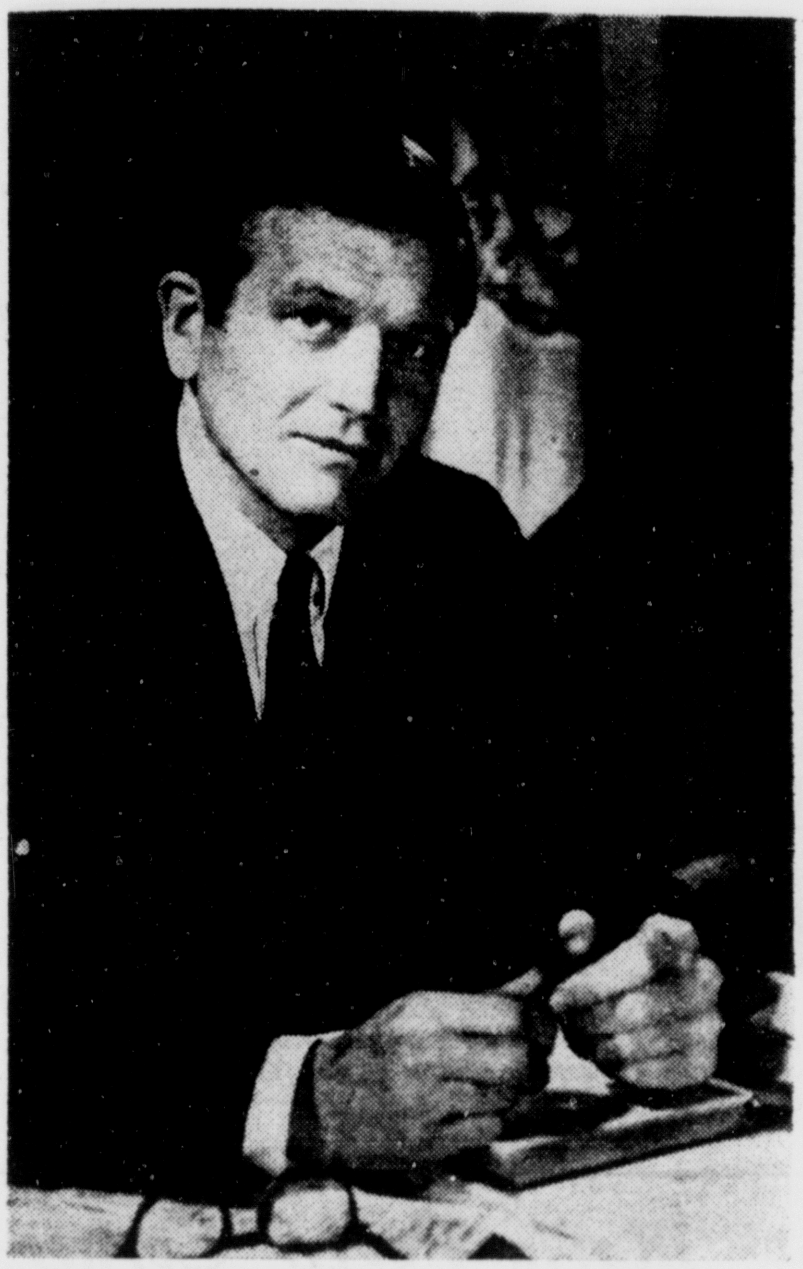
In Indictment Of The Old And A Call For New Leadership



NEW YORK CITY'S dynamic young mayor, John V. Lindsay, represents the new kind of leadership that this nation needs urgently, says author and former New York newspaper reporter Fred J. Cook in his "What So Proudly We Hailed." Cook charges in his book that our present government is antiquated and not serving the interests of the people.

By DON KEOWN

WHAT SO PROUDLY WE HAILED, by Fred J. Cook; Prentice-Hall, 282 pages, $5.95.

Fred J. Cook is an investigative reporter in the best tradition of the old crusading muckrakers.

It was because the pace of newspaper reporting seldom allows the time necessary anymore for that kind of digging that Cook left his New York press job to write magazine articles and books.

His method is first to engage in exhaustive research on some national problem, then present those findings, with some interpretation and opinion, but largely allowing the facts he has uncovered to speak for themselves.

His newest book, "What So Proudly We Hailed," represents an abrupt about-face.

This time Cook has undertaken no specific studies of his own. Instead he has assembled a great body of existing, readily available information. And from it he has fashioned a tract, or a superlength editorial, contending that the American government does not serve the interests of the great body of its citizenry.

The machinery, he claims, is warped and antiquated, and so are many of its operators or manipulators. We have a rural-minded government in the time of an urban society. And we have a government that is further hampered and corrupted by old prejudices, old hatreds and old fears.

While Cook does not spare the executive —"Lyndon Johnson has to be the most distrusted President of the 20th Century" — he aims his heaviest fire at the legislative branch.

"Congress is divorced from reality," he says. And in speaking of the ruling Congressional establishment he asserts: "One tragedy is that the vital interests of this brotherhood are based upon the conditions and concepts of a 19th Century agrarian world that has little in common with the mass-society, urban world of our times. . . . Congress can neither function nor deal adequately with modern problems unless the archaic grip of the Southern minority can be wrenched from the throttle."

Cook is outraged by our Vietnam policy (although adding that if those billions were saved, they would probably be spent upon supersonic transit, space exploration or arms, rather than upon our most urgent domestic needs), by our tax inequities (the American earning between $10,000 and $20,000 a year is, in particular, being played for a "boob"), by our halfhearted attempts to rid our society of prejudice and discrimination, by our tolerance of abysmal poverty alongside extreme affluence and special privilege, by a welfare system that is a failure.

People around the world are disenchanted with leaderships and are preoccupied primarily with the immediate problems of living in a difficult urban age, he declares. "This mood has led much of the world, but unfortunately not America, to adopt new priorities."

A great deal has occurred since Cook prepared his manuscript — the withdrawal of Lyndon Johnson, the assassination of Robert Kennedy, the candidacies of Eugene McCarthy, Nelson Rockefeller and Hubert Humphrey — , but the writer saw then as our best hopes for providing that new direction Kennedy and New York Mayor John Lindsay.

Cook does not bring forth any really new evidence or charges against the men who run our government and set the policies. But in wrapping all the criticism into a single indictment, he gives it added force. And he gives new voice to one source of criticism that is composed not of bearded, drop-out hippies, of youthful new leftist politicians or of angered and militant minorities, but of middle-class, middle-aged American liberals who are not all as unfeeling, as inept, as inarticulate or as outdated as their detractors sometimes portray them. It is not as impressive as some of Cook's previous work, but the book is still well worth reading.

FOR THOSE who would like to find out for themselves why Fred Cook (and many others) regard John V. Lindsay as such a bright young star on the American political horizon, we suggest you read his "Journey Into Politics."

Although Lindsay may come through initially as somewhat naive and overly optimistic, his brand of honesty is refreshing after all the cynicism and double-talk one encounters in the political arena today. And if one studies closely his words, what first seemed gullible begins to emerge as sensible and practical. It is just that we are unaccustomed to statements that are forthright and easily comprehended. Lindsay and Eugene McCarthy, however, are liable to establish a precedent in that respect, if the "old pols" don't watch out.

Anyway, read Lindsay for his views on politics on the international, national and local levels, and wonder with Fred Cook why he does not merit at least serious consideration as a presidential candidate.

THE "MYSTERIOUS" East has come to hold a special fascination for Americans.

For that, and other reasons, "Historic India" should be one of Time-Life Books' most successful volumes in its worthwhile Great Ages of Man series.

Time-Life staffer Lucille Schulberg, an India specialist, has written the text. She quite properly treats India not as a country, but as a culture 5,000 years old, with its roots firmly fixed in the Hindu religion. In so far as it is possible for westerners, Miss Schulberg makes understandable the dramatic differences between our beliefs and those of Indians as she traces the long development of a rich and influential culture.

The great art treasures and edifices of India afford Time-Life a prime opportunity to display its gift for brilliant color illustration, and it is not muffed. The book contains 72 full-color pictures that are a treat for the eyes.

The bargain price, $3.95 a volume, being maintained for this quality series is again worthy of special mention and commendation.

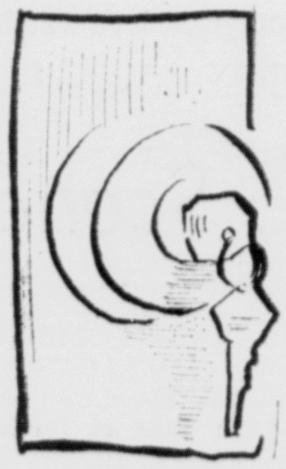
Another splendid Inspector Van der Valk mystery; but the debonaire Dutch police detective has been promoted to commissaire and, because of a leg injury, transferred from Amsterdam to the quiet village of Lisse. The reader is treated to an interesting look at Dutch police methods as well as a good detective story.

The local innkeeper, fat Bernhard, had taken up horseback riding when his doctor advised that he get some exercise. But it did not do much for his health; he was found dead in the exercise yard at the local riding academy, having been kicked, it seemed, in the head by the horse. However, Maartens, the young village doctor, doubted this obvious explanation and sent for the new commissaire.

Van der Valk begins to question those who knew the victim. But not for him the usual "Where were you when the crime was committed?" line of inquiry; rather he probes as he chats, trying to discover motive, believing that the details will explain themselves. He collects information, "striking out where not applicable," as he puts it, and uses his findings to bring the investigation to an exciting climax.



O CHARITABLE DEATH by Rachel Cosgrove Payes; Doubleday, 191 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

For those, who, like this reviewer, find the villain in just short of the first 30 pages, the most charitable thing that can be said about "O Charitable Death" is that you just might want to stick to the bitter end, hoping to be disproved.

Mrs. Payes makes it clear almost from the beginning who is the foul player among her Small Town, U.S.A., country club set — who it is that bashed in the head of a scheming, adulterous woman chemist — and very shortly offers the motive.

Perhaps this is all Mrs. Payes' put-on. It's likely, however, that the author is playing it straight, and that is what makes this Crime Club Selection with its suspense clock symbol not quite up to par — not even for murder on the golf course.

"Are Stains The Most Common Problem In Drycleaning?"

Many would think so, but people aren't nearly as careless as may be thought. Dye fading is the most common complaint which your drycleaner encounters and one which he can do little or nothing about.

However, when spots are encountered your drycleaner is especially trained in removing spots and has the special equipment needed for that purpose. You can assist your drycleaner by pinning a note to a spot, telling exactly what caused it. This makes it easier to identify and assures you of a more satisfactory spot removal. Many spots are caused by tannin found in foods, beverages and perfumes. These, often, are colorless until exposed to heat in the cleaning process. Then they turn brown. So make it a point to identify every spot and do not let spots remain in a fabric too long. They can, then, become impossible to remove.

BUILDING KITS — What you should know before tackling the job of putting together a stereo amplifier, tuner, or receiver kit. Before attempting a project of this type it is extremely important that you learn to solder correctly. One or more poor solder joints may make the kit completely inoperative or it may have intermittent operation. Poor solder joints account for most of the kit builder's problems, and when there are many, servicing the unit to track down the multiplicity of problems may be extremely difficult.

Other important points to be considered are the amount of electronic experience and service instruments possessed by the builder. A person who has some knowledge of electronics and a few basic test instruments will generally be able to track down any problems that may occur after the kit is completed. The inexperienced will have no way to cope with the kit if it doesn't work when it is completed, and this will present more difficulties because most service shops will not take in a kit for repair. Shops have found from experience that kits, especially those that have never been operative, require so much time to repair that charges would be prohibitive.

Many kits are purchased through mail order houses. If you have problems after completing the kit, you may find it impossible to get it checked out or serviced without sending it back to the mail order house. Even after it has been in operation for some time and requires service, you may find it difficult to obtain.

The inexpensive kits are generally not very satisfactory for quality sound reproduction. The hum and distortion factor is high. The circuits are designed with a minimum of components and sometimes the components are operated at higher than normal values.

There are some excellent kits available such as those made by Dyna. These provide high quality stereo sound. The Dyna kits are available in separate units, a tuner kit, a pre-amplifier kit, and power amplifier kits. This form of construction is much easier for the kit builder than are the kits that combine the tuner preamp and power amp all in one complicated unit. It is easier to check each of the three separate units than an all-in-one receiver.

A WORD OF ADVICE. If you want to build a kit, purchase it from a reliable dealer that can help you with any problems that may arise, and that can service the kit when it needs repairs.

THE RAINS (THAT NEVER) CAME

A very strange winter, this past, so they say,
With barely the rain to float Santa Claus' sleigh.
By Christmas our hills should be emerald hue,
This year green patches were pathetically few.
Now summer winds are blowing in season
Giving hay-feverites a reason for sneezin'.
Marin hill-lovers, guard those little green patches—
Good grief, let's watch out for children with matches!

TIBURON — PATRICIA WARMAN REYNOLDS

On The Stereo Scene With Sunier

BATTLE MUSIC — BIBER: Battalia; MOZART: The Victory of the Hero Coburg; DANDRIEU: Les Caracteres de la Guerre; NEUBAUER: La Bataille — Angelicum Orchestra of Milan/Newell Jenkins — Nonesuch H-71146:

The offbeat form of "battle music" has fascinated me for a long time, and this LP brings four examples to light for the first time. None is great music; but historically, aurally, militarily, and even humorously this is a terrific album.

HEINRICH SCHUTZ: Symphoniae Sacrae — Nine Concerti from Book I — Helmuth Rilling, conductor — Nonesuch H-71160:

This is lavish, theatrical and regal-sounding church music from the world of pomp that was 17th Century Venice. It is more appealing to the ears of the average listener today than most of the sacred music of this period. The soloists are fine and stereo clearly aids the rather complex instrumental textures.

16TH CENTURY FRENCH ORGAN MUSIC — TITELOUZE: Hymns; ATTAIGNANT: Suite of Dances; Chanson — Xavier Darasse and Andre Isoir, organists — Turnabout TV 34126S:

This is the first time in the catalog for the first composer, and the only LP of music by the latter is also on Turnabout.

The tart voice-leading of this early music is interestingly highlighted on the pipe organ. In some ways it is more enjoyable than the choral music of the same period.

SAMMARTINI: Five Symphonies — Angelicum Orchestra/Jenkins —Nonesuch H-71162:

RAMEAU: Pieces de Clavecin en Concerts (Complete) — L'ensemble Alarius of Brussels — Pirouette JAS 19033:

These sparkling little pieces of descriptive dance stand somewhere between the solo harpsichord music of Rameau and his larger orchestra pieces such as the ballets. The harpsichord retains the major voice in these proceedings, and a different instrumental combination is added to fit the character of each of the five suites or "concerts." Eighteenth Century flute, violin, and bass viol are used.

RAMEAU: Pieces de Clavecin: Suite in A Minor — Nouvelles Suites de Pieces de Clavecin: Suite in A Minor — Kenneth Gilbert, harpsichord — Pirouette JAS 19036:

Two selections from the two sets of pieces for the harpsichord which the French Baroque composer wrote during the 1720s. The descriptive titles are fun to match with the music, seeing how close they fit.

I wonder if Rameau titled them before or after their composition? The casual listener will recognize many of the cheery little melodies.

The modern harpsichord used has a rich and full tone, not at all wirey or sour. It is also well recorded.

The Tricky Business Of Cutting Glass

Handyman's Page

Cutting a pane of glass to size is a quick and simple operation for a glazier. But it can be tricky and frustrating for a home owner who wants to replace a window pane and has some old glass he's like to use.

If you've had some prior experience at glass cutting, go ahead and cut.

Even if you haven't, you might want to try your hand at it. In the latter case, however, the chances are you'll wind up at the neighborhood hardware store asking for a piece of glass so many inches by so many inches.

IN MEASURING the dimensions of the window pane opening, be sure to deduct one-sixteenth of an inch from the length and the width. It is necessary that the pane be slightly smaller than the opening, which may shrink or warp at a later date and cause a too-tightly held piece of glass to crack or break.

Take out as much as you can, not forcing any pieces which resist. They will come out easily when the old putty is removed. Usually the old putty is brittle enough so that it yields easily to scraping. On rare occasions, it may be necessary to soften the putty with a soldering iron.

The tiny glazier's points that hold the pane in place should be removed carefully, flipping them out with the blade of a screwdriver or pulling them out with pliers.

WHILE THE old points often can be used again, it is better to buy new ones. Some come in boxes that contain a small tool for putting them in place easily.

The glazier's points —two on each side for an ordinary window — keep the glass in place. The putty or glazing compound that goes on last are to keep out moisture.

Most glaziers line the pane channel with a thin layer of putty before setting the glass in place. Others skip this step. In either case, once the glass and glazier's points are installed, long strips of putty are pressed into place, then smoothed with a putty knife at an angle so that rain rolls off it. The strips are made by rolling a piece of putty between the palms of your hands.

DIPPING THE putty knife into a pan of water every few minutes will keep the putty from sticking to it.

The putty will last longer if it is sealed and protected with paint. But do not paint it while it is still soft. Wait about 48 hours, then do the painting.

Remember these fundamentals: the glass cutter should be held at a high angle, almost vertically . . . apply firm even pressure to the cutter after its wheel has been lubricated with a small amount of household oil . . . use one of two methods to break off the glass while wearing gloves — hold the pane on either side of the cut and bend slightly or hold the length of the glass on a flat surface with the line of cut on the edge and break off the scrap.

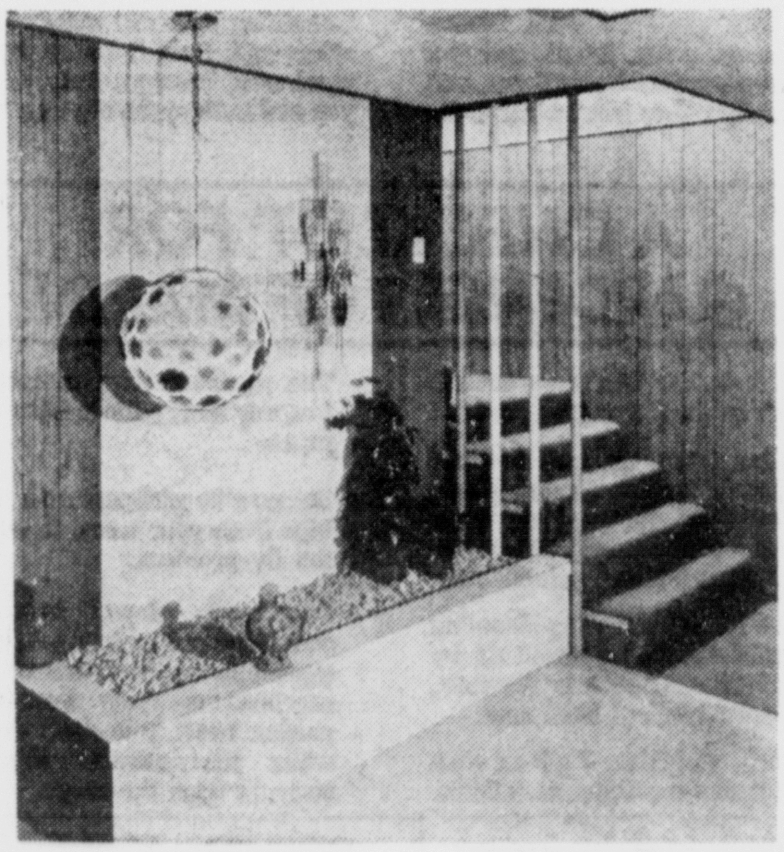
It's Different



THIS HOUSEWIFE wanted something different for the entrance to her remodeled basement recreation room. Her solution: A miniature rock garden for the accent area adjacent to the stairway, outlined with Marblestone, a hardboard in the motif of Travertine marble. The same material is repeated in the background, flanked by Masonite Royalcote in pecan woodgrain. The four poles are painted colorfully. Woodgrained paneling as used through the room can be seen along the stairs.

A ROCK GARDEN, once in place, sounds like a pretty permanent installation. But you can give it a "new look" without moving a single stone. Just change your plantings. At left, the gray-white leaves of Dusty Miller are the edging, backed by bright salmon geraniums. Peach Blossom petunias are massed among the rocks. At right, the same area. But here you have Wild Cherry zinnias edged with ageratum, with a few Carefree geraniums between the rocks with ageratum to soften them.

Here's How To Plan And Build Yourself A Rock Garden

Marinites seem to have a special affinity for rock gardens, perhaps because the materials are so readily available.

And summer is an ideal time for planning and building the rock garden, if only for the reason that the long days and vacations afford more time for the project.

The current growing season also enables you to make a wiser, better choice of the plantings for your rock garden.

FIRST, OF COURSE, select the location.

For best results it must have at least a full half day of sun and more is better, if you want to make a good show with flowering plants. Naturally, a steep slope or the vicinity of a rock outcrop is best.

Not everyone has such a location; but, by all means, avoid making a round pile in the middle of the lawn. Instead, place the garden in a corner, off to the side, next to a foundation or bordering steps.

IF THE LOCATION is level, make a change in grade.

Shovel out the soil a foot to 18 inches and slope it, perhaps, making two hills with a valley between. Then put in a six-inch layer of stones or gravel for drainage. On this replace the soil — with plenty of sand or gravel mixed in to improve drainage. (True alpines also prefer a good percentage, 25 per cent, of peat.)

With this develop your contour. Place your lowest stones — the biggest ones — and embed them well to make them look as though they have always been there. Then add your next layer with the spaces between filled with the mixture for the plants to grow in.

ALWAYS TRY TO place rocks horizontally and in a line so that they appear to be part of a stratum. Above all, avoid "dragon's teeth" — pointed rocks standing up. Next, avoid gaudy mica-infested rocks. And use all of one kind, not a museum collection of freak stones.

Continue to a reasonable height. Then place a few "outriding" stones to tie in the main groupings with the garden.

Now place your plants, using a narrow green thumb bulb trowel so you can dig between the rocks. Select only low, creeping plants — not flower border flowers. Yellow alyssum, aubrietas, low pinks, armerias, creeping phlox, miniature iris, spring and fall crocus, snowdrops, etc., are likely choices.

Culture is easy. Rarely feed, water when necessary and weed or loosen up the soil if required with a hand weeder.

'MUM POLL RESULTS IN

Plants That Like A Stingy Soil

Along with the climatic advantages he enjoys in Marin County, the gardener might just as well face up to the fact that this is likely to be somewhat offset by a poor soil lacking in nutrients.

There are two ways to combat this. You can improve the soil by enriching it with conditioners and fertilizer.

But what we want to discuss here is meeting the problem by selecting plants that are adaptable to stingy soils. For it is not always possible, or practical, to build up the soil.

ICE PLANT, for instance, is a groundcover that prefers a sterile soil. It loves sun, tolerates drought, and with its daisy-like flowers in a wide range of colors, it is one of the showiest plants around.

It can be purchased either as an annual or as an evergreen perennial. Bought in flats, it makes a luxuriant drape for a sunny wall or embankment, or a lush carpeting for a seldom-watered, sandy or rocky spot.

Rockroses, too, prefer poorer, leaner soils. They adapt well to the hot sun. And, growing low to medium in height, they produce lovely blossoms.

CALIFORNIA natives generally are a good bet for our soil, thriving where "imports" cannot survive.

California Native Lilac is a prime example, and will flourish in any problem area. These come in many forms, ranging from groundcovers to trees, and in many colors from white to indigo blue. More than 40 species are native to our state.

In case you don't recognize California Lilac, it is also known as the Ceanothus.

But it is far from the only California native that can be obtained at your nursery. Ask the nurseryman specifically for something that will get by in a stingy soil. He'll come up with a number of answers from which you can make your choice.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

- When you plant late summer annuals in your garden, shade them from the warm sun for a day or two, and water frequently until well established.
- The foliage of spring-blooming bulbs should be dried-off by this time. If such is the case, it should be cut back now.
- Keep watching tuberous begonias for signs of mildew. The most effective control is to spray before the mildew appears.
- Be sure to pick up fruit that falls from your trees, to avoid the fly problem.
- On warm days, fuchsias, camellias and hydrangeas are especially appreciative of an overhead spraying from the garden hose. But don't do it while the sun is shining strongly upon the shrub.

Keep The Color Going In Your Garden

Late Summer Planting Of Annuals Will Extend Blooming Into Autumn

Garden Pages

For the gardener, one of the great blessings of Marin's marvelously mild climate is that the summer annual season can be extended well into what is late autumn in other regions.

All you have to do to keep the color going is to continue planting bedding plants.

The nurseries here stock them in a wide variety and in good supply through August and well into September.

If your garden is beginning to lag a bit right now from summer doldrums, or if you see such trouble ahead, a July planting might be in order.

DWARF DAHLIAS are among the Marinite's best bets for July planting. Purchased in flats, they will not be showing color. But bought in pots, they will very likely already be flowering when you plant them.

Keep the faded blooms pinched back and head the plants occasionally, and you'll have dahlia color well into the fall. Pinching at planting time encourages a bushy growth and more blooms, so don't hesitate to sacrifice a bud or two at the start.

DWARF MARIGOLD is a well established summer stalwart in Marin gardens. They'll provide color almost the minute you transplant them from nursery flats, since many will be already at least partially in bloom.

These quick brighteners like the sun. They excel when massed in beds or used as a border along a garden walk.

Don't over-economize on dwarf marigolds. After all, they're cheaper by the flat than by the dozen, and your initial investment will pay off with generous dividends of bloom.

SOME OTHER "bedders" that will catch the eye with their color in late summer and autumn include the cockscomb, in their brilliant reds and orange, and the zinnias.

The last are available in nurseries now in many varieties, ranging from the pygmy-proportioned Thumbelinas to the towering California Giants. Use the small ones for mass bloom or border plantings, the taller varieties against a fence or wall.

Petunias, too, offer countless color opportunities, and are available now in almost any shade you might desire for a particular garden spot.

NEW PETUNIA varieties are introduced each year, and there is always the excitement of the discovery of a new one you have not previously encountered.

Many a Marin gardener yields to temptation and somewhere in the summer garden finds room for "just a few more" petunias.

Puffs of color from blue ageratum are another late summer favorite, as is the myriad of hues of the moss rose or Portulaca. Ageratum is a low-grower, while moss rose hugs the ground.

A COMPILATION of bedding plants particularly suited to Marin's late summer-fall needs wouldn't be complete without mention of the fibrous begonias. In partial morning sun or in the shade garden, these bedders will bloom for months on end in a color range from red through the pinks to white.

There are dwarf varieties as well as intermediate growers. A reddish-mahogany coloration of the foliage along with the more familiar soft green-leafed begonias provide yet another color choice.

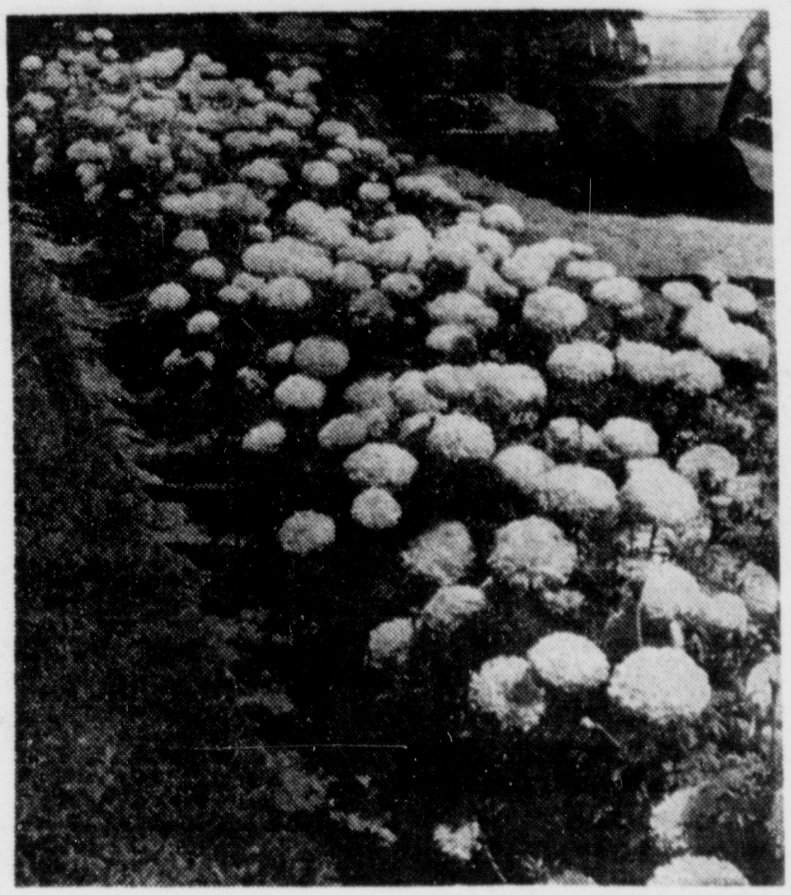
For that matter, almost all of the lower-growing summer bedding plants are superb choices for such containers as red clay pots or redwood tubs.



YOU CAN KEEP summer color going with late plantings of such annuals as the marigolds used here to make an attractive border. (Photo courtesy of California Association of Nurserymen)

ONE SUMMER bedding plant that is popular in other California sections, but has not received the attention it deserves in Marin, is the salvia or Scarlet Sage. Its small red blossoms are a delightful sight. So if you would like to make the summer "pepper-upper" in your garden something different this year, you might look into it.

Finally, to complete the list, there are the asters, the lobelias, the impatiens, all good selections for July-August planting.

With such a wealth of choices awaiting the gardener at the nearest nursery, there is really no excuse for late summer drabness in the flower beds.

1. Counternoid treats sore, swollen tissue injured by hemorrhoids.
2. No other product works like Counternoid to relieve pain.
3. Counternoid attacks a major cause of hemorrhoids.

New Counternoid was designed to provide more than ordinary surface treatment. Counternoid's exclusive formulation with DSS_{30}™ penetrates into the rectal area to soften, lubricate and ease painful constipation...one of the major causes of hemorrhoids. At the same time, Counternoid's formula works by coating and protecting injured tissue.

In hospital X-ray tests, doctors have demonstrated that Counternoid's exclusive formulation with DSS_{30} penetrates within minutes to the top of the rectum where it eases the pain of constipated bowel movements without laxative effect. When you use Counternoid as directed, you will do more than just lessen the pain and aggravation of hemorrhoids. With the unique action of DSS_{30} working against hard stool constipation, you will be helping to provide the best possible conditions for natural healing to take place. Only new Counternoid works this way to actually attack this major cause of hemorrhoids.

When used as directed, medically tested Counternoid offers the most complete 3-way relief you can get without prescription or painful surgery.

If you live with the pain and fear of recurring minor hemorrhoid troubles, get temporary relief with amazing new Counternoid.

New Counternoid is available in white, stainless cream and suppositories. With Counternoid there is no mess, no embarrassing stains. Now at all drug counters. For a trial supply, clip this coupon.

Box 155, Nutley, N.J. 07110

I am interested in new 3-way Counternoid and would like to receive a trial supply of both suppositories and cream. I enclose 25¢ in coin to cover mailing and handling.

WHY GLEASON LASTS

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Why do people like Ed Sullivan, Lucille Ball, Red Skelton and myself stay on the air year after year?" asked Jackie Gleason.

He supplied his own answer: "Because we appeal to the mature audience."

The globe-shaped comedian was in an analytical mood as he attacked his simple lunch of prime ribs of beef and two bottles of beer.

HE ASKED for a tall glass, but all the Paramount commissary could provide was a glass for ice cream sodas. He accepted it uncomplainingly, commenting, "I have drunk beer from every conceivable vessel."

Gleason was at the studio for filming of his second movie in a row, "How to Commit Marriage." He was working solo prior to the return of co-star Bob Hope, sidelined at the picture's start because of a recurrence of his eye ailment.

Reflecting on TV longevity, Gleason observed that the way to survive is to appeal to the older folks: "They're always at home, and they'll tune you in because they know they can count on a regular standard of entertainment.

"WHEN WE do 'The Honeymooners,' we get both the kids and the adults. For the variety shows, the audience is mostly adult — unless I put on one of the pop music acts, which I don't like to do.

"I think it's tough to last when you aim at the younger audience only. Take 'Laugh-ins.' Don't get me wrong — I think Dan Rowan and Dick Martin have done a terrific job with that show. They've used the 'hellzapoppin' technique to great advantage.

"But how are they going to keep it up? These kids nowadays are so sharp, so quick to catch on, that every gag, every gesture registers in their minds. They can repeat all the jokes and catch lines, and they do. But how soon are they going to tire of those things and want something else?"

GLEASON HIMSELF is planning no innovations for the coming season, although he is aiming for strong names as guest stars. It will be more of the same, and judging from his consistently high ratings, there's no need to change.

The Gleason technique, as he describes it, appears to be even more casual than Dean Martin's. Dino amazed his fellow stars by devoting no more than one day to his variety hour. Gleason said that he often reports to his show just in time to have a hair trim and get into costume.

"For 'The Honeymooners' we might have a one-hour run-through," he added. "Fortunately, I'm a fast study, and so are Art (Carney), Sheila (McRae) and Betty (Kean). We use cue cards only for the songs; it's too tough to learn the lyrics for four songs every show.

"OTHERWISE I don't use cue cards or teleprompters. I don't believe in them. Most of the actors on shows nowadays don't talk to each other anymore — they're too busy staring at their lines."

Come September, Gleason will be back in his favorite haunt of Miami Beach and starting a new season. He doesn't miss Hollywood.

Nor New York: "I sometimes wonder how I ever lived there, playing 18 holes every day at Toots Shor's bar."

He has even solved the need to come here for films: Next January he plans to co-star with Lucille Ball in "Diamond Jim Brady," to be filmed in Florida.

New Zenith Moderator

Ask us for a free demonstration. We think we can save you discomfort.
